POPE CLINGING TO LIFE, IN COMA, THEN LUCID

VATICAN CITY, Sunday (AP)-Pope John XXIII, in the third day of his mortal illness, sent special blessings to the world this Pentecost Sunday. The Vatican called the 81-year-old pontiff's physical resistance "extraordinary" but said again that there was no hone.

The 81-year-old pontiff had lucid moments in the third night of his mortal struggle, took swallows of water and repeated religious phrases, Vatican radio said at 6 a.m. (midnight Saturday EST). It said:

"The atmosphere of calm in the pontiff's room was not disturbed by any new events during the en-

vigilance," the broadcast said.

"The dozing which has been going on for 12 hours," said the radio, "was marked by intervals of brief moments of lucidity in the course of which the pontiff took some swallows of water.

'The situation remains at the same unchanged level of concern of the past days, added to which is the progressive loss of strength after more than 50 hours of crisis. The doctors who have kept close watch on the state of breathing and the pulse-which is regular-refrain from making any predictions.

The doctors continue the same grave opinion expressed over Friday and Saturday." (They said then there was no hope for survival.)

that the Roman Catholic ruler again was emerging from the coma that has gripped him in most of his hours of crisis.

It said the Pope experienced a few moments of lucidity, his pulse was good and his temperature had dropped to 100.4 degrees after having risen to 103.1 Saturday night.

"His condition remains stationary in its gravity," the announcement added,

A spokesman said there was no sign of immediate danger, indicating that the Vatican felt the Pope had hours-possibly days-to live. Prelates relaxed their vigil.

Council Recommendations

election, ninc City Councilmen—the entire member-ship—will be chosen from among the nominees picked in district voting at the primary.

Before the primary, we pointed out that there must be reliance upon district voters to select capable candidates for all of us to consider in June. This they did. In the field of 18 candidates there is ample talent from which to choose a Council which will wisely control the operation of the municipality in the next three years.

Because that responsibility will not only be heavy but will be complicated by many serious problems, we feel that the emphasis should be on experience in making Council selections. We therefore strongly endorse seven of the nominated incumbents. In the other two contests, we give our endorsement to men well-grounded in community affairs and by ability and temperament qualified to work with the Council veterans.

DIST. 1—Raymond C. Kealer, has long enjoyed and deserved the confidence of Long Beach voters. With an engineering background and intimate knowledge of the petroleum industry, his service is invaluable in dealing with the state on tidelands and oil questions. No one filed against Mr. Kealer in the primary and his opponent is on the ballot by virtue of a smattering of write-in votes. His reelection is a "must."

DIST. 2—Bert Bond, a sound business man, was elected in 1960 and renominated this year by overwhelming majorities, indicating a show of public confidence which we share. Mr. Bond's approach to issues is intel-ligent and analytical. His opponent has offered no reason for replacing this capable incumbent.

DIST. 3—Incumbent Lewis D. Rese has a long record of constructive accomplishment as a civic leader and public official. His advice and his vote have been consistently sound. He led in the development of the city's great Marina program and was a key worker for intelligent handling of the subsidence problem. His opponent, Dana Brown, is a respected citizen making a second try for this Council position. While we have nothing against Mr. Brown, we feel Mr. Reese's record and experience clearly call for his reelection.

DIST. 4—Attorney James Hayes is a young attorney who proved the overwhelming choice of district voters in the primary. He is qualified in every way to make a good Councilman. He is a student of municipal problems and his legal training and knowledge will be a valuable asset. We feel that city-wide voting should confirm the convincingly demonstrated opinion of district voters that he is an advantageous replacement for Andrew H. Baird, ouncil e has been short on accompl and long on calculated flamboyancy.

DIST. 5—Edwin W. Wade is a clear choice for reelection. He has given intelligent service as a Councilman and creditable leadership as Mayor in the last three years. His opponent, Walter E. Vincent, has provided no hasis for rejecting Mr. Wade's bid for reelection.

DIST. 6—Emmet M. Sullivan has served well on the Council, giving hardheaded consideration of every issue. As a former harbor commissioner, he is versed in harbor affairs as they relate to Council action. He gave excellent service this year as chairman of a committee named to study county supervisor district revision. He is intimately acquainted with the problems of city-state relationships. His opponent, Huey Shepard, is a respected attorney, but experience and demonstrated ability call for reelection of the incumbent.

DIST. 7—Our endorsement goes to Robert F. Crow, a capable business man with a talent for public service. Mr. Crow has demonstrated courage and ability. He is articulate and personable and another victory over Harold E. Perkins, who opposed him last time, is clearly justified.

DIST. 8-William A. (Bill) Graham has proved to be one of the sound heads on the Council, worthy of the overwhelming district ballot victory he won in May. On the solid theory that one good term deserves another, we endorse his candidacy wholeheartedly, without prejudice toward his opponent, Mercer Martin.

DIST 9—Virgil Spongberg, who served in this position long and well, chose to retire this year and has given his endorsement to R. E. (Pat) Corbett. We share this opinion of Mr. Corbett, who has been active in civic affairs, has served as city civil service commissioner and has demonstrated qualifying capabilities for good Council service. The other nominee is Otho R. Cordray, city park commissioner with a commendable desire to broaden his public service. The top district vote went to Mr. Corbett and he has our warm endorsement.

Such is our appraisal of the Council contests. We have sought to be fair but, as the voter must, have faced up to the necessity of making a decision. The men we have endorsed will make a strong Council. Our endorsements are offered on the basis of our interest in the welfare of Long Beach. To no individual, business or organization are its prosperity and progress more important.

Voters Set to Select 9 Councilmen

35 to 40 Percent Expected to Go to Polls Tuesday

By BOB HOUSER

An estimated 50,000 to 58,000 Long Beach voters will elect nine councilmen to three-year terms Tuesday and mark decisions on eight bailot measures.

Political observers, cautious after overestimating the May 14 primary vote which totaled less than 23 percent, lowest primary mark since 1919, made the estimate. It is 35 to 40 percent of the total of registered voters.

CITY CLERK Margaret Heartwell estimates from 33 to 40 percent of the city's 145,105 registered voters will cast ballots. Among the indicators, she said, is a pickup in absentee-ballot activity-239 ballot requests as against 100 in the primary.

Voters will mark an X beside nine names in the councilmanic section of Tuesday's ballot. In the primary they could select only the nominee from their own district, but Tuesday's vote is citywide and every voter has his say in all nine council contests.

EIGHT incumbents seek re-election. Virgil H. Spong-berg did not run again in his 9th District.

The lineup: Incumbent Raymond C. Kealer and photographer Henry J. Kosman in the 1st District; Thomas W. Blodgett, public relations, and Bert B. Bond, incumbent, in the 2nd: Dana E. Brown, businessman, and Lewis D. Reese, incumbent, in the 3rd; Andrew H. Baird, incumbent, and James A. Hayes, attorney, in the 4th; Walter E. Vincent, retired, and Edwin W. Wade, incumbent, in the 5th; Huey P. Shepard, attorney, and Emmet M. Sullivan, incumbent, in the 6th: Robert F. Crow. incumbent, and Harold E. Perkins, general contractor, in the 7th; W. A. When Capt. Halvar Moy of the Norwegian freighter Porsanger saw flames off his port bow, he instinctively slowed his huge ship to investigate.

Because Moy saw flames in the night, and because five of his crewmen went out to investigate in a motor lifeboat, six Salt Lake City, Utah people were safe and sound Saturday in a downtown Long Beach hotel.

One of these is uranium prospector Robert M. Barrett, 51, said to be given to "striking out when the urge moves him."

THE "URGE" came last week and Barrett, his wife, Lenore, 29, Barrett's daughter, Pat, 19, and three friends set out from Long Beach Harbor in their $50-000, 79-foot yacht "Lenore" heading for Kodiak, Alaska "to do a little prospecting in our 49th State."

L.B.'s MAN OF MYSTERY

DID HE OWE $4.5 MILLION?

Until the early morning hour of May 13, there had been but one public image of Ahe Tenenbaum. Well known in Long Beach, he was considered a shrewd, successful businessman, a community-minded, philanthropic citizen, a gentle devoted Then, on May 13, Abe Tenebaum died. The fact and manner of his death were of his own choosing. He swallowed poison. But with his death, Tenenbaum suddenly became the focal point of the most provocative mystery in the 75-year history of Long Beach. Fact and fiction are so closely interwoven that they may never be completely separated.

One faction claims that the public image of Tenenbaum, based on fact, is generally accurate though possibly overgenerous. Other Tenenhaum acquaintances portray the financier as a desperate man, manipulating a vast financial empire to keep it from crumbling and crushing his friends and relatives. Still another group point out that there are rumors, unconfirmed, that picture Tenenbaum as a poor businessman, a gambler and an opportunist.

Rumors, unconfirmed but in general circulation, portray Tenenbaum as a man who: I. Had a personal indebtedness of $4.5 million.

2. Had a reckless yen to gamble large sums at

3. Had borrowed huge sums of money and then had to borrow larger sums at outlandish interest rates to pay back earlier creditors.

4. Had been an astute businessman all his life but suddenly and unwisely extended himself far beyond his capacity.

Abe Tenenbaum came to Long Beach from San Diego more than 30 years ago. He developed his American Jewelry and Loan Co. at 35 Pine Ave. into a prosperous headquarters for enterprises which ultimately included another jewelry store, an auction house, a share of an immensely successful chain of discount stores, a share of an ambitious

L.a.C. Says: Tuesday Election

During the past week in the daily Independent this column has discussed in detail all of the eight propositions to be found on next Tuesday's Long Beach city election ballot. In the following I will summarize the reasons for the recommendations given below. The election of city councilmen for the nine councilmanic districts will be by citywide vote. My recommendations for the council are:

6th Dist. Sulliyan 1st Dist. Kealer 2nd Dist. Bond 7th Dist. Crow 3rd Dist. 8th Dist. Graham Reese 4th Dist. Hayes 9th Dist. Corbett Wade 5th Dist.

Prop. A is the most important proposition on the ballot because it would permit the use of tideland oil money to guarantee $60 million of bonds to be issued by the World's Fair Corporation. Since this is use of public money, the city council should provide for adequate representation on the executive committee of this corporation to protect the public interest. It is not a bond issue involving obligations on property owners. It would be tideland oil money expected to come from drilling under the ocean in front of the city. The money could only be used with permission of the State Lands Commission-which would be expected to also provide adequate safeguards. Because these safeguards can be expected—and because the world's fair would be a great asset-we recommend a Yes vote on Prop A.

Prop B, if approved, would also permit the use of tideland oil money. This would apply to use of $1,-265,000 to demolish Belmont Pier and replace it with a new facility. This expenditure is also dependent upon approval of the State Lands Commission. These tideland oil funds can only be used on the tidelands for specific purposes. For these reasons a Yes vote is recommended.

Prop. I would permit the city council to issue up to $5 million of gas department revenue bonds to be used in an emergency for repairs in event of earthquake or other disaster-or for acquisition of other gas companies serving the city-or for securing of new gas resources. The bonds-if issued-would be repaid from gas department revenues. Because the reserve fund is needed, a Yes vote is recommended.

Prop. 2 would increase the length of time the city council could grant franchises. The present maximum term is 35 years. This would be increased to 60 years under Prop. 2. This would encourage public utility companies to make greater expenditures because of the longer period to liquidate the expenditures. A Yes vote is recommended on Prop. 2.

Prop. 3 would extend the Harbor Department maximum term for leases or permits to 60 yearsfrom the present 40 years. For the same reasons as above we recommend a Yes vote on Prop. 3.

Prop. 4 eliminates the fees now required from applicants for leases or permits in the harbor. It would have little effect on income-but would eliminate confusion and irritations under the present system. A Yes vote is recommended on Prop. 4.

Prop. 5 would change the procedure in the Harbor Department as concerns granting of leases and permits. Short-term leases-less than five years-could be granted by resolution-rather than by ordinances. It would cut down the waiting period and would permit posting of notices of board action rather than publishing same in newspapers. It is estimated the cost of publishing now runs less than $2,000 a year. Publishing gives wider reader opportunity for those interested than does posting. I do not think the difference is of great importance. For this reason and because this involves newspaper advertising, I will make no recommendation on Prop. 5.

Prop. 6 would increase the pay to city councilmen to $400 a month. It has been $200 a month for the past 15 years. If the amount of time given by city councilmen was computed, it would probably show them putting in close to 200 hours a month. They are responsible for service to 350,000 people and a budget of over $30 million a year. It is true we have had councilmen who would be a liability at any price. But the great majority of present and past councilmen have been honorable and able people. Because I believe the job calls for a greater income a Yes vote is

People of Long Beach

Dear Friends: Long Beach is entering a new period of prosperity and sound development.

I am sure you have noticed, as I have, the growing optimism and enthusiasm for building a better Long Beach that exists throughout the City.

Long Beach's future will stay bright so long as you continue to take an active interest in your City government.

I hope each of you will demonstrate your good citizenship by going to the polls and voting in the City election, Tuesday, June 4. Thank you.

GIRLS PRAY FOR SUPREME PONTIFF Schoolgirls kneel in St. Peter's Square in Vatican City to pray for the dying Pope John XXIII.

The pontiff's three brothers and sister also watched over him. The sister, 76-year-old Assunta, dabbed his forehead with a dampened handkerchief.

The pontiff's doctors late Saturday night had ordered suspension of all visits, even those by cardinals, but the Vatican press office said Archbishop Angelo dell'Acqua, Vatican substitute secretary of state, entered the papal apartment at 2:15 a.m. and left a few minutes later.

His mission was not disclosed.

Outside in St. Peter's Square, below the papal apartment, thousands prayed for a miracle. His doctors said that was the only thing that could save the tenant farmer's son who became the spiritual ruler of the world's half billion Catholics.

Men of many faiths around the world prayed for his recovery, but the Vatican held out no hope that he could fight back from the onslaught of a stomach tumor, hemorrhages and peritonitis, an inflammation of the abdomen's lining.

His doctors were surprised that the pontiff held on so long since he took a critical turn early Friday, received the last sacraments of the church and quietly asserted his readiness to give up his life for Christian unity and world peace.

"I have been able to follow the course of my death step by step," he told a prelate in a period of lucidity. "Now I am going sweetly toward the end."

The pontiff suffered periods of pain and difficulty in breathing, and at times was administered oxygen, but visitors to the room said he maintained a serene look at all times.

"John XXIII has always taught us to live well," one caller to the papal apartment told the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano. "Now he is showing us how one can and must die well."

The few visitors permitted into the papal chamber said tears welled in their eyes as they watched the scene.

In her lap was a silver bowl filled with water. From time to time she dipped a white handkerchief in the water were there with groups of and dabbed the Pope's forehead.

VATICAN CITY, Sunday (P)—The faithful stood their ground in St. Peter's Square early today--the third day in a row that crowds watched and prayed as their pope lay Late Saturday night thou-sands were still keeping up the watch. As the night wore on many drifted homeward. But hundreds stayed on.

It had been a day of comings and goings.

ROMANS and tourists had surged in to the graceful wheel-shaped piazza from every approach. Many had come to pray, others just to sight-

Even after the golden Roman sunset thousands stayed on in the glow of the piazza lights. To get a better view, youths climbed up the shafts of the four ornate lampposts grouped around the obelisk n the heart of the square.

THERE was a constant buzz of sound, conversation and prayers, punctuated by the strident noises of traffic surging along the streets leading to and from St. Peter's.

But after midnight, a cool calm fell over the square. The sightseerers were gone and only the devout, a few hundred of them, remained.

A quarter moon bathed the ancient cobblestone in silver. The traffic noises were gone from the deserted streets. Now the only sounds were the cool whispers of the piazza's twin fountains and the soft murmur of prayers from those who were left.

First Mate Henning Knarvik of the Porsanger recaled Saturday that "at first we thought a big ship had gone down."

"WE SAW three people in a large dinghy and others floating in life jackets and we moved slowly back and forth looking for wreckage and more survivors," Knarvik said

CAPTAIN Moy extended the hospitality of the ship, putting the survivors into the passenger staterooms aboard his vessel and then continued his vovage for the Port of Long Beach.

When the Porsan'ger docked late Friday, the Barrett party checked into the Breakers International Hotel for the night. Saturday they astonished clerks at Buffum's department store who viewed six people in wrinkled, torn sports clothing walk in and start buyclothes "like they thought they might go out of style."

The wealthy Utah sportsman and his party left for home before noon Saturday and Lillehjam, Blomseth and Saeverud left the Porsanger to take part in a "futball" soccer game in San Pedro.

TODAY, Knarvik and Tveat leave Long Beach on a flight back to their native Bergen, Norway "for a three month vacation we had been planning."
And today, the five-year-old Norwegian freighter Porsanger leaves Long Beach Harbor to continue its voyage around South America.

But everyone involved in the near-tragedy of the Lenore has his memories of the incident.

that the Pope's case looked "pretty hopeless."

BUT, he added, he does not expect the Pope to die of cancer. "I think it will be peritonitis that will take his life. The ductors are ireating that with the normal medication for it, but it may have gone too far." He said he understood that there was a perforation of the Pope's stomach after the tumor broke.

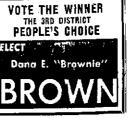

Rand said the experimental serum sent to the Vatican was not yet on the market and is not yet a regular, or even special, treatment for cancer.

"It's an experimental serum. It has been used on about 100 persons and all have been terminal cancer patients, that is, those who were destined to die from the disease.

"We have had some very remarkable results from the drug," he added. "It has extended the life span of several of those treated far beyond what had been predicted because of the advanced stage of cancer.

"IT IS not a cancer cure in the sense of the word, but then you don't know if a medicine or drug is a sure until it has been used for 10 years or so.
"Right now," he said,

"we know that it has had some good results. We are using it as a cancer arrester. It has been halting the spread of the cancer and permitting remission, that is, the maintaining of the status quo, and thus allowing the victims to live longer than might have been expected."

REP. EDWIN E. WILLIS

Walter's Successor Selected

WASHINGTON (A)-Quiet, hard-working Rep. Edwin E. Willis, 58, a Democrat from the bayou country of Louisiana, becomes chairman of the House Committee on un-American Activities with the death Friday of Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa.

Willis has been acting chairman of the committee since early this year, as a result of Walters' illness and the death of Rep. Clyde Dovle, D-Calif.

A lawyer who prefers to do most of his work and talking in committee, rather than on the House floor, Willis now is serving his 8th term in the House.

WILLIS has worked closely with Walter in the past on committee matters and says that under his leadership there will be no change in committee policy.

The Louisianian has presided over more than half of the committee hearings in recent years and has joined in backing the committee's legislation aimed at protecting the country from Communists and other groups considered by the committee to be sub drafting bills requiring Communists to register and in set-ting up the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Willis has been a member of the House Judiciary Committee since he first came to Congress in 1949. With the death of Walter, he advances to the position of fourth Democrat on that group,

ONE OF HIS big interests in Congress has been tidelands legislation. This involves ownership of the offshore, submerged lands in the Gulf of Mexico, a matter of considerable importance to Louisiana.

Willis currently is chief Louisiana negotiator in discussions with the Interior and Justice departments as to the determination of the Louisi ana coast line. This line is difficult one to agree upon because of the many indenta-tions, bays, islands and shift ing sands in the area.

He also is author of a bill which would give Louisians ownership of offshore, sub merged lands out 10½ miles from its coastline, once that coastline is settled.

The Supreme Court some years ago decreed that Texas and Florida's ownership ex tends 101/2 miles but that the state boundaries of Louisiana and other Gulf Coast states extend only to the three-mile

"I think we're on the threshhold of a full-fledged revolt that will bring down the walls of segregation," he said.

Both the President and his brother met with or planned to meet with Southern theater owners and retail merchants to urge them to head off disorders by desegregating their establishments.

Mr. Kennedy also was debating whether to address a plea to the nation for intensified efforts to combat discrimination,

THE SITUATION was admittedly serious and was spreading to Northern and Western states. Some officials foresaw riotous mobs in city streets unless responsible citizens set out to preserve law and order.

Some cities recognized this and began desegregating peacefully. Many formed bi-racial committees to work out agreements. The administration's concern was underscored by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson in a Memorial Day speech at Gettysburgh, Pa., where Abraham Lincoln eloquently pleaded for a new birth of freedom.

Johnson called on North and South, Negro and white "to lead the way through this moment of challenge and decision." He added that "until justice is blind to color, until education is unaware of race, until op-

An Austrian newspaper Le Monde (Luh-Mahnd) st week said the "Amerisaid President Kennedy extension of the U.S. lease was forced to try to settle on bases in Spain. the Negro problem with THE PRESIDENT must think of his legislative program, which can be adopted only if he is not opposed by Congress, and his reelection in 1964, which cannot be assured without the support from the South," The Belgian newspaper (La Libre Belgique La Leebra Behl-Zsheek), commented on U.S. foreign policy. It said Washington is nearly continuously inspired by the foreign policy of the U.S.S.R . . to counter Russia the United States has not ceased supporting in the world national socialist movements, as do the Russians. . Communism makes a marvelous use of the slogan of 'liberation of man' or 'liberation of the peoples.' American ideology has followed it on this dangerous road. . .' The French newspaper Combat (Cahm-ba) said Spain wants Washington to give her equal rights with

Caltech Lab Bounces Radar Impulse Off Mercury

Scientists at the Cali-fornia Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory have successfully bounced radar signals off the planet Mercury, 60,500,000 miles out in

ond, the signals took 11 minutes to make the 121,-000,000-mile trip.

Preliminary analysis of the echo patterns indicates that Mercury has a rougher surface than either Venus or Mars, with a surface reflectivity approximately the same as the earth's moon.

FIRST contact was made with Mercury on May 6 by the dish-shaped, 85-foottransmitter - receiver near Goldstone Dry Lake, 50 miles north of Barstow in the Mojave Desert.

At that time, the small planet was approaching its closest proximity to the earth. The experiments were conducted 12 hours a

Discussive Rundown on the Propositions in Tuesday Voting

ADOPTION OF PROP. A on Tuesday's Long Beach general election ballot is the necessary first step toward a sensible and frugal method of financing the construction on public property of the physical plant for the 1967-68

It authorizes the City Council to work out an arrangement whereby up to $60 million of tidelands oil funds can be used to guarantee construction revenue bonds issued by the non-profit fair ognanization. It applies only to construction, not general fair administration.

Such a guarantee will materially reduce the interest rates on the bonds, saving millions which can be used for expanding the fair facilities for public use long after the exposition closes.

Opposing arguments on Prop. A include the contention that it is unwise to commit tidelands funds for the suggested purpose, raise the question as to what will happen if tidelands funds are not available in view of current controversies, forecast the possibility of tax problems if the proposition passes, and suggest the danger of difficult traffic problems if a fair is held on Pier J.

We feel that these arguments are generally based on misinformation or irrelevancies and should be rejected by voters in giving resounding approval of Prop. A.

Prop. A does not authorize a municipal bond Issue, it does not involve tax money in any way, it does not obligate the citizens of Long Beach "to come to the rescue" with tax money if tidelands oil funds are not available or if there is a fair deficit.

It simply authorizes setting aside tidelands funds for guarantee purposes if and when available. Top economic analysis forecast revenue for a successful fair which will more than pay off the revenue bonds issued, so it is unlikely even tidelands funds will be actually spent. But if WALTER T. RIDDER they are, such expenditure is fully justified by the general economic benefits of the fair and the permanent improvements to be made for public use and ownership.

A majority vote for this proposition is necessary (1) to meet the city charter requirement for a vote when tidelands funds are authorized for any purpose and (2) to initiate the financing guarantee program. The vote will give the city permission to undertake an agreement with the fair organization and to then take the matter to the State Lands Commission for approval under the tidelands fund procedures set up in state law.

A strong favorable vote will demonstrate the support of the people of this community for a project of immense economic and cultural benefit to Long Beach, Southern California and the entire state. We heartily endorse it.

PROPOSITION B authorizes $1,265,000 in tidelands funds for the construction of a new Belmont Pier.

Supporters note that the normal life of a fishing pier is about 30 years, and Belmont Pier was built more than leaves the 45 years ago. It has holes in its flooring; its handrails are rusting; its pilings are deteriorating. Opponents argue that the there are already millions of dollars committed against the might have a tideland oil money.

Our recommendation: "Yes." Piers are a major but inexpensive feature of recreation in this ocean community and should be maintained for the benefit of the scores of fishermen and strollers who use them each day. The project does not involve an outlay of tax money or call for a

PROPOSITION 1 is a charter amendment revising Municipal Gas Department financial procedures. It allows expenditures from the $700,000 Gas Reserve Fund by a two-thirds vote of the Council, allows repayment to be spread over two years and, most important allows the Council by two-thirds vote to issue Gas Revenue Bonds up to $5 million for emergency use for repairs in case of disaster, to secure new gas supplies and to purchase new

This proposition would allow the city to purchase facilities in annexed areas and service them through the municipal system. It is expected that the facilities purchased would return enough profit to pay for themselves.

Arguments against the proposition center around the fact that the Gas Department makes a profit and that this profit should be used for such purpose instead of being transferred to the General Fund. Proponents point out that if this were done the property tax rate would have to be increased some 30 cents to make up the difference.

Our recommendation calls for a "yes" vote on the solid ground that this will allow for emergencies and expansion of the gas supply and system without the danger of the general taxpayer having to pick up the bill.

PROPOSITION 2 increases the maximum term of franchises the city may grant to public utilities from 35 to

Proponents argue that the city make leases for 60 years and should have the same power with regard to franchises; that long-term franchises encourage investments which keep plants efficient and tend to lower rates to customers.

One known opponent argues that future generations should be allowed to make their own business arrangements with utility companies.

Our recommendation: "Yes." Utilities are regulated by public agencies, and this and future generations are protected. Long-term franchises encourage long-term capital improvements which in turn give the public lower utility rates that otherwise would not be possible.

PROPOSITION 3 extends to the Harbor Board authority to enter into leases for a 60-year term.

Proponents argue that the present limit of 40 years often prevents development of major port industries which tion rather than ordinance. A third provision would permit can't be amortized in that period of time.

Opponents state that additional power should not be granted an appointed commission over which the citizens have no direct control.

long-time financing of improvements is the decisive

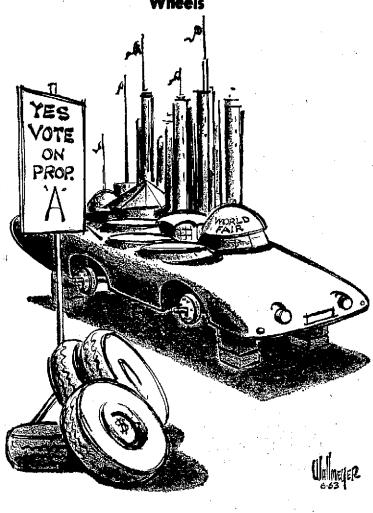

PROPOSITION 4 is a proposal for changes in Harbor Dept, procedures. It would permit eliminating imposition of fees to accompany applications for short term (under five years) grants and permits in the harbor area. Harbor officials say the fees are unnecessary and are burdensome upon administration.

This proposition also eliminates a 30-day waiting period for short-term leases and grants by the Harbor Dept, Harbor officials say this is an unnecessary restric- to $400 a month,

The con arguments on this proposal are that fees should be imposed equally on all applicants and that the waiting period should be retained because some short-term leases can be quite important.

We accept the opinions of Harbor officials that the changes are fair and in accordance with good administration and recommend a Yes vote on No. 4.

PROPOSITION 5 would permit the Harbor Commission to acquire property by minute order or resolution rather than by ordinance, and also would permit authoriz-ing short-term franchises, permits and leases by resolu-

The Arizona senator has shown a reluctance to become involved in the contest, but his reluctance is getting less and less. At all events, whether or not this theory materializes, there's enough political lure to it to give a boost to the candidacy, announced or unannounced, of Goldwater.

There's little question but that the Arizonan will go into the Republican convention with more than a handful of delegates and probably as the sentimental favorite of the assemblage. He is these days "Mr. Republican" and as such will command the devotion if not the votes of most of the delegates. The Ecuadorian government is being hard pressed by its own citizenry, by its newspapers, and by its Communist party, to stand up for its rights, using the full might of a small fleet donated by the United States as part of an outlay of $142.9 million in aid funds, and plainly it is a crisis there if it is not here. This is part of the reward for putting off nation-to-nation negotiations on territorial limits, a difficult subject everyone hoped would just somehow go away if it

Causes Produce Inevitable Effects

EDITOR:

There is a time to all things, and to all things conditions are the harbingers of the cause. When certain conditions of Mother Nature, for instance, exist, and when they reach a certain point or climax, they bring about the causes of such phenomena as rainstorms, cyclones, earthquakes, tornadoes, volcanoes, and the like.

These we realize as inevitable: therefore we react in an intelligent manner towards them by doing what is necessary to adjust ourselves to these conditions.

There are also conditions in these United States, and there always have been, enthusiastic. In 1964, that shape today than he was a which foster various occurrences. As an example, today as a champion of democracy.

Opposition was by all means evident at the time of the Declaration of Independence. There has never been anything accomplished that was worthwhile without opposition. Just as the Declaration of Independence de-clared the colonists' freedom, so does the Constitution give us today our freedom of speech and of action, as long as it is carried on in an intelligent and decent way. Inventions have also met opposition. The locomotive was opposed by many people, just as our modern jets were. But who would dare have these conveni-ences discontinued today? Here we again turned to our intelligence and a d j u s t e d ourselves accordingly.

Thus, let us, as intelligent Americans consider, when the conglomeration of conditions reach certain stages there are causes that are incumbent to every individual and determined results are

International Fair 'Poorly Handled' EDITOR:

After all the bally-hoo concerning the "so - called" International Fair which your paper gave codles of publicity to, which took place recently at the Municipal Arena, I can only say that if this is construed as an International Fair then it does not augur well for Long Beach to be named the "International City."

I am hopeful this "Fair" was not approved nor sponsored by either the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce or the Long Beach Harbor Department, since it seems to me to have been poorly handled by the promoters, and it also seems incredible the whole venture was not properly checked before crowning it with its grandiose title. vote "YES" on

Proposition "A" is a measure that will permit the City of Long Beach to set aside in a city controlled trust account certain Tideland Oil funds, with the normal approval of the State Lands Commission, to underwrite the construction of many publicly owned buildings - which will remain after the California World's Fair for public benefit and use. This will he done at no cost to the taxpayer as it involves Tideland Oil funds only and not general City funds.

PROPOSITION "A" IS - a sound measure to promote Long Beach and the State of California through the establishment of a world wide attraction - the California World's Fair.

PROPOSITION "A" IS -a permissive measure to allow the City to utilize, in a trust account, Tideland Oil funds to underwrite the construction of many needed publicly owned buildings on our shoreline.

PROPOSITION "A" IS-carefully designed to fulfill all the necessary requirements for qualification as a legal expenditure of Tideland Oil funds.

PROPOSITION "A" IS-supported by thousands of feading citizens from every part of the community and by many of the leading civic organizations.

PROPOSITION "A" IS-your opportunity to Join with your fellow citizens in supporting the establishment of the California World's Fair for Long Beach.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT - a bond issue.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT — a tax measure and will in NO way increase the taxes of any Long Beach resident.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT - a promotion scheme but is a sound program for progress of our City approved by the City Council and City Attorney.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT - a downtown program but is designed to benefit the entire community North, South, East and West.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT—a political measure but is a sound economic proposal that will save millions of dollars in financing costs which the Fair has pledged to invest in much needed public buildings for your use and benefit.

Pamper, calf at the Sixth Annual Great Western Fair & Dairy Show, and Sharon Wagner, 16 mos., of Los Angeles, have something in common—both decided to rest for a spell. The show at The Great Western Exhibit Center, Santa Ana Freeway and Atlantic, closes today; hours, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Children under 16 free, adults, 50 cents.

Archbishop Planning Rock 'n Koll Party

LONDON (UPI) - Dr. Michael Ramsey, the Archbishop Canterbury, is making plans for his first rock 'n' roll party.

He will be host to 1,500 teen-agers at London's Lambeth Palace June 29 as part of a Church Youth Council holiday weekend

Re-Elect Bert BOND

COUNCILMAN Second District

As Vice-Mayor and Councilman, Bert Bond has represented the Second District with dignity and distinction. He has been a real asset in the successful conduct of the business of our City government. Long Beach needs men like Bert Bond on the City Council.

ELECTION, TUESDAY, JUNE 4

Walter Shaw Advances in Y Standing

Advancement to Senior YMCA Secretary in the International YMCA movement has been conferred on Walter S. Shaw, executive secretary of the North Long Beach Branch of the YMCA, by the Board of Certification of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America.

The certificate was made Superior Court Judge Beach Vasey, president of the

degree, 30 additional semes-SHAW ter hours in courses in YMCA history, philosophy, administration and program and two years of experience as a Junior YMCA Secretary.

Before coming to Long Beach, Shaw was executive secretary of the East Pasadena-Temple City Branch of the Pasadena YMCA.

Japan's Protestant Membership Gains

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's Prolestant Christian churches registered a 3 per cent gain in membership during 1962 for a total of 407,232, the Japan National Christian Council re ported.

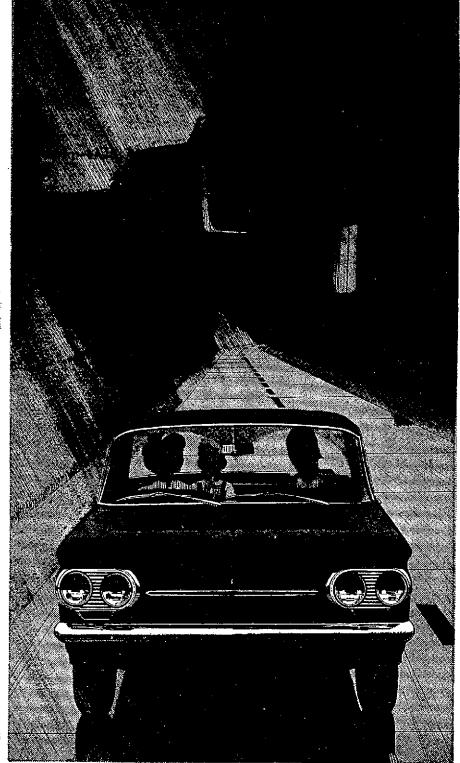

It said the total figure of Protestants may be higher because up-to-date statistics are not available for about half of the 78 denominations here. Of those reporting, the survey showed the largest was the United Church of Christ with a total of 18 members.

Vacations go smoother in a Chevrolet Corvair

Bring on those mountains! They're not so high and mighty when you've got Corvair's gutty six and rear-engine traction working on them.

You scurry right up the meanest grades. You move with sure-footed agility on wet pavement, muddy lanes, loose gravel and other would-be miseries.

And with most of Corvair's weight bearing down on the rear wheels, you have an easy time steering, too. Fact is, the handling's so light and responsive we don't even offer power steering for the car.

And there's more to feel good about. No problems with your

radiator boiling over or going dry, because there's no radiator. Corvair's engine is air cooled. No concern about brake adjustments, either, because the brakes adjust themselves. Nothing much to think about at all except the good time you're having (and maybe the next mountain you're going to flatten).

Like to do that in a sporty bucket-seated Monza Club Coupe or Convertible? Like to spring into summer with a 4-speed stick shift* and Spyder package* with its 150-hp Turbocharged engine, special instrumentation and insignia? Your dealer's got just the Corvair and the Trade 'N' Travel deal on it to put you in a holiday mood.

After completing his four years in the service he started working for UARCO business firms, then the General Telephone Directory Co. in Long Beach. In 1952 he entered the Charles E. Wright Agency, worked there until '54, was with Walker and Lee, Inc., until 1959, was general manager for Ellis-Schrader Co. until Mr. Wright decided to retire and he offered him his real estate business. He now has a large sales force and is a very successful realtor doing business at

Mr. Conn is very active on many committees of the Long Beach District Board and one of our busiest civic leaders.

The Turning Point in Her Life

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)-Rod Taylor, an Australian who came to Hollywood almost 10 years ago, has slowly worked his way out of television's apprenticeship for actors and into the big league of motion pictures.

Since he made his first American movie in 1955, Taylor has graduated from such films as "Hell on Frisco Bay" to top roles in "The Birds," "A Gathering of Eagles" with Rock Hud-son, and "V.I.P." co-starring Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. He's now co-starring with Jane Fonda in "Sunday in New York."

"Much of what has happened to my career is because of my 'Hong Kong' TV series," Rod said.

"Before that series there was a ru-mor that this kid knew his acting he explained, "Many Kong' fans were in the movie industry. That series went out of produc-

Taylor is a handsome man but he's quick to admit that he's not one of Hollywood's pretty boy actors. And he's glad of it.

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH I saw no reason why Win-

Winonly-a horse labeled strictly a sprinter-thumbed his long snoot at the experts Saturday and sacked the mile and one-sixteenth $122.300 Californian in convincing fashion before 50,-190 witnesses at Hollywood

The six-year-old "1962. sprint king of Hollypark" was in the race only because his trainer, Cotton Tinsley, had faith in the

Nobody figured Winonly could traverse a distance of more than a mile-except Tingley who was so certain his charge had the necessary stamina that he persuaded owner Fred W. Hooper to chunk in a $5.000 supplementary fee only last Tuesday. (Winonly wasn't nominated in the original entry list, thus had to fork over a late charge of $5,000 to enter Saturday's classic.)

For his tardy investment, Mr. Hooper received a check in the amount of $77,300 Saturday . . . and that beats any bank interest yet conceived.

Winonly (the second favorite) returned $10.60. The place horse, Mr. Consistency (8-1), was threefourths of a length behind the winner, while the 12horse field's longest shot, Harpie (43-1), was a distant five lengths in arrears of the No. 2 finisher.

Johnny Longden's favored Four-And-Twenty (7-2) wound up eighth after shooting his bolt on the early pace.

Tinsley confessed not only his personal appreci-ation of Winonly's talents, but also his lack of respect for the other steeds in Saturday'5 field.

"I took a look at the weights, saw we would be nto the American League assigned only 115 pounds. batting lead at .349 with two glanced at the other competitors and convinced Mr. It was the Angels' fourth Hooper that we should enter the race," admitted ictory in five meetings with Baltimore and it is significant Tinsley. that the Angels have won

"I didn't think that there was any real outstanding horse in the field, therefore only couldn't travel a little farther than usual to win

"Truthfully, after his second and third place finishes in his last two races, I began to wonder if my horse was tailing-off. But once I got a look at those weights, I had to enter him."

(Only two horses packed more weight than Winonly -Four - And - Twenty with 123 and defending race champion Cadiz with 119but Winonly still was dropping poundage off his most recent events.)

Did Tinsley have fears about any other entries at

"Only one," confided the quiet Alabaman, "and that was Crazy Kid. Man, you don't know what that horse is gonna do. If he gets too far ahead of you, he can steal the whole thing. But I knew we could take those others"

Crazy Kid did try to steal the race, with Four-And-Twenty right on his heels, but their individual battle for wire - to - wire victory konked-out both. The "Kid" finished ninth, a notch below Four-And-Twenty,

The "Kid" and Longden ran like twins for the first half-mile, with Harpic and Winouly nestled right in back of them like baby-sit-

At the half-mile, Harpie showed his muscles and shot into the lead, while Winonly continued to survey the situation. Rounding the stretch curve, jockey

Jack Leonard decided to cut out the foolishness and took off Winonly's brakes.

When he straightened out for the stretch drive, Winonly had neatly dispatched the three pace-setters and had only one opponent to watch, Mr. Consistency, who had circled the field and was making a run for the rainbow.

For the briefest instant, Mr. Consistency seemed to be overhauling Winonly, but the Hooper horse grabmal all the way down the stretch.

Leonard, a substitute for Milo Valenzuela, who is sitting out a suspension, summed it up neatly in this

"I got after him in the stretch and he started to drift out a little. But when he saw that other horse coming, he dug in and that one wasn't going to get us if we'd gone around again."

Richardson (Kemp, That Is) Faces Clover in Big Golf Test

By JERRY WYNN Will history repeat?

A year ago Larry Griggs Jr. followed in the footsteps of his father, Larry Sr., by winning the Long Beach City golf championship.

Today the center of attention is on another lad attempting to emulate the deeds of his daddy.

third round of the 1963 City classic at Recreation

While it is tradition that high school stars turn from glittery to littery under the pressure of championship men's competition, young Richardson apparently has learned his lessons well. The lanky Millikan High shotmaker qualified among the leaders and breezed to 4 and 3 victories over Keith Kenway and Hank Gowdy in his first two matches Thursday.

Lamented Gowdy, "I ran into a buzzsaw." The Richardson vs. Clover duel shares top third round billing with the collision of title contenders

Aggie' Hits Back at '500' Detractors

Like Walter O'Malley in baseball, J. C. Agajanian is a powerful, aggressive and constructive figure in auto racing ranks. For those reasons, O'Malley and Agaianian constantly find themselves in hot water with their jealous competitors.

If a car owned by Agajanian, who has poured more money into the development of auto racers than any other single man in the sport today, finished dead last at Indianapolis, he'd still probably have a small army of

J. C. AGAJANIAN

Comes Back Punching I. That "Jones' victory was lousy and he didn't deserve it . . he should have been given the black flag and ordered from the track before the race was concluded."

2. That "the race was manipulated by stewards so Agajanian's car could win it . . . the starter with his assortment of flags actually won the race for Agajanian."

The first accusation was made by a disgruntled driver whose car had lost a wheel near the race's end, Eddie Sachs, noted in gasoline alley as a loudmouth. Suchs professed to be so upset at Parnelli's "tactics" that he initiated a brief fist fight with Jones the next day in a motel. Jones won that one quicker than Sonny Liston disposed of Floyd Patterson.

Sachs' contention was that about the 185th lap Jones' car was leaking oil and, therefore, should have been black-flagged off the track.

ACCUSATION NO. 2 was tossed by a San Francisco news department editor (NOT a sports writer or editor), who wailed that Jones really won the race by moving further ahead of his trailing field when the yellow flag was out. (Drivers are supposed to maintain their positions at a slowed-down speed until the yellow "trouble" flag

Agajanian's chief mechanic admitted that Jones' car was leaking oil at a time during the twilight part of the race. Agajanian readily agreed,

"There was a crack in the crankcase," explained Aggle, "but only a slight one. We lost very little oil and as soon as the oil level dropped below the crack, we weren't dripping a thing.

"If every car that deposted material on the track was eliminated, the only vehicle left for the 500-mile finish would be the pace car."

Sensing that the stewards or starter might force Jones out of the race at a time when he was leading and headed for victory lane, Agajanian dashed to the officials' stand to halt any premature action on their part.

"We had only 10 laps to go and weren't leaking oil," pointed out J. C. "I wanted the officials to know that we had everything under control and to forget about that

THE ASSERTION from the non-sports editor that the race was manipulated by stewards in his favor really

"Our pit stops were made when the yellow flag was up," steamed the San Pedro taxpayer. "That was smart

"As for the remark that Parnelli gained on the field illegally at other times when the yellow flag was exposed, I object. Neither Jones or I would condone that attitude.

"I've got a few other things about that yellow flag my chest ton Rager 'd like to get McCluskey stole 12 seconds on us during the 47th lap by not slowing down when the yellow flag went up.

"I don't appreciate McCluskey's steal, but I'm not Hubs.2b 40 0 Genzalez, 40 0 0 Genzalez, 40 0 0 HBP mad about Clark's gain. Roger's been around this track enough to know the rules. Clark is a newcomer and very easily could have become confused.

"But I dislike sour grapes being cast upon our win in any fashion. I think we had the best car and the best driver Thursday and we deserved to win.'

In complete agreement with Agajanian was Colin Chapman, designer of Clark's Lotus-Ford. One of the finest gentlemen in sports, Colin congratulated Agajanian after the race and conceded the best team won.

As an afterthought, you might be reminded that tavern-owner Sachs was socked with a $100 fine for showing "bad sportsmanship and violating rules" by not returning to his pit after he was eliminated from the ruce.

Like O'Malley, Agajanian must be wondering today what prompts the little men to make so much noise!

Should he run one mile, two miles or three miles?

The best distance runner ever produced in the United States and American record-holder in all events from 1,500 to 5,000 meters. Beatty will compete in the Compton Invitational meet Friday night.

Still to be decided is how many oval orbits the 5-7, 137-pound human rocket will travel.

How do you make up your mind, Jim? "It's strictly a matter of how sharp I feel. When I start a race, I like to feel I'm on cloud nine. At Modesto, I wasn't sharp physically and I didn't run a good race (ed. note-3:58.0). I always want to give a peak performance, and I hope I can at Compton."

Which is tougher, the faster pace of the mile race or the endurance required in three miles?

"Three miles. The longer the race the more it takes out of you."

Would you rather win a 4:00 mile or lose one at 3:58? "I always would rather win, but I also always want to run my best time even if it means losing. I don't think in terms of either 4:00 or 3:58. That's not fast enough."

Some coaches feel that running is 90 percent mental. Do you agree?

'If you are ready to run physically, that might be true. But it's a nebulous area of conjecture. If you aren't ready to run physically, you can't run a good race."

What is your daily conditioning schedule?
"I run one hour in the morning and two hours in the evening. I do a lot of short, fast type of stuff. I do very little exer-

Do you run because you enjoy it or because it presents a challenge? "Both, I enjoy it, and I feel I can and should develop my ability to the utmost. Above and beyond that, there is the challenge of bringing American distance running up to foreign standards. That has been my main objective."

Europeans and recently Australians have dominated long-distance running, Is that because Americans are too soft?
"You hear this all the time, and I think even Khrushchev once said Americans are short-winded. It has embarrassed me, and I want to prove them wrong, Now most Europeans have a great deal of respect for American distance running. Except for the 10,000 meters, I think we can win all the distance races at the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo."

What distance will you run at Tokyo?

"Probably the 5,000 meters. There is more glamour attached to the mile and it is an easier race. But I would get a great deal of satisfaction to break the world record in the 5,000 and win the gold medal, especially since the record is held by a Russian, Vladimir Kuts."

"Running the world's first sub-four minute indoor mile at the Los Angeles meet in 1961. My time was 3:58.9."

If you could change places with any other athlete today, who would you choose?

"I have a favorite in every pro sport. It's Bob Cousy in basketball, Johnny Unitas in football, Mickey Mantle in baseball and Arnold Palmer in golf. But if I had to choose one, it would be Unitas."

Poly High shortstop Isaac (lke) McCraw, who has been described as a coaches' dream, today was named Player of the Year on the Poly-dominated All-City baseball team chosen by the Independent, Press-Telegram Board of Athletics.

McCraw was not a unanimous pick, in fact four others were in the running for top honors, but when everything was added up, the lithe junior was a winner for a very good reason-there was nothing he could not As a batter, he hit .373 in league play; as a ficider, he made only five errors in 25 games and was in on most of Poly's 25 double plays; and as a runner, few could match his speed. He stole 11 bases and scored 20 runs. PERHAPS HIS MOST amazing feat was hitting safely in 14 consecutive league games, breaking the record of 12. The streak hit 17 before Lynwood's Mike Kckich collared him in a semi-final playoff game. McCraw basically was a spray-hitter, but, given the right pitch, he could hit with power, which was proved his five doubles and one triple in 15 league contests. The 5-10, 160-pounder has been clocked in 3.9 seconds running to first, and the routine grounder he beat out in the Mayfair playoff game was one of the biggest plays in Poly's drive to the title. There were two outs and runners on second and third. with Poly behind 1-0 in the fourth inning, when McCraw outlegged the grounder. Two runs scored and Poly won, McCraw had six teammates on the first club, pitchers Terry Roe and Bob Wiswell, catcher Bob vonEps, infielders Jerry Martin and Richard Dash and outfielder Oscar Brown.

The other pitching spot went to Lakewood's Les Mundel, the other infield berth to Wilson's John McKee and the other outfield posts to Millikan's Jay Bartley and Steve Lewelling, and St. Anthony's Rick Hayes. Barney Scholl, also of Millikan, was the utility man.

As is the custom, the top four infielders and top four outfielders are chosen, even though there might be, for example, two shortstops or two center-fielders.

AS IT TURNED OUT, McKEE and Martin were both first baseman, while Hayes played first and outfield in his three-year career. McKee was a .400 hitter, Martin came on strong to finish at .351 and Hayes was the Saints' leading RBI man and also hit .306. Dash was a .262 hitter for Poly, but had no peer at Roe and Wiswell were an unbeatable combination. Junior Wiswell pitched Poly to the league crown, winning eight games, and Roe won the last three playoff games with 1, 2 and 3-hitters.

Brown, Roe Win Crowns

Outfielder Oscar Brown, with a .389 mark, and pitcher Terry Roe, with an earned run average of 0.46, have won the season batting and pitching titles, Both are from Poly. Roe, who hurled Poly's final three wins en route to the CIF title, finished with the second best ERA in Moore League history, Poly's Tom Sisk had an 0.44 ERA in 1960. Brown a junior who lost the league title to Millikan's Jay Bartley by five points, beat the Rams' junior outfielder by 12 points this time. Two others, Millikan's Barney Scholl (.432), and Wilson's John McKee (.415), hit higher, but did not have the necessary 45 at-bats to qualify for the bat title. Leaders:

Giants, Yanks Head for Series' Repeat

As the major league teams passed Memorial Day, first of three traditional milestones, it appeared that a repeat of the '62 World Series between the Yankees and Giants was in prospect again next

Although it is one of the most difficult seasons in years to pinpoint a solid trend in either league, it is apparent that (1) the Dodgers must begin closing in on San Francisco shortly if they expect to beat out the Giants, and (2) the Yankees are going to be nearly impossible to beat.

Although the Yanks were two games out of first place after the Memorial Day games had been posted into the books, they actually are two wins ahead of their 1962 opening pace and appear headed at least 100 victories . four more than their winning total last year when they won by five

just how much pressure they can bring to bear on New

The Yankees were in a vulnerable position until mid-Sentember last season, but they really broke the backs of the opposition with a 23-8 spurt in July. And although American Leaguers feel that their pitching may falter in the doubleheaders coming up, the Yanks nevertheless seem poised for a surge in the next few weeks that will solidify their pennant position by the All-Star Game break early in July.

BALTIMORE IS RUNNING seven games ahead of its 1962 pace when the club finished seventh, 19 games back. Minnesota is still two behind its pace of last year despite the streak of 10 straight wins through the 30th after Harmon Killebrew returned to the lineup.

The Yanks have a chance to check Baltimore's hopes to Win in in five games in June, while they don't get a crack at Minnesota until July.

At best, the Orioles and Twins appear capable of "peaks" of 93 wins . . . which still leaves them some seven games shy of the Yankees—a most discouraging

The White Sox look good for fourth with around 89 victories with Boston, Detroit and the Angels battling for the 5-6-7 spots with win totals ranging from 84 down

MEANWHILE, THE NATIONAL League race may well hinge on a trade that might be made within the next week or 10 days.

Milwaukee manager Bobby Bragan sounded this warning Thursday when he rapped Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi's trade policy. He claims to have offered Bayasi third baseman Eddie Matthews and pitcher Bob Shaw, who would fill two Dodger needs.

But Bobby says Bavasi wouldn't even discuss the trade, so the Braves may offer Shaw to San Francisco, which has been looking for another starter.

Bragan believes Shaw "would clinch the pennant for either the Giants or Dodgers, whichever one took him." The Giants swept through April and May last year with one of their patented fast starts only to find themselves just a half-game ahead of the Dodgers.

THIS TIME, THEY got off to a slower start, being three games off their '62 opening pace when they passed Memorial Day. But they enjoyed an even bigger lead . . . 21/2 games. The Dodgers broke from the gate five games slower than a year ago.

In fact, if the Dodgers hadn't swept their first 3game set with the Giants in mid-May, San Francisco would be out there "hiding" from them by now.

At this point, it appears that it may take as many as 103 victories to win the pennant . . . possibly 104. Last year, the two clubs tied with 101.

Figuring a 6-6 split in their remaining 12 games with each other, the Giants' potential is 106 victories, the

Thus, their head-to-head battles are most vital. Five of them come this month . . . the 10th and 11th at Dodger

THE OTHERS FIGURE to finish some 12 to 14 games back. Cincinnati, St. Louis and Pittsburgh most likely will battle it out for the 3-4-5 spots, with Milwaukee shaping up as the sixth-place finisher.

Cincinnati, a big disappointment so far, still appears to be the only rival with the potential to fight its way out of the pack and threaten the top two.

But its "extended" slow start has made it tougher for the Reds to rally. However, they came back after a miserable beginning in 1961 to win the pennant, and last year were nine games back going into July and came on to finish only three games out.

However, it should be a two-way fight between the

Don't be alarmed if you catch Julio Navarro daydreaming. The opposition will never find him in such

"It seems like a dream," says Navarro in his B-plus English while relaxing from the tension of bullpen life. What seems like a dream?

Only the statistics which show the Angels' chief fireman has won four games without a defeat, has saved four others, has allowed only two runs in his last 16 innings, and in 19 relief appearances has retired the first man he's faced 16 times.

"At the quarter pole I thought we'd win it by 16 lengths," declared Hall. "I got to the winner, but I couldn't get by. There were two horses dying in front of me and we were forced wide, but he was going so good I still thought we had it made. But he just could not get there."

Alex Maese (Harpie) claimed that if Crazy Kid hadn't drifted out "we might have been tougher."

Last year's winner, Ca-diz, had "no excuses," according to Bill Harmatz, who had ventured from New Jersey for this race. Cadiz did nothing and wound up sixth.

Bill Shoemaker, who was forced to take Rex Ellsworth's New Zealand import, Commanding  $\Pi_i$  because of a contract agreement, finished dead last and

(Continued From Page D-1) remarked only, "he ran out of gas." Shoe was being kind because the only gas Commanding exhibited was the aftermath of his morn-

IT'S OUR FIRST

Yes, we've been in business one year in June—it hardly seems possible that the year could flit by so fast, but it has! This has been a wonderful year—filled with the pleasant memories of acquaintances made and customers served. We look back and are grateful for the loyalty, confidence and patronage of friends like you and we thank you. We've consistently set new standards in customer satisfaction and we pledge that in the year ahead, we will make every effort to continue to merit the pleasure of serving you in the traditional Oscar Gregory manner.

A good business reputation does not spring up overnight — it builds slowly and steadily, based on the solid foundation of customer satisfaction! Tools, equipment and facilities alone, haven't made our business grow people did—our people, with the proper attitude toward the product, the customer and the dealership.

With the right people, having the right attitudes, Oscar Gregory Chevrolet has set new records.

We invite you to come in and meet our people and let them serve you in any way you wish, be it a new car, new truck, OK used car or service — we're sure you'll find it a pleasant experience.

Incidentally, why not spring into summer in a new Oscar Gregory Chevrolet—it's the smartest make you'll INDIANAPOLIS (A)-Husky Claude King, former prep football coach, grabbed the 36-hole lead of the $55, 000 Speedway Festival Open Golf Tournament Saturday with a 6-under-par 65 for a 132 total and a one-stroke edge over Fred Hawkins.

Hawkins, the El Paso, Tex. veteran, who hasn't won since taking the 1956 Oklahoma City Open, blew a 4-foot birdie putt on the last hole and wound up with a 33-36-69 for 133.

King, 30-year-old former coach at Virginia Beach, Va., High, who joined the pro circuit 17 months ago and never has been better than 16th in a tourney, fashioned a 32-33 against the Speedway course par of 35-36-71.

Red-hot Tony Lema jumped into contention with a 64 for 134. He shot two eagles.

Marlin Gives Angler a Dunking

If you have ever seen an old Keystone Kops movie, you are in a better position to enjoy the story I'm about to relate. I'm sure that had anybody been able to film the entire sequence of this comedy, it would have gone for $100 a foot on any television show,

It concerns Kenneth (Ken) Sperry, Long Beach attorney, Dr. Thomas Kiddie and the captain and deckhand of a Mexican fishing boat, Sperry and Kiddle were fishing in the recent Southern California Tuna Club tournament at Palmilla.

There were times when the incidents were happening that it was not so funny but, now in retrospect, it's a howling comedy.

Sperry had just hooked a very lively marlin. He was using 20-pound-test monofilament on a regular three-six outfit. The marlin decided to circle the boat and the skipper gave the wheel a hard, fast turn to port.

The rudder stuck in the port position, the skipper finally killed the engine, took of his clothes and dived overboard with a wrench to fix the balky rudder.

Meantime, Sperry, trying to hang on to his fish, climbed out of the cockpit, edged along the narrow walk beside the cabin and reached the bow. His marlin was jumping like crazy, but Ken, so far at least, was in complete control of the situation.

SPERRY MADE HIS WAY back to the stern successfully, the skipper got the rudder working and then climbed aboard and started the engine. But that marlin was so mad that he was still wheeling around the boat in large circles and Ken saw that, once again, he would have to make his way to the bow-that is, unless the skipper managed to turn the boat.

Turn the boat, he did, but once again the rudder stuck. The skipper killed the engine, grabbed his wrench and dived overboard. Ken started his perilous trek around the cabin a second time, trying to regain some precious

Suddenly he began to lose his balance, grabbed for what he thought was an outrigger, found only a loose pole and then — SPLASH!

Kiddic about that time found himself in a rather awkward position-whether to keep on taking movies, help the skipper or help Ken, who was hanging on to his rod and being towed away from the boat.

Ken still had on dark glasses, his hat and was trying to paddle with one hand while holding the rod up with the other. Even in such circumstances, he remembered to keep the rod high. The marlin had taken the line, down

Kiddie finally managed to lean far out and grab Ken's free hand. He then hauled him back far enough so that he could grab his rod-holder belt and get him back aboard. In all that maneuvering, Ken held the rod; Kiddie did not touch it.

THE SKIPPER GOT the rudder working for the second time, climbed aboard, started the engine and turned the stern toward the marlin. The fish was still wild enough to make another turn around the boat and the skipper made another sharp turn on the wheel. The rudder stuck again.

And overboard went the skipper with his rusty wrench. Sperry, dripping wet, was in another awkward position, but he decided to stay in the stern.

The skipper made a quicker fix, climbed back into the boat, started the engine and the marlin gave up. Ken ordered the fish released after estimating its weight at 170 pounds.

At the closing banquet of the SCTC, Kiddie wanted to know how many points he should have for rescuing a lawyer. Somebody shouted out:

"You don't get points for rescuing lawyers; you

All of the hilarious incidents just about convulsed the crowd. Then Charles Cox presented Kiddie with an elaborate gaff, which was bought especially for the occasion. Cox remarked:

"You may need this again. If you have to rescue Sperry from the deep at any future time, use this gaff, not  $\star$

EARLIER THIS YEAR I did a special story on the sad state of Belmont Pier, the mere mention of which causes a bit of nostalgia among the middle-aged and older segments of our population.

At that time I received numerous telephone calls from persons who wanted to know what they could do to help either preserve or bring about repairs to the pier. City Manager Mansell was extremely cooperative. He asked the city engineering office to come up with a plan.

That plan is Proposition B on next Tuesday's ballot. fly, it is a simple resolution asking the State Lands Commission to set aside $1,265,000 for the construction of a new Belmont Pier to replace the one that is practically falling apart. The money would come from the Tideland Oil Fund, which the State Lands Commission controls. No bond issue nor taxes would be involved.

Those of you who wanted to do something when my story appeared and all others may now go to bat for the new Belmont Pier. Go to the polls Tuesday and vote YES on Proposition B. Get your neighbors and friends to do the same.

Never mind the hassle in Sacramento in which the state is trying to take all oil money from Long Beach. Let's get ourselves on record as asking for a new pier. I, for one, just can not picture Long Beach without a VOTE YES ON PROPOSITION B.

San Pedro Club Will Hear Talk on Self-Values

"Why Not Invest in Yourself?" will be the question asked by Wendell Noble, Glendale Federal Savings and Loan Association's commuunity relations director, when he appears before the regular meeting of the San Pedro Lions Club at The Hacienda, 301 S. Western Ave., San Pedro, at noon Thursday. Noble, who has made more than 900 appearances before Southern California service clubs, is also a KABC news commentator with two shows daily. A veteran of 17 years in the radio and television field, he has extensive ex-perience in news coverage in Washington, D. C.

"The real America," he will point out at San Pedro, "isn't in our present wealth, but in the system which produced it. This country has always offered, and still offers, more opportunity to every individual than any other nation, past or present." "If the average person con-tinued his average self-improvement during his whole life, he'd double his income every 14 years," Noble says.

Honor Realtor Active 65 Years

By RALPH McCLURG

DOWNEY - "Meeting people and making more friends is one of the great-est experiences of life," says Robert B. Coleman who is believed to have es-tablished a record-65 active years in the real estate known to many of his friends, is a charter memher of the Downey Board of Realtors as well as the Pico Rivera board. He resides in Pico but has been active in both organizations.

Scores of Coleman's fellow realtors and friends turned out recently to a testimonial breakfast in his honor where he was presented an honorary life membership in the Downey Board of Realtors.

OTHER AWARDS presented to "R. B." included a plaque making him an honorary citizen of Downey by Oren King, city manager; a property Owners of Rights plaque by Melvin Mould, president of the Long Beach Board of gold key to the City of Pico hy Mayor John Davis.

Coleman's great year, as he tells it, came, "in 18 and 98" when he purchased a planing mill in Everett, Wash., and became interested in real estate. He worked the milling and real estate business in Washington until 1910, when he came to California.

His first ventures in real estate were in San Fernando and then in Huntington Park.

Coleman had a hand in locating the giant Ford Motor Company plant in this area, and has been building and selling homes here for the past 37 years. For more than a decade

the intersection of Lakewood Boulevard and Telegraph Road, center of the area, was known as Coleman's Corner."

Coleman, who is just two months short of 90 years young, has announced plans to relire "and slow down a bit."

HE WAS BORN on July 18, 1873 in Seeley's Bay, Ontario, Canada. He came to the United States in 1882 and became a naturalized citizen at Elbow Lake, Minn., in 1897.

During Coleman's early years in Minnesota he served as an agent for the Coleman was married in "that great year 18 and 98." ' His wife died in 1932, and he never remarried.

Closely associated with Coleman in business throughout the years was his secretary, Sadle Cassis, whom he employed from 1926 until her death in

We're all aware of beautiful modern-day structural engineering, but ever stop to think what makes it practical? It's what's inside that makes it practical the plumbing, the heating, the cooling, the ventilating and the piping equipment. And wisis responsible for furnishing, installing and connecting this vital "inside" portion of a building? The mechanical contractor.

The mechanical portions of a building have somewhat the same status as the heart, lungs, brain and digestive systems of a human body. They are the vital organs which enable the framework to function smoothly and efficiently.

And just as the physician is essential to the proper functioning of the human body ... so is the mechanical contractor essential to the proper functioning of the mechanical portions of a building. It is he who is technically skilled and trained to know the wheres, whys and hows of today's highly complex mechanical installations. He must know and understand the principles of hydronics, physics and metallurgy. He is responsible for the installation and servicing of all that machinery and equipment whose constant use and operation is necessary for the safe and healthful occupancy of the structure by its users. Yes... no one can deny this is a beautiful structure, but as the old saying goes . . . "Beauty is only skin deep . . . it's what's inside that counts. And it's the mechanical contractor that makes it count.

BIG BROTHERS!

Can You Share Some Time?

By MARY NETH

Having a big brother can be a big break.

Particularly if there's no man about the house.

That's when Big Brothers Inc.

Founded 58 years ago, it provides older male companionship and guidance for boys who have lost their fathers through death, divorce or desertion.

According to 15-year-old Genrge Wilkinson, the idea is "the great-

It was Big Brothers who introduced him to Herb DeBoer after the death of his father about a year ago.

The two really hit it off.

They both love boats (Herb has one), they like to get a gang together and go water skiing, they enjoy a game of golf, a workout with weights, a fishing trip or just an afternoon of tinkering with an engine.

"HERB'S a great guy. He's teaching me to drive and when it comes to a problem, his advice is worth following," says George, a student at Will Rogers Junior High.

Just as enthusiastic, Herb says "I'd be doing most of these things (boating, golfing, camping) anyway. But, I enjoy them more with George along—he's real sharp, he keeps me on my toes."

HOW DID Herb and George join the Big Brother program?

"I like teen-agers and as a bachelor have plenty of time for sports—more than many fathers have," explains Herb of 5201 The Toledo. "So, when I heard the organization needed volunteers I went in for an interview."

George, encouraged by his mother, had already signed up. She realized, as well as he, that there is no substitute for man-to-man understanding: that, though no one could replace his father, he could profit by the companionship of an older man.

THAT'S THE whole basis of the non-sectarian, non-profit and interracial movement which has become increasingly popular over the years.

WHAT ARE the qualifications for a Big Brother?

Any man from 21 on up (single or married, with or without children of his own) can volunteer.

Locally, applicants are interviewed and carefully screened at the Big Brothers of Greater Los Angeles, Inc., office, 301 Harvard Blad

Right now there are 175 boys waiting to be matched with Big Brothers and it is estimated that 10,000 Big Brothers would be just a good beginning for the area.

THE BIG BROTHER does not adopt, or in any way financially support his younger brother. He acts only as a friend: is encouraged not to arrange special activities but rather include the younger brother in his routine activities.

The average contact between brothers is once a week, though some see each other more frequently and others less. The important thing is president.

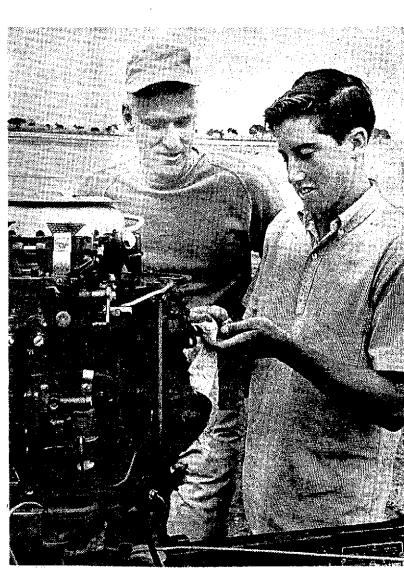

thing is consistency.

The goal is for a genuine, lasting friendship. The duration of the relationship has no limits.

AS HERB puts it, "The drive to Los Angeles for that interview was more than worth the time involved. I'm getting as much out of this as George is.

"I've really gained a brother."

By BETTY WENTWORTH

In ancient civilizations it was quite the thing to wash clothes by treading on them in a water trough or pounding them against stones at a river's bank.

And through the centuries, for reasons of cleanliness, pride and vanity, people have evolved various methods of keeping their wardrobes in shape. Even now, with power laundries and marvelous cleaning agents, it's still a Number One problem for the house-

Which brings us to Betty Blake. Betty knows more about fabrics, from the old standby linens, silks, cottons and rayons to the just-on-the-market synthetics, than most people. She is, in fact, sort of a pioneer. She's the only woman in California, so far, specifically trained as a fabric care counselor—and there are on 1 y 80 others in the U. S.

FOR THE PAST year and a half she's been with Foasberg Laundry and Dry-Cleaners in this capacity. Preparation for her joh consisted of special training courses at the American Institute of Laundering in Joliet, Ill., and the National Institute of Dry-Cleaning in Glendale.

"Then I did nothing for months but read about fabrics—how they're made, where originated and how to handle them," states Betty.

Her job is a multi-faceted one. She talks before clubwomen, discussing clothing problems and telling them about new colors and styles. She talks to department store buyers about advance information on new fabrics and styles yet to reach the stores. She sometimes describes the full picture of operations in both

Do's and Don'ts

1. Why do shirts come back with buttons broken? Because they're usually made of plastic instead of poarl and eventually crystallize.

2. Why does home spotting leave a ring? It's almost impossible for the non-professional, without proper equipment, to prevent this. Your cleaner begs that you bring in the spot instead of the ring—it's twice as easy to remove then.

3. Why do some fabrics say "Launder— Do Not Dry Clean?" You'll find that the fabric gets stiff if cleaned. DO keep the hang-tags. Read them and follow instruc-

By Iola Masterson I, P-T Women's Editor

THE NEXT best time this side of wherever in the world people have the BEST time (if you ever find out, let me know) was had, uproariously, by Dames Club members, spouses and guests last Saturday when they had an all-out hard times costume party, a progressive cocktails and dinner affair.

A few of those on hand were Prez Jerry McCutcheon and huz, John, party chairman Doris Sturgeon and ditto, Bob. Jack Satariano came as the matinee idol of the hobo set with high starched collar on a tee shirt, cutaway (ragaway, really) and brown derby. In the mean-time wife, June, was busy being a darling "bum." Evelyn Sullivan (Ted, the coward, didn't come in costume) wore last year's frock-meaning it was about one inch too small. Carol Greer (there with husband, Dick) came high fashion-but circa 1947. And that's the way it went-kooky, mad, merry.

... and fun continuous

THE CHUCKLES were many, the fun continuous and the fishing unbelievably good for Southern California Tuna Club's just completed annual week's marlin tournament at Palmilla, Mexico. Harrison Moore (with wife, Ruth's assistance) was general chairman of arrangements (you can say "whew" again) and Martha and Art Hall were in charge of that ever popular nightly ritual, the cocktail hour.

Helen Buck caught her first big fish—a dolphin.

She was black and blue but dead game and caught the thing after an exciting battle.

Also during the ladies' day (women only fish one day-men the rest), Billie Litschke got her first marlin. Tom Kiddie was observer aboard and, with crew, laughed so hard at Billie, squealing, wheeling and dealing as she fought, they could hardly help her. Wellington Phillips caught five marlin in the first two dayshis first marlin ever-and had the old timers really worried that the newcomer would beat them all. Wife, Anne, didn't go out, the sissy. However, Charlie Cox finally managed to catch a total of seven to be winner.

They tell me Ken Sperry had a marlin hooked when the rudder of the boat he was on jammed and threw him overboard. But Ken was fished out of the drink, still wearing his hat and glasses and still clutching that pole. He caught it, too!

In all, 19 men caught 57 marlin and 3 sailfish for a grand total of 60 game fish. Incidentally, all but one fish was released to swim away to be caught again, no doubt, good sports fashion. A few others on the merry jaunt, (they flew down, naturally) were SCTC President Herb Murphy and wife, Myrtle, Helen and Dr. Gus Bock, Les Callahan, Mildred and Dr. Jack Dorsey, Mary Kiddie (there with Tom), Charlie Litschke (there with Billie, the winnah!), Kay Sperry, Letha and George Collinge and Middy and Mel Masterson.

They will be living the life easy at their Puget Sound home at Hansville for the summer. Donald, just graduating from Poly, will attend Whitman College in Walla Walla next fall. As the family home in Los Cerritos is being sold, upon their return here they'll take a fling at apartment life. Less weeding, y'know, but they're not too sure the Siamese cats will approve.

HOWEVER they say wonderful in Swedish or Finnish or, for that matter, Russian, is the way Lucille and Charles Green will soon be saying it. They left Saturday for New York; will sail aboard the S.S. Argentina for a 35-day cruise of the Scandinavian countries. This will be a welcome break from dutics as prexy of Woman's Music Club for Louise, who retired this past week.

The Greens will stop in Iceland, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Poland and Holland before sailing for New York and home.

THERE MAY be a few goose bumps amidst the palm fronds but this is the beginning of luau season, regardless of what the sky reads. Witness Las Madrinas colorful one at the home of president Nell and Dave Thomas, 5530 La Pasada, last week. Going native for the night around the pool and patio were such "beach" boys and girls as Donna and Bob Albertson, Betty and Don Watt, "Widdy" (she was assistant) and Eric Peterson, Dorothy and Phil Laughlin, Gen and O. O. Flood, Georgia and Jack Berbower and many another. Cocktails preceded an authentic luau feast,

ALTHOUGH there were more hatless women than hatted (seems to be the trend, anymore) at Sandlark's fun spring brunch Wednesday at League House (witness pix below; more on that in a mo') still, there were quite a number of smart young women sporting Greta Garbo big chapeaux, the queen size floppy brim type. Count among these Cecelia Tollichet, Mattie Henry, Joyce Dixon and Laurel Specht. Very Smart,

The gala day was a salute to sustaining and patroness members of the little but, oh so philanthropically minded group. Co-chairmen were Jimmie Nutter and Betty Mitchell and we doff our hats, real or imaginary, to them for their endeavor.

Wassail . . . in springtime!

By MARIE RIDDER
1.P-T Washington Bureau

It was a gala occasion. The great fires of the manse were lit. Round tables for eight looked cozy in the State Dining Room and the Blue Room, Lester Lanin's danceable tunes quickened one's feet,

It was a small dinner dance at the White House , a gathering of the friends of President and Mrs, Kennedy, The summum bonum of all Washington invitations - an unofficial party at the White House.

But even in the midst of this carefree gaiety one guest was heard to answer his wife when she queried, "Are you having fun?" with "Of course, I'm working,"

A rundown of the conversations he had during the evening with members of the Cabinet, the inner White House group, with Chip Bohlen, our Ambassador to France, and with Kenneth Galbraith, Ambassedor to India, verified that he had, indeed, been "working,"

His evening was spent the way most Washington evenings are - gathering or cautiously disceminating the information that's the warp and woof of Washington life.

POLITICS, its power and its ramifications, runs through all Washington entertainment, An elder statesman once observed, "the government is a man's mistress in this town. Discussing its policies and personnel is as titillating as telling locker room stories else-

Stewart Alsop's only word of advice to his Engish bride when she first arrived in Washington was, "you may refuse cocktails, but never a dinner without asking me." He had good reason; the Washington dinner is used to exchange ideas in an unpressured atmosphere,

WASHINGTON night life can be broken down into two major categories: official and non-official evenings. The former include the large, black-tie embassy dinners-8 o'clock sharp till 11, equally sharp; state night banquets, which are a must for members of Congress, and special interest dinners like those given by the Chamber of Commerce, mandatory for many a bureaucrat and Congressman. In the latter category is the "little dinner," and despite the publicity given the night, the pig-in-a-poke large do's of Mrs. Mesta and Mrs. Cafritz, it's the dinner for 8 or 10 that's the Washington mainstay of

A POPULAR kind of entertainment - to Washingtonians, it compares with a theater party-is the dinner party with a visit afterwards to a night session of the And, whether the scene is Senate. (For a really chic party, the session has to be

The hostess of the evening spends a nervous day. To begin with, she can't really be sure that the Senate will be in session. It is a group subject to very last-minute changes of mind, and to avoid the embarrassment of her hired limousine depositing the selected on the steps of a vacant capitol, she must spend her day telephoning the Senate door-

"You're sure," she keeps asking him, "they're still in?" (To the cognoscenti, the word "session" added to "in" is superfluous.)

Presuming that the harassed man has assured her that it's an "all-nighter," the hostess has another problem. She must be sure to have a senior senator's wife in her party. Seats in the member's gallery are essential. They are, moreover, always at a premium.

Then, of course, the hostess has, just as at a first

OFF-THE-RECORD dinner is another Washington specialty. Given by newspapermen in hopes that the convivial atmosphere will loosen tongues of the guests of honor, the guests themselves often use the occasion as a sounding board. The controversy over limited versus nuclear warfare, which raged in 1955-57, was launched at an off-the-record dinner given by Rowland Evans, Douglas Cater and Charles Bartlett, among others.

Socially, Washington is the kindest and cruelest of cities. Kindest because since the population is a transient one, strangers are quickly accepted. Almost everyone else is a newcomer, too, and neither money nor family background count,

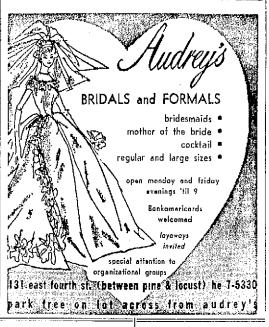

It's cruelest, however, because what counts is your teresting or influential, preferably both. The young the other hand, they might secretaries of foreign embassies, for example, live in isolation in this city of 102 and Senator Russell Long of ambassadors, and dream of Louisiana exchanging color-

A Brilliant Benefit Ball ...heralds inn's formal opening

Searchlights will be c riss-crossing the sky; there'll be dancing in both its ballrooms, and numerous stars of the entertainment world will lend their glamorous presences when the Children's Benefit League will herald the long-awaited formal opening of the Edgewater Inn Marina Hotel next Saturday night.

Alvino Rey's orchestra will play for dancing in the beautiful Parisian Room while the strains of Frank Martz' orchestra will emanate from the Empire Room; and there are to be floor shows both places. Pat Hassey and Connie Palmer of Call's Fine Arts Center, five-time American and international ballroom dancing champions, will give an exhibition.

Among stars who have accepted invitations to join the gaiety are Audie Murphy, Guy Mitchell, Fifi Dorsay, Beatrice Kay and Casey Tibbs, champion rodeo performer.

On the busy committee working on the big affair are Mmes. L. W. Clarke and Richard Gripp, chairman and co-chairman; and Mmes. Eugene Blumberg, William Crail, Robert W. Dick, Harold O. Gray and Walter Troxell.

OVER THE PAST years the Children's Benefit League has raised approximately $100,000 and donated it for the benefit of underprivileged and needy children. Last year over 3,000 hours of services were given by members to the Children's Clinic and the Psychiatrio Clinic for Children.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the Edgewater Inn. Mrs. William Bessire, 3437 Fidler Ave., or Mrs. Joe Hicks, 3039 Ladoga Ave. They will also be available at the door the evening of the

> Victor Mitchell of New York is one of our most resourceful dummy players which may explain why his partner sitting North took him all the way to six no-trump after Vic responded two no-trump to North's spade opening.

Still the contract is not too bad as there are eleven easy tricks for declarer to gather in and if diamonds break, the twelfth is there

Vic won the first spade with dummy's jack and led a diamond to his king. He returned a diamond and if he had been looking at all the cards he could have made the hand by simply playing low from dummy, but Vic went up with the jack. East won and led back the queen of hearts. Vic won in dummy and ran off the rest of the spade suit. The discards from his hand were a diamond, heart and club while East dropped two hearts and a club.

WEST simply discarded a heart. Viciled a heart to his king and West had to throw a club to hang on to two diamonds. Now Vic played a club back to dummy's ace the aucen of diamonds.

East had to throw another club. Vic let go his last heart and made the last two tricks with the king and nine of clubs.

Simple for Vic or for anyone else who knows how to manipulate a three-suit donble squeeze.

Returns to Find She Wasn't Missed

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: We've been married 14 years and the last couple of them my husband has been seeing another woman. I ignored it for a long time, believing that most men wander a bit, particularly if you try to put too tight a rein on them.

Well, it got to the point where the neighbors were talking and the kids (we have six of them) were picking up stray bits of information that upset them. I hegan to have discipline problems with two of them.

I sat down to talk with my husband and got nowhere. He said I was imagining things. Then I went to my minister. That was a big, big mistake.

He is very young and I should have known he was too young to advise me, but I was grasping at straws. He told me to get away for a while and leave my husband to handle the children and to settle the discipline DEAR SCARED: problem brought about by out without making one provision for the children-meals, house or anything. I went home to my mother's.

Well, to make a long story short, my mother was shocked that I would do time I accepted my mother's advice and arrived back home, "the other woman" had done such a wonderful job of pitching in and arranging for child care, cleaning the house, etc., that my husband is all the more convinced that she is the better owed you consideration, love and devotion while you shared a house.

What shall I do? I don't want to divorce my husband,-SCARED.

Sit down and—yes, you've guessed it—talk everything I was at the ragged edge over with your husband.

Men are not by nature created to be tied to one woman. Over the generations they have been onehouse broken, so to speak, but occasionally one kicks over the traces and seeks the company of someone other than his wife. Love seldom enters into it.

Unfortunately you presented him with a problem such a thing. But by the that he could not handle and another woman was there to fill in. He is grateful to this woman, along with being interested in her. If he also loves her, then you would do hest to separate and divorce him. No one wants a man around who stays out of duty or to avoid unpleasantness.

Talk it over quietly but without a martyr complex. Start with "The best years of my life have been devoted to you," and you'll not only lose every round, but the title as well. Remember, there are children to consider. They are at an age when they need two parents—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm worried about a very dear friend of mine. She works in a big department and for years has been the quiet girl who got all the work done. She wasn't a personality kid. She was well liked. Everyone enjoyed working with her. She has a wealth of talent.

But none of the executives ever thought of her in terms of passing along any-thing interesting. She did all the jobs that no one else would handle.

Well, at Christmas time Induction she came over to the apartment and we had a long gabfest. I discovered how bitterly hurt she was, but I never realized the steps she would take.

She is taking a modeling course, has peeled off some excess weight and is investing in the sexiest wardrobe I've ever seen.

Everyone's noticing her, but they are also bemoaning the loss of a quiet individual that was fun to be with. The new gal is easy to look at, but clever word-manipulators are a dime a dozen and she's not one of the bet-ter ones. How can I get across to her that she's making a mistake? -CONCERNED.

DEAR CONCERNED:

Extremes never are the answer, but perhaps out of this experience will emerge a third person who is a happy blend of the two.

Bosses are always being blamed for not understanding or appreciating eming or appreciating employees. They are not being paid for this. True, they should understand enough about their membeyses to get Will Have the best work out of them

Reducing News As Told By National Figure Authority

Our "Chef" knows his onions" when it comes to Miss Pat Walker Talks about Reducing

I am often asked if I enjpy my work as the National Figure authority for the Stauf-fer System Salons. The answer is very simple, it is yes.

I like my work because it is so interesting and challenging. It's challenging because every woman has a different figure problem and each woman thinks that her problems are the ones no one can help.

This is because the average woman has tried so many methods of reducing and gone on to many different types of diets only to find she still had her figure problems.

Many women reach the point of thinking that there's nothing else that can be done for her She thinks this because she has not been exposed to a system such as the Pat Walker Stauffer System.

Can you imagine how gratify ng it is to see that same womın in a salon a few short week: after she starts her treatments and to have her say thank you thank you for showing me the way to a new figure and in many cases a new way of life.

Over the years we have been esponsible for re-making over million women's figures.

Model Plan Easy Entry to Television

By BERT RESNIK TV and Radio Editor

Getting a job as a television actress is easy if you follow a model plan.

Take it from Margie McNally, NBC-TVs' gorgeous receptionist on "The 11th Hour."

Margie practices what she models.

For it was as a model that the win-some redhead got her start in the TV world.

"It's certainly not unusual," she said. "Almost every girl who models gets a chance to act.

"What's more unusual is that about 70 per cent of them say 'no' to acting."

WHAT ALMOST 100 per cent of them say 'yes' to is the opportunity to do TV commercials. Main 'yes' reason: commercials generally pay more than straight acting roles.

Margie, a former Powers model who started her career when she was 13 years old, is one of those who said 'yes' to TV commercials,

With the money she earned from the commercials, she took dramatic lessons.
The $50,000 prize she won for being selected as a "Miss Rheingold" didn'! hurt any, either.

"But the dramatic lessons and acting talent initially are not the main factors in becoming a television actress," she made it clear.

"Exposure—as a model, including TV commercials-does it.'

THE MODEL PLAN doesn't work for

In fact, if you're a girl with a great acting talent and you stick to little theater appearances, you may eventually be spotted by a major drama scout.

It's just that being a model is so much the easier way to be discovered.

Easier, that is, providing you have a few basic qualifications.

You don't have to be a raving beauty,

although, in Margie's case, it hasn't hurt

The first thing you should do is go to a registered professional model agency. They'll tell you "yes" or "no" or "possibly, with some corrections."

IF YOU'RE ONE of about 30 who qualify, Margie's advice is contrary to that of Horace Greeley.

"Go East, young lady, go East," advises Margie.

It is New York where there is 85 per cent of the modeling work that exists throughout the nation.

The same percentage used to hold true for TV commercial work, too, but the ratio is now about 50 per cent New

IMOGENE TRIES COMEBACK

Stars in Fall 'Grindl' Series as Jill-of-all-Trades

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)-Can Imogene Coca beat the second-time-around jinx on televi-

She didn't on her initial attempt at a video comeback, but she is trying again in a new series titled "Grindl.".

Ten years ago Imogene, teamed with Sid Cacsar, was one of the great co-axial stars of "Show of Shows," produced by impressario Max Liebman. It was a terrific combination of talents.

Since "Show of Shows" collapsed none of the trio has fared so well. Caesar has returned to television but has not set the world afire. Liebman produces occasional specials. Imogene returned with her own show a couple of years ago and bombed out.

"THE THREE OF US getting together the first time was just a lucky accident," she said

"Max had worked with both of us individually when Sid and I were just getting started. He put us on the air together and we clicked."

'It was the kind of relationship you can't put into a script or a contract. There's no way to guarantee such a chemistry.

Hoping to hit the mother lode again next fall, Imogene will play a wacky Jill-of-all-trades who accepts odd jobs. And when Imogene says odd, that's exactly what she means.

"In one story I play a housemaid. In another I'm a cleaning woman in a hospital who winds up as a nurse in the operating room," she said shyly. Imogene says almost everything shyly, undoubtedly because she is as shy as a wood nymph.

ALL THIS notwithstanding, Imagene is a bit wacky in person. Just listen:

"I'm having an awful time at home. I can't understand whether my Burmese cat, 'Timpy,' is in love with my duck, 'Grover,' or if he just wants to eat him up.

"I'm not taking any chances. I keep Grover locked up in Timpy's cage and Timpy keeps trying to get in."

Imogene sees nothing strange about keeping a duck and a cat in her house. She also has a pet dog, Poodles Hanneford II.

There was a Poodles Hanneford I," she "but he passed on. Come to think of it, this is Grover II, too. The first Grover now lives with friends on Long Island.

"I bought him out here and took him back to my New York apartment. I kept him on the terrace with a little wading pond. But I was afraid his quacking would get the neighbors angry and have them call the Board of Health or something."

It was suggested that Grindl might take a leaf from the private life of Imogene Coca.

The comedienne was pensive for a moment. Then she answered: "Oh, no. My life is very normal compared to Grindl's."

neers abbreviated this to "Immy." The Academy of The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences transformed the abbreviation to "Emmy," a name the group felt was perfect for its Golden Girl trophies.

"Oscar" derived his name from Mrs. Margaret Herrick, currently executive director of the Motion Picture Academy. When she first saw the statuette, she commented:

"Why, he looks just like my Uncle Oscar."

The exclamation was publicized by a newspaperman present and the name has stuck since 1931.

We have just been watching the Italian mouse on the Ed Sullivan show.

I said it was just a small puppet.

My son said, "No."

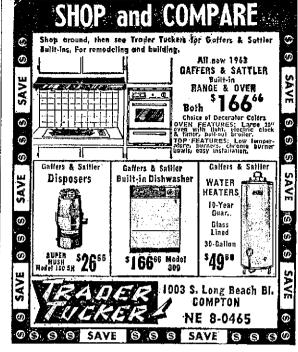

So we would like to know a puppet or not.

WHITSUNDAY PROGRAM -- Aline MacMahon, Nancy Wickwire, Bramwell Fletcher and Michael Tolan read selections

SHOW OF WEEK-Walter Matthau, John McGiver, Zachary Scott and Teresa Wright star in a reprise of the thrice-Emmy-nominated "Big Deal in Laredo," at 10 p.m., in color, ch. 4. A transient farmer can't resist joining a poker game "for blood" between the four richest men in Texas. With the "great-est hand in the world" and with $13,500 on the table, he collapses from a heart attack. Peabody-award-winning series returns to first-run dramas next week.

OPEN END—Controversial actor Marlon Brando talks of gossip columnists, his SatEvPost lawsuit, Time magazine, Tabiti, the Orient, his place in the movies and his ambitions, at 10:30 p.m., ch. 11. Joining Brando and host David Susskind are "The Ugly American's" co-author Eugene Burdick and the film's producer-director George Englund.

WALTER MATTHAU . . . Emmy-Nominated Performance

Repeat Poker Play Tonight

"Big Deal in Laredo," an hour-long drama that won three Emmy nominations, will be repeated at 10 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 4 in COLOR.

The "Show of the Week" production gained nominations-although it didn't collect any Emmys-for Walter Matthau as leading actor, for Fielder Cook as the best drama director and for being the best drama.

It's about a reformed gambler who decided to play in one final poker game.

ON JUNE 12, CBS-TV (channel 2) will repeat the dual-Emmy-winning "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall" performance. The show was selected as the bost music program and figured in the Emmy award to Carol Bur-nett as the outstanding variety-show performer.

On July 24, Eleanor Parker will appear in the NBC-TV (channel 4) "11th Hour" episode which brought her an Emmy nomination

"THE MADMAN," a twopart drama on CBS-TV's "The Defenders," won Emmys for writing, direction, film editing and figured in the program's overall selection as the outstanding dramatic series.

It will be repeated on Aug. 10 and 17.

Actress Kim Stanley and Glenda Farrell, who won Emmys for their performances in a two-part "Ben Casey" production, will be seen in their winning roles when the drama is repeated by ABC-TV (channel 7) on Aug. 26 and Sept. 2.

Margie's Model TV Plan

are three major model categories, junior-fash ion, high-fashion, tweenish." "in - be-

Margle describes herself as "perpetual junior-fashion."

Which means that she's not over 5-feet,  $7\frac{1}{2}$ -inches tall (5-feet,  $5\frac{1}{2}$ -inches, to be exact), has a fresh, outdoors look, doesn't have a hungry face, isn't very, very thin, but definitely is not Anita Ekbergish where Anita is.

THE HIGH-FASHION model is over 5-feet, 7-inches tall, very thin and doesn't even recognize the existence of Anita Ekberg.

The "in-betweenish" is either too short, too tall or too heavy to qualify for the other categories, but makes a perfect housewife-type for video commercials. If the "in-be-tweenish" model recognizes the existence of Anita Ekberg, she, nevertheless, won't be caught talking about her.

TV acting opportunities are ample for models in all of the three categories, according to Margie.

AND SO are acting jobs in the movies,

"Take, for example, Tippie
Hedren," said Margie, "Alfred Hitchcock saw her doing a TV commercial. Commercials were the extent of her acting experience.

Other TV commercial grad-uates include Millie Perkins, Sandra Dee, Pamela Tiffin and Suzy Parker.

"And, of course,"
Margie, "there's me."

Next season "The 11th Hour" plans to let viewers see more of their model ac-

THE KREMLIN—A special 2-weeks-later repeat of NBC's news color special which won high critic acclaim is at 7:30 p.m., ch. 4, at an earlier hour for school-age viewers to enfor school-age viewers to enjoy. Hour re-creates events that took place in the walled fortress during five centuries, from early Moscow princes to Peter the Great and on to the Soviet era. Frank Bourghoftzer and George Vicas narrate, ignoring. Soviet requests for minor changes to correct what soviets term "historical inaccuracies."

CLOSE-UP!—The story of Mrs. Tomi Keitlen of Springfield, Mass., a blind woman who refuses to be blind, is told at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7, She runs an office, keeps house, writes her own checks and supports her 18-year-old daughter. She also works with other blinded persons to teach them to remove what she calls "blindisms," to "look" at those who talk to them, to eat normally, to ski and to look at sightlessness as an inconvenience rather than a handicap. #### Richard Boone Stars in Series He Calls 'Revolutionary'

REPERTORY THEATER ON WAY TO TV

CONTRACTOR SERVICE SER

Repertory, like vaudeville. chautauqua and tabloid shows, belonged to the last generation. Today's young folks might like to know that a repertory company is a more or less permanent acting organization which presents a varied selection of niavs.

The man responsible for bringing the old stock company to video is actor Richard Boone who will play host and co-star next season in a series of shows, one hour each

A television veteran of two series, "Medic" and "Have Gun, Will Travel," Boone has joined forces with author Clifford Odets for what he considers a revolutionary series.

"WE'LL HAVE an even dozen performers in the company," he said, "and each one of them will rotate from starring roles to bit parts, de-pending on the individual

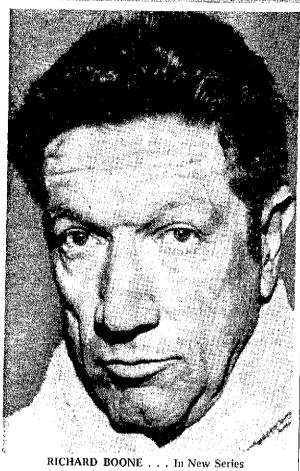

"I will be the only exception. Because my name will be part of the title people might think they are being misled if I do not have a good role in each show. Therefore half of my parts will be major ones.

"We already have 40 story capsules in the works and hope to have 60 from which we'll pick our first 13 shows. I will play everything from a villain to hero to waiter.

"And all our stories will be contemporary. At no time be seen tramping around in boots and spurs."

SINCE announcing the show will make its debut on NBC next September, Boone has been deluged with requests from actors to join the repertory theater.

"Now I have a list of 208 actors that I'd like to narrow down to that dozen," he said. "But I've heard from 14,000 performers,

That means when the final casting is announced I'll have 13,988 enemies. I'm a coward at heart and probably will find someone to start my car in the mornings until it all blows over."

Boone's enthusiasm for the show takes into account a rather poor track record of previous anthology shows in the ratings.

"THE MAJOR problem with "THE MAJOR problem with repertory, like anthology, is that there are no continuing characters as they are found in westerns and situation comedies," he said.

"But we will have continuing actors, which should make a big difference in audience lovally and in the cat-ence loyalty and in the ratings. By the end of the first year viewers should have 10 actors they recognize and look forward to seeing on our show every week."

Curiously, Boone owns no art of "The Dick Boone

"lt's owned by Goodson-

Todman, NBC and Odets," the actor grinned, "I don't even own a percentage of the profits. But on the 10th of every month they'll back a Brink's truck up to the bank for me.

"There are no limits to what we can do with a repertory theater on television. If we fail, it will be our own faults."

If Boone and Odets are successful, you can be: the 1964 season will find repertory theaters on the other two networks, and maybe even back in theaters

'Operation Alphabet' for Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) -Florida officials have announced plans for "Operation Alphabet" — a project aimed at teaching a quarter of a million adults in Florida who own television sets how to read and write.

School superintendent Thomas D. Bailey said the 1960 census revealed that 261,433 Floridians over the age of 25 couldn't read or write

"Operation Alphabet" will present 100 half-hour television programs teaching the basic skills and will be aired on the state's educational television stations and three commercial channels

Fall Series Brings Social Workers, College Profs

By RICK DU BROW

OLLYWOOD (UPI) -- The dogooder rides high on television next season.

Keeping up with the times, the net-works will flood the airwaves with entertainment series about people who do good things rather than attempting great ones. In a sense, it is an easy, popular and back-door way of presenting some form of the contemporary cultural mainstreams with which television has virtually no con-

On CBS-TV: George C. Scott plays a social worker in "East Side, West Side," and we know he'll do good if for no other reason than that David Susskind is the producer. The "Route 66" boys will also be back, helping people and doing good every time they stop their sports car for gas. And, of course, nobody does more good than "The Defenders." I don't know how much good "The Nurses" do, but they'll also be back, adding their two cents to the time of the

ON NBC-TV: Robert Taylor will be worker in the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, so we know he'll be doing some good. The "Eleventh Hour" psychiatrists will be straightening out people's mental problems, while "Dr. Kildare" take care of their physical ones. "Mr. Novak," as a high school teacher, is sure to be up to some good-doing.

And even "The Lieutenant," about a young Marine officer, will not be about combat but—according to NBC —"his growth in personality." And that means more of you-know-what.

ON ABC-TV: "The Breaking Point" and "Ben Casey" are this network's answers to psychiatric and sawbones cases who would rather be treated by ABC than NBC. "Channing," about a college, will, you can be sure, do a lot more good than the movies" silly college musicals of the 1930s; and, you can be sure, it won't be as much fun. And "Arrest and Trial" switched Chuck Conners from a prosecutor to a defense attorney, which means it's hewing to the line too.

Doing had is not chie for next season. Detectives are in the minority. And the cowboys are going thataway. Only five westerns return—"Gun-smoke," "The Virginian," "Bonanza," "Rawhide" and "Wagon Train"—and in most of these the heroes spend almost all their time doing good too. 'Gnusmoke" is the only one of these with a single stand-up hero. The others are group efforts, keeping pace with the hardy individualism and free enterprise of the times.

OZZIE & HARRIETformat twist, the Nelsons' television set, which Oz and television set, which Oz and Harriet are watching, becomes the viewer's own set for a "June Music Festival" of singing by Rick and his guests, at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7. White Rick sings, and handles on-stage details, brother Dave does backstage interviews with guest performers The Brothers Four, Bud and Travis and Jennie Smith. The Homer Garrett square dancers are featured, and Rick is backed by his own rock 'n' roll combo of James Burton, Ritchie Frost and Joe Osborn. After tonight's show, the Nelsons revert to repeats until their return in the fall for their 12th TV year, in a new Mednesday. 7:20 p.m. less their 12th TV year, in a new Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., slot.

Thank you, Mit President

THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON

April 23, 1963

Dear Mr. Gorkin:

It is heartening to me that the Soviet Government has agreed in principle to the United States suggestion for a "hot line" between our two countries.

I remember when you first brought this new and imaginative idea to my attention back in 1960. I well recall that at the time I told you this proposal merits the most serious and thorough consideration.

Your advocacy of faster communications between the United States and the Soviet Union was sharply underlined during the Cuban crisis. I believe your efforts in this field have been an excellent example of the most constructive aspects of our free press.

Sincerely,

The home Mr. Jess Gorkin Editor PARADE Magazine 733 - 3rd Avenue New York 17, New York

POWER-KNIT

Only Jockey T-shirts are Power-Knit ... keep their fit

The Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is man-tailored, from its exclusive, nylon-reinforced Seamfree® collar that smoothly hugs the neck to its extra-long tail that stays tucked in. It's built to take the roughest, toughest wear. It won't bag or sag. Weekly bouts with the laundry won't faze it.

Why? Because this new Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is made with extra yarn for more strength (more absorbency, more comfort, too). And its special Pak-nit® combed-cotton fabric helps prevent length shrinkage. Only the Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is made like this to keep its fit. The extra-value is knit right in.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by FRANK FONTAINE

EDITOR'S NOTE: Frank Fontaine of Winchester, Mass., mighty father of 11 children, 9 boys and 2 girls, is currently best known for his Crazy Guggenham character on the Jackie Gleason TV show. Although Fontaine has been a comedy star of screen, radio and night club shows for years, the Gleason program marks his first appearance as a regular performer on a TV series. Fontaine was born in Cambridge, Mass., the son of show business parents who were known in vaudeville as Ray Fontaine & Co. His grandparents were circus people with Barnum & Bailey. Young Frank toured the vaudeville circuit with his parents, then left at 17 to marry an acrobatic dancer, Alma Wakham of Medford, Mass. For years he struggled to make a living around Boston and barely succeeded through small night club bookings. After three years of military service (1942-45) he toured with Vaughn Monroe's orchestra as a featured comedian, eventually branching out into motion pictures. This season Fontaine has burgeoned into prominence as both a singer and comedian on the Jackie Gleason Show. He and his family live in Winchester, to which city Frank rushes back as soon as he finishes each engagement. "I love to spend time with my family," he says. "There's always a new addition." Herewith some of Frank's favorite jokes;

Last week my friend Joey took his little boy to the fortuneteller, and the guy looked into his crystal ball and said: "Ah, good news. I see where your little boy will be very wealthy. At the age of 21 he will have two million dollars."

Joey grabbed his boy and hugged him, and he's laughing and jumping around, and all of a sudden the fortuncteller says: "Wait—sad news. The crystal ball tells me that when your little boy reaches the age of 22, he will be flat broke."

Well, this is too much for Joey. He grabs the kid, belts him a shot in the head and yells: "You dopey kid! What did you do with all that money?" That Fatso Fogarty is getting nuttier than ever! I ran into him this morning and he said to me: "Everybody is ribbing me because I put on a little extra weight, so I'm going on that new three-day diet. It's a great diet where you don't eat anything for three days—you just drink carrot juice."

So I said to him: "Fatso, you've been on a hundred diets and you've cheated on every one of them."

"That's true," answered Fatso, "but this time I'm going up to my room on the fourth floor, lock myself in and throw the key out the window."

"Lock yourself in for three days!" I cried. "Suppose there's a fire?"

"Well," replied Fatso thoughtfully, "I just won't go."

"Sorry," said the manager, as they approached the lobby, "but no babies allowed."

So Murphy pleaded with the man and told him that the baby never, ever cried. And the manager finally said, "Okay . . . but one peep out of that kid, and I'll have to refund your money and throw you out."

Well, this was the worst western you ever saw. Even the horses couldn't act. And when it was only half over, Murphy said to his wife: "This picture is terrible."

"Yes," she answered, "isn't it awful?"
"Well," asked Murphy. "What are you waiting for? Pinch the baby!"

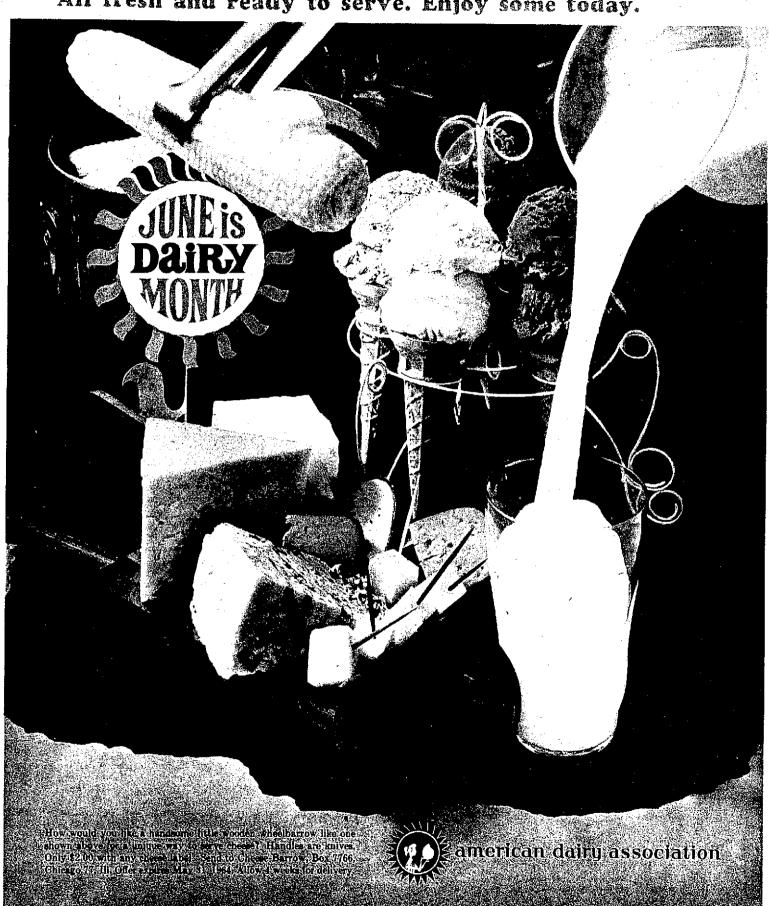

One day my uncle Dippy took his wife to a nice restaurant. After dinner he found out he didn't have his wallet with him, so he said to the manager: "I live just two blocks from here. I'll be right back with the money."

The manager said, "Oh, that's okay," and under a hook on the wall he wrote, "Dippy Guggenham owes me four and a half dollar."

"Wait a minute," said my uncle. "This is very embarrassing. Everybody will see my name on your wall,"

"No they won't," replied the manager. "Your hat and coat will cover it."

It's June again and the serving is easy with dairy foods.
All fresh and ready to serve. Enjoy some today.

LET'S STOP PICKING ON THE ASTRONAUTS

by LEO DEORSEY

Attorney for the seven original astronauts

As attorney for the original seven astronauts, I can sound off about peeves that they would prefer to keep quiet.

I can speak out against those who would unjustly diminish and disparage seven of the bravest Americans of all time, against the fast-buck merchants who want to cash in on their achievements, against the unthinking and uncouth few who try to intrude upon their privacy.

Although the astronauts may be spacemen, they are not creatures from space. They are human beings, too, who want to live like the family next door. Privacy, I would remind you, is a precious human right.

I have been around Washington long enough to become aware of the wiles of the politicians and angle-shooters. But I hardly expected some of the antics the astronauts have had to endure. I can only marvel at the good grace of these fine young men. My own temper has often reached the explosion point.

Look, folks, an astronaut!

All of them have had to light off pressure to appear with politicians who, for their own political profit, want to snare a live astronaut and show him off to the home folks. Glenn has been invited to run for Congress; they have also considered proposing him for vice-president.

An insurance company wrote to me saying that it had been "chosen" to write insurance on the astronauts, the premiums to be paid by patriotic Americans. Chosen by whom? The advertising department?

Snide suggestions that the astronauts are merchandizing their popularity make me sizzle. A Florida newspaper, for instance, reported that five of the astronauts would display Florida tags on their cars and that for these cars they had made only token payments. Scurrilous nonsense! They were offered free Corvettes or Thunderbirds, but chose to buy their own cars.

Less than four hours after Glenn's dramatic return from orbit, a corporation executive was on the phone offering me several thousand dollars for the astronauts. The well-meant gesture was rejected. Another time, I sat down with Glenn and a corporation head who offered to pay him $1,000,000 over 20 years. I am proud to say that Glenn felt that he could better serve his country at his base pay of $13,000 a year.

You may also recall that Glenn appeared on TV with Soviet cosmonaut Titov and some Russian scientists. The Russians refused to appear unless they were paid in advance. The network offered Glenn the same fee, but it was refused. He appeared without fee.

$2,500 and up

There have been offers for speaking engagements (even for sitting silently at a banquet) running from $2,500 up. One endorsement would have netted the astronauts a minimum of $250,000. Yet these have been turned down.

Al Shepard wouldn't even take the $2,500 which the National Geographic, as a gesture, offered for publishing excerpts from his official flight report. The magazine explained that all contributors were paid. But Shepard rightly refused payment, holding: "I do not feel that it is appropriate for me to accept this check for a basic reason. The material presented in Washington, from which you have chosen excerpts for your magazine, is clearly in the public domain."

Perhaps I should explain how I came to be attorney for the astronauts—I prefer to call them "my boys"—whom I am proud to serve without fee or expense. Until April 1959, when an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration telephoned me, I hadn't even heard of Project Mercury. He told me that on the following day NASA would announce the names of seven men who had been chosen to fly into space. The agency was already flooded with offers for their personal stories, and once their names became known, they would be approached directly. The young men would need an adviser, a father confessor, who could guide them to do not only what was good for themselves, but also for their country.

I was invited to meet the astronauts at a Pentagon dinner on the day they were introduced to the nation. Who could have failed to be inspired by such bright and shining courage? I liked "my boys" on sight; more important, they seemed to like me.

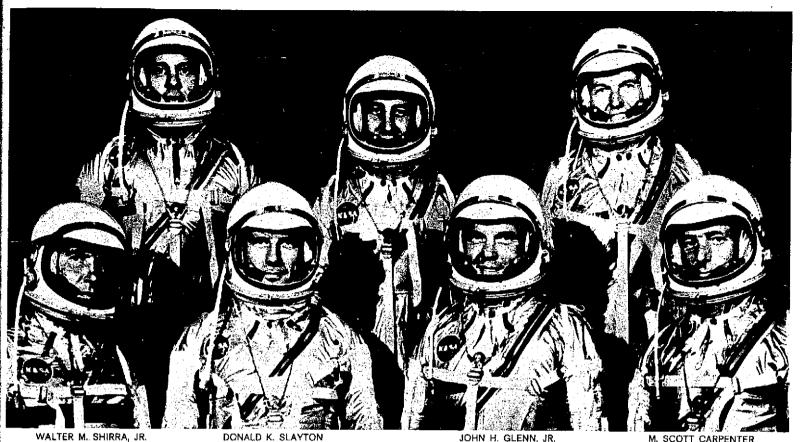

Over the months, we have become fast friends. I have had four heart attacks, the last in July 1962. My boys made daily phone calls to my home in Pine-Orchard, Conn. When I was allowed company, six of them flew in from Houston. (Scott Carpenter was at the bedside of his sick mother in Boulder, Colo.)

Shepard gave me the clock from his first space ship, Carpenter the button that pushed him off, Clenn a pin which he carried in his pants leg on his historic flight. Recently, the boys sent Mrs. DeOrsey and me a clock as an anniversary present. It was inscribed: "May the coming years be as kind to you as you have been to us."

Unlisted phone

For a few weeks before each flight, an unlisted phone is placed in the home of the designated astronaut, so I can be in immediate contact with his family. There is also an unlisted phone in Hanger "S" at Cape Canaveral. Before the flight, I visit the boys at the Cape and call them. I have phoned from Tokyo, Anchorage, Seattle. But I am always on U.S. soil for the countdown. I was at the Cape when Shepard went up, but the emotional strain was too great. The boys are heeding the advice of my doctors, and won't permit me around at "lift off" any more.

At our first meeting, it was agreed that all seven would share equally from their personal stories. If anyone withdrew from the project voluntarily, he would forfeit his interest. But if he were grounded involuntarily, as Deke Slayton was later to be, he would continue to share. Aside from personal stories, there would be no commercialism of any kind. The temptations were great, but they were resisted.

ALAN B. SHEPARD, JR.

It was on this basis that I negotiated the muchcriticized $500,000 contract with Time, Inc., an agreement I will defend on both legal and moral grounds. The astronauts have as much right as anyone to sell their personal stories. Their official actions are public property—paid for by their service salaries —and this has never been questioned. But they do have personal lives, personal experiences, personal feelings. They did not sign these away when they entered the service of their country. Nor did their families sign up for a tour of duty, though they have never shirked their duty.

My worst headache was the affair of the Houston houses. As early as Al Shepard's first suborbital flight, we were deluged with offers, many of them for free houses. One morning, I received a phone call from the White House, explaining that the President had received a telegram from an Alabama congressman offering to provide Shepard with a free house, fully furnished, complete with a swimming pool. I politely but firmly turned the offer down without even bothering Shepard about it. His plans were unsettled, and I was sure he would not want to accept a house in which he might never live.

Later, NASA decided to base the astronauts at the new Houston Space Center. Someone suggested they should be provided with homes. A Texas congressman set the ball rolling, and 100 members of the Houston Home Builders agreed to participate. It was a generous gesture, one I thought we could consider. It was practical, no commercialism was involved and all shared alike. I took the matter up with NASA's legal department, which saw nothing illegal or unethical about the proposal. I indicated that we would accept. Then all hell broke loose.

Shady shenanigans were suggested. Even the staid New York Times reported that the White House was "investigating" the Houston house deal. I understand the Times reporter telephoned Pierre Salinger and asked about the offer. Salinger said he would "look into it"—an answer you or I might have given. There never was any "investigation," and no one from the White House even contacted me.

The whole affair became so distorted and distasteful that it was better to let the matter drop. Today the astronauts are all living in Houston. Six have bought homes with their own money and mortgages, and one is leasing an apartment.

I am always being asked such questions as: How much money do the astronauts have? What taxes do they pay? What are their investments? But the prize for sheer effrontery must go to the reporter who asked: "How profitable is it to be an astronaut?"

Profit! What profit can repay a man for the almost total loss of his private life or the heart-searing anxiety of his family as he soars into the unknown?

No tax privileges

Profit! Why not ask how profitable it is to be President of the United States or Prime Minister of Britain? Eisenhower, Truman and Churchill all sold their memoirs for large sums. The astronauts have never sought, nor do they get, any tax privileges.

Of all the pressures and problems, not the least have been the efforts of some bureaucrats to manage the private lives of the astronauts and their families. I want to make clear that we have never had the slightest interference or criticism from the White House. But many pressures can be applied without White House knowledge, and it would be easy to bow before them. We have not done so.

At the time of the Glenn flight, I suggested that newsmen be barred from inside the Glenn home. This precipitated top-level meetings, and government legal eagles asked me what legal grounds I had for barring reporters and cameramen. I replied: "None! All I know is that Anne Glenn, whose husband is risking his life today, did not calist in the Marines." I felt she had a right to be alone in her own home with her children and those of her own choosing on such an averagence.

The policy of barring newsmen from inside the astronaut's home was continued for the Carpenter flight. But the night before he took off, someone gave orders to withdraw the security guard!

Hounded by the public

Not only the press but the whole hero-hungry public seeks to invade the lives of public figures. The astronauts can't go for a quiet drive or picnic in the country, take their families to the theater or to dine in a new restaurant without being followed, stared at, even clawed. They have been forced to put up fences where no fences should be needed, keep curtains drawn, have unlisted phones to get away from the drunk calling at 3 A.M. from Las Vegas.

I can say that much of the extra money my boys have earned has gone to buy privacy. The fighter pilot in South Vietnam also lives in danger and has to sacrifice family life. But he doesn't live in the fish bowl of publicity. On leave he can get away and forget his perils. Not so the astronauts.

In any case, I have no need to apologize for my boys' war records. The seven took part in some 500 combat missions. Take Glenn, for example: his plane was shot up 12 times—5 times in World War II, 7 times in Korea. He holds 5 Distinguished Flying Crosses, 19 Air Medals.

Although I have expressed my impatience with the unfair and unjust treatment in some respects, on the other hand, the overwhelming approval of the American public has been both inspiring and heartwarming to the astronauts.

Organdy beach hats, the newest summer madness, come paufed or petaled. Snood keeps sun off neck.

Peaked cotton sun hat is authentic copy of head covering used by banana boot stevedores in Ecuador.

ANYONE who has ever said there's nothing new under the sun just hasn't looked at the new crop of beach hats. They're wild, witty and colorful.

This summer, beaches will be dotted and polka-dotted with hats which also double as conversation pieces. Anybody who thinks a girl wears a hat on the beach just for protection against the sun just doesn't understand women, according to John Frederics, hatter for all seasons.

"Girls want to be noticed," says Mr. Frederics. "One bathing suit looks like any other bathing suit, but an interesting hat—well that's a different storu."

The "different story" this summer will be organdy on the beach. The garden party hat has been adapted for the seashore. Organdy snoods, cotton piqué hoods—inspired by the fellows who load banana boats along the west coast of South America—cotton print hats with big brims and soft centers and gingham bonnets like baby sister wears, will be seen and admired.

Silky chiffon scarfs are also making their debut on the sand bar. You know that plain little cotton sailor hat you wear for sailing? It's been glamorized by yards of chiffon scarf wound loosely around the face and neck. Untrimmed straw hats, so popular this spring, have also established a beachhead wherever the resort flag flies.

While the soft, wispy, feminine look will hold sway from St. Tropez to Waikiki beach, the straws—just off the boat from Italy or purchased at your corner drugstore—will be as popular as ever this summer.

In the offshore breezes plastic bananas and other tropical fruits will flop from wide and narrow brims. Other straws in the wind will be decorated with starched cotton daisies and harmless wooden mice.

At Cypress Gardens, Fla. (see cover), hats are important props. Dick Pope, who runs the well-known tourist attraction, keeps on hand a wardrobe of over 2,000 hats, most of them straw.

No matter what the current fashion, Pope feels that straw hats denote sunshine. Some Cypress Gardens straws are as much as five feet in diameter, in accordance with Pope's view that "the larger the hat, the more the sun shines."

TARRAGON CHICKEN: Have 2 broiler-fryer chickens cut in serving pieces. Melt 1/2 cup butter or margarine in shallow baking pan. Place chicken skin side down in pan; sprinkle with monosodium glutamate, salt, pepper, paprika and 1 teaspoon tarragon. Place under broiler about 4 to 5 inches from heat; turn pieces at end of 15 minutes; sprinkle again with salt, pepper, paprika and 1 teaspoon tarragon; broil 15 minutes longer. Remove from broiler. Spoon pan drippings over chicken. Cover pan tightly with foil; bake at 300° 20 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 sérvings.

POTATO PYRAMIDS: Mash enough potatoes to make 4 cups. Season with butter, salt and pepper. Beat in 2 eggs. Add just enough milk to make the mixture stiff enough for a pastry bag. Put through pastry bag, using a large rosette tip, to form 6 pyramids. Sprinkle with melted butter. Run under broiler until tipped with brown. Makes 6 servings.

NUTMEG SQUASH: Prepare 2 pkg. (10 oz. each) frozen squash as directed on package: Stir in 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg. Makes 6 servings.

GREEN BEANS CALIFORNIA: Prepare 2 pkg. (10 oz. each) frozen Italian green beans as directed on packages. Season with butter, salt and pepper. Stir in ½ cup canned slivered toasted almonds. Makes 6 servings.

COFFEE RASPEERRY SQUARES: Remove cube partition from double ice-cube tray. Spread 1 pint coffee ice cream on bottom of tray. Top with 1 pint raspberry sherbet, Freeze firm. Cut in squares. Serve with fresh or frozen raspberries and whipped cream, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Off-screen lover, Roderick Mann, is British newspaper reporter. He has proposed marriage to Kim.

KIM NOVAK

'Sure I'm in love, but why marry?'

by LLOYD SHEARER

BRAY, IRELAND.

"LISTEN," Kim Novak said. "He's your best friend. Tell me the truth. Is he stringing me along?"

"No," I said. "He's willing to marry you."
"What do you mean," she asked, "willing to marry me?"

"Okay," I said, "anxious to marry you."

We were sitting in Kim's hotel room a few miles outside of Dublin, where they are filming, because of tax advantages to actor Laurence Harvey, a third screen version of Somerset Maugham's Of Human Bondage. Harvey must make his films outside of England or else pay a whopping income tax.

It was a bright, shining Irish day, and Kim confessed, "I've fallen madly, deliriously, tempestuously in love with Roddy Mann." She wanted to make certain he felt equally enthusiastic about her.

Roderick Mann, 40, is the leading show business writer in Great Britain. Handsome, worldly, sophisticated in a gentle, humorous, Scottish way, he writes for the London Sunday Express and is a close colleague of many years standing.

"All I can tell you," I said, "is that Roddy is an emotionally mature man. He's dated practically every actress in this business, and it's a tribute to your charms or looks or whatever you have that he should want to marry you. Apparently, he's sure. That's what he tells me. The question is, are you? After all, you've had so much trouble on this picture. You've needed someone to confide in. Maybe you're just using him as a crying towel."

Of Human Bondage has been a sad experience for Kim Novak. Cast in the role of Mildred, the cockney waitress—a role once memorably played to the hilt by Bette Davis—Kim disagreed with director Henry Hathaway, who insisted that her cockney accent was too broad. "The sound man on the film came to me," he explained, "and said he couldn't understand Kim. The cutter who was editing the rushes told me the same thing. I asked Kim to go easy on the accent, but she wouldn't. That was our area of disagreement. She wouldn't budge. Neither would I, so I just left the film."

Kim also had trouble with her leading man, Laurence Harvey. "For some reason," she says, "known only to him, he refused to talk to me except in the line of duty."

Taylor Too Costly

Ray Stark of Seven Arts, producers of the film, flew to London and asked Elizabeth Taylor to replace Kim. Elizabeth agreed for $1,500,000. MGM, the distributors of the production, refused to pay that price for Taylor, so Seven Arts decided to ride out the storm with Kim. A new director was hired to replace Henry Hathaway.

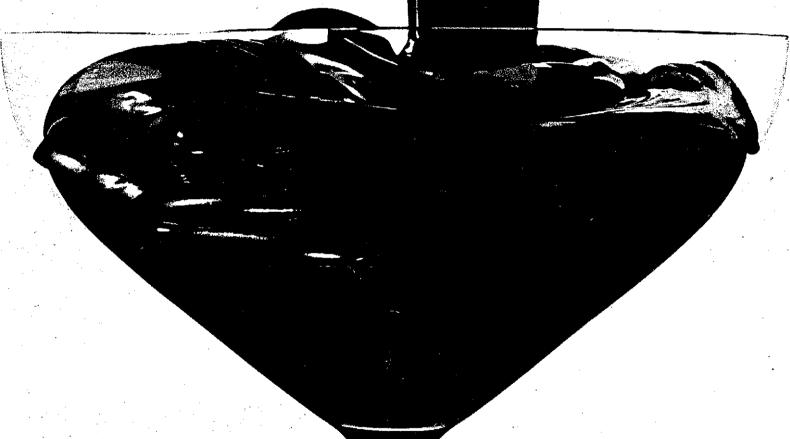

Midst this widening fracas, Roderick Mann flew to Dublin to interview Kim for the Express. Kim unburdened all her fears and anxieties on Mann, an old friend of hers whom she had dated many times previously—generally chaperoned by Cary Grant. A sympathetic and understanding reporter, he listened, calmed her, amused her. Their companionship presently ripened into love. Soon Kim was flying from Dublin to London to spend her weekends with Mann. A few weeks ago he proposed marriage.

To Cure More-Give More

'Marriage frightens me,' says Kim

Apparently the proposal disturbed her. "Why can't people stay in love," she asked rhetorically, "without getting married?"

"The usual reason," I pointed out, "is to legitimatize offspring, Marriage essentially is legal protection for women, not men."

"I don't know why it is," Kim continued, "but marriage frightens me. It seems to destroy love, not to enhance it. Marriage seems to turn men into heels. I can't tell you how badly they behave, especially in Hollywood. They're always making passes. I don't understand it. I'm sure they were madly in love with their wives when they first were married. What happens along the way—especially to actresses?

"Why can't actresses stay married? If I marry Roddy, will he become Mr. Kim Novak? Will it be fair to him? Where will we live—in California or London? How about the difference in our earning power? Why can't time sland still?"

"Roddy tells me," I said, "you're willing to chuck your career for marriage. Is that true?"

Reluctant Movie Star

Kim bit her lip thoughtfully. "I'm ready to give it up in a minute," she announced. "I never wanted to become a movie star. It was an accident. You know why I came to Hollywood in the first place? Some fellow in Chicago was bugging me to marry him, so I ran away. I was afraid of marriage even then, although my parents have had the happiest of marriages. I can't understand myself. Every girl supposedly wants to get married. I've had chances and chances, but I keep saying no. What should I say this time?"

Kim Novak is 30, an unheard-of age for a screen sex goddess to have reached without ever having been married.

In the past eight years she has been coupled romantically with at least two dozen men, from the late Aly Khan to director Richard Quine.

Most of these men have found Kim attractive and gracious, but few have proposed marriage. Last year a French designer, Louis Fervaud, 42, who was squiring her around Paris, asked for her hand. She turned him down—"because I wasn't sure."

The truth about Kim Novak is that she is in love with love but afraid that marriage will alter a status quo she finds immensely pleasurable. She is wise enough to realize that a screen career and marriage won't mix. But why give up $300,000 a year, a mansion in Bel Air, a retreat in Carmel, for a marriage which may prove transient? Kim knows she's a movie star but no great shakes as an actrass. She doesn't particularly care about acting. She prefers painting and writing poetry.

Advantages of Stardom

"But let's face it," she says honestly. "Look at the opportunities and advantages Hollywood has afforded me. A few years ago I took my parents to Czechoslovakia so they could see old relatives. I've made my sister Arlene director of all my fan clubs. Barbara Mellon, who went to school with me in Chicago, is now my secretary. Another old friend, Norma Kasell, is my business manager. I've been able to do things for people, to share my prosperity. I've been able to travel and meet fascinating personalities. How much of that do I give up if I say good-bye to my career and become Mrs. Roderick Mann?

"There's never heen a divorce in our family, and I don't take marriage lightly. If I get married I want it to last, and I will do anything to make it last. Is there a man, any man, who will love me for myself, who will love me as Marilyn Novak, or have I now reached the point where to all men I'm Kim Novak, movie star, and that's the image they think they're murrying?

"You know me, and you know that I'm not at all like the girl up there on the screen. I don't care about clothes or money or fancy trappings. All I care about is being sure, being sure about love. Right now I'm sure I'm in love with Roddy. But a little voice deep down inside of me keeps saying, "Why marry?"

I shook my head a little sadly. "Darling," I said, "you're not sure at all."

AMERICA'S BEST RESTAURANTS

These 53 are tops for food and tops for value—according to a famous guidebook

WHERE IN THE WORLD can a traveler eat best? This is a question that has divided tourists—and diners—practically since Eve made a meal of the apple.

The editors of the Mobil Travel Guides, which aspires to be America's answer to the world-famous travelers' handbook, Guide Michelin, think they have the answer, however, in 53 eating places around the U.S. According to the 1963 editions of the 6-volume regional guide (Guides for the Southeast, Alaska and Hawaii are being completed), there are 8 best restaurants in the U.S. and 45 other specially good values.

The eight tops, the Guides declare, are the ultimate in everything. They dispense the best quality food, the finest preparation, the most matchless service, the most elegant decor. The Guides rate 12,000 eating places on a scale of one to five stars; these elegant and expensive eight are the only ones to get a five-star rating.

Forty-five more, however, get a different "best" rating. They're cited for "exceptionally good value" for the money. According to the editors, they offer good, wholesome food at budget prices.

But what do you think? Do you have a favorite eating place you consider tops—or a value that others should know about? If so, PARADE would like to hear about it. Look down the lists below, and if your favorite isn't included, write to Favorite Restaurant, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y.

SARAKA SOLVES THE PROBLEM OF "AFTER 45" IRREGULARIT

Doctor-approved bulk stimulant helps keep you comfortably on schedule as no ordinary laxative can!

As we grow older, our systems may often need outside aid to help maintain a normal regularity pattern. Continued use of strong drug laxatives can be irritating, even dangerous. That's why many doctors recommend SARAKA, the pure, all-vegetable bulk stimulant laxative for middle age and over SARAKA supplies the moist, bland halk that is so essential to healthy howel function. And only SARAKA has a gentle stimulant action to help ease this bulk through your system plus Vitamin B<sub>1</sub>.

Special note to weight watchers: Lack of sufficient bulk in 900 calorie liquids can lead to constipation. If this occurs, supplement your daily diet with all-vegetable SARAKA.

Q. Why is practically nothing ever said in any history of World War II about the destruction of Dresden? Didn't Churchill goof on that one?-L. H., Denver, Colo.

A. In February 1945, British and American bombers flew over Dresden, 70 miles: behind the Eastern front in Germany. The city was undefended. In addition to its own population of 630,000, Dresden then contained 500,000 refugees fleeing from the advancing Russian armies. The Allied bombing, largely British, burned out the city, killed 135,000 people. This is more than the number of Japanese destroyed by the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima. Says Churchill: "The destruction of Dresden remains a serious query against the conduct of Allied bombing.'

Q. Why was Curt Jurgens ever so quietly removed the other day from the film, The Cardinal?-Knox Carleton, Providence, R. I.

A. Scheduled to play the role of Cardinal Innitzer, the Austrian churchman who thought he could do business with Hitler, Jurgens was reportedly replaced because of publicity in Vienna on his private life, which to date has involved several beautiful women. He was replaced by Josef Meinrad, a distinguished Viennese actor.

Q. Who said: "Thinking is like loving and dying. Each of us must do it for himself"?-Marie Hollingsworth, San Francisco, Calif.

A. Josiah Royce, American philosopher and educator (1855-1916).

Q. Darryl Zanuck, president of 20th Century-Fox, is insured by his company for $1,000,000. What is the annual premium on that policy?-James Van Hucht, Albany, N.Y. A. $26,880.

O. How much does Hugh Downs earn per year?-James Christiansen, Minneapolis, Minn.

A. As host of the two TV programs, Today and Concentration, Downs receives approximately $400,000 annually from NBC, earns further money via the endorsement routine.

Q. Why do so many U.S. corporations hire ex-generals?-H. Van, Miami, Fla. A. For prestige, to preside over routine board of directors' meetings, to employ their friendship, influence and knowledge in securing government contracts.

Q. Lena Horne has been married to Lennie Hayton for 15 years. Do they have any children from their marriage?-Amos Johnson, Brooklyn, N.Y. A. No, but Miss Horne has a son and daughter from a previous marriage.

Q. What's happened to William S. Ginn, one-time vice-president of General Electric who served time in the price-fixing case? - H. T., Ardmore. Pa.

A. He is now president of the Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corporation of Philadelphia, recently charged by the Department of Justice with fixing prices on steel wheels. Mr. Ginn was not president of B-L-H at the time of its alleged price-fix-

Q. I wonder if you can tell me if Elizabeth Taylor has a mink-lined raincoat, or is that just publicity?-Ellen Gershenson, Dallas, Texas.

Q. What relation is Senator Russell Long to the late Huey Long?-B. P., Washington, D. C.

A. His son.

Q. How many Mormons are there in the world?-Louis Evans, Salt Lake City, Utah.

A. Approximately 2,000,000.

Q. Does the President of the U.S. smoke cigars?-Al Spacht, Rochester,

A. Yes.

O. Did Robert McNamara, the Defense Secretary, ever work for General Dynamics? Wasn't he once offered the presidency of that corporation? -Glenn T. Gordon, Seattle, Wash.

A. No, he never worked for General Dvnamics. His name was once suggested to Col. Henry Crown, largest individual General Dynamics stockholder, as a presidential possibility. The suggestion came from John McCone, now chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, but it was made without McNamara's knowledge and no action was ever taken on it.

Q. What is the relationship between a woman named Nina Steers and Jacqueline Kennedy?-D. J., Richmond,

A. She is Jackie Kennedy's half-sister.

Q. Was it really Mrs. Mary Rockefeller who wanted the divorce she eventually secured in Reno from Governor Nelson Rockefeller? — Rosemary Moore, Terre Haute, Ind.

A. No. Mrs. Rockefeller was willing to swallow her pride for the sake of her family and the governor's political career. She was aware of Governor Rockefeller's infatuation for Mrs. "Happy" Murphy. But each time she discussed it with him the governor insisted that he wanted a divorce because only a divorce would solve the problem of his heart.

A Boy and a Dolphin

TETRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER'S "Flipper" is the warm, amusing story of a boy who befriends and nurses back to health a wounded dolphin that becomes both pet and benefactor to the boy and his family.

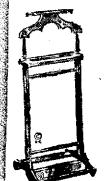

"Flipper" produced by Ivan Tors and directed by James B. Clark stars Chuck Connors and Kathleen Maguire and introduces Luke Halpin as the young boy. The picture was filmed in Metrocolor.

Sandy and the dolphin become pals, are parted later. Dolphin's action later solves family crisis.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to LaReina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

TEAR MISS RULE: Could you explain the origin of BICKFORD. — C. C., Long Beach; E. F., Redondo Beach. C. C., E. F.: BICKFORD is an early English surname formed from "Bican - forde," which eulogized "River-crossing of the hewer or mattock wielder." Forefathers include Alexander de Bikeford of Staffordshire in 1273. The Bickford shield from Devonshire is silver, decorated with a black, scalloped-edge chevron placed between three black, heraldic birds.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain ALVIS-E. A., Bell-

flower; H. A., Long Beach, E. A., H. A.: ALVIS, traced to its ancient English source, is found to have several meanings. The phrase "Allı-wis," later respelled Alvis, meant "divinely wise." Alvis also evolved from "Adal-wis" for "nobel and wise," The Alvis or Alves shield is silver, emblazoned with three green clover leaves and three silver spur-rowels on a blue chev-ron; the shield has a black border. The Alves motto "Deo Favente" means "God favoring me."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like history on AMBRIDGE-R. A., Long Beach.

R. A.: AMBRIDGE is a name shortened from the town called Hambridge, located in Somerset, England. This place-name began as

"Heam-bryeg," meaning "high or chief bridge." The Ambridge ancestor lived by this famous river-crossing. The The Ambridge shield is red, decorated with two silver rampant lions placed one above the other in the center.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on CARNEY— H. E., Long Beach.

H. E.: CARNEYS descended from Cearnac, an Irish chieftain whose name meant "victorious one." His sons formed the clan O'Cearnaigh, whose early home was in County Mayo, Erin. Late medieval alteration resulted in the Gaelic clan becoming O'Carney, Carney, and Kearny. The family shield is silver, emblazoned with a chevron between three and the spelling variation are from the old English phrase "Atte-weg," meaning "Dwellers in a home on a roadway." This name distinguished the ancestor's home from those of his neighbors which were on side paths and byways, No other data is available on these families.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on ATTAWAY and ADDAWAY — M, D., Long Beach; D. G., Garden Grove. M. D., D. G.: ATTAWAY

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you information on VIGNA-

ROLI?—S. V., Compton, S. V.: VIGNAROLI is Italian, taken from Vignaro, applied to an agriculturist, meaning "vineyard owner." To Vignaro was added the nickname ending "-oli" for "little." No coat-of-arms is recorded for Vignaroli.

THE "IN" WAY to spend the lunch hour at Long Beach State College these days is bouncing off the gymnastic version of a launching pad—the trampoline.

It looks difficult to the spectator, but it isn't.

"I think the trampoline is the easiest gymnastic event for a beginner to learn," says Kenneth Bartlett, gymnastics coach. He adds, however, "It's as difficult to become really skilled at this as anything else."

AND IT LOOKS dangerous. But, Bartlett says, "There isn't too much hazard if you have proper supervision, instrucisn't too much nazard it you have proper supervision, institu-tion and spotting. (Spotters around the rim stand ready to push a stray bouncer back onto the bed, or occasionally to break a fail.) "It's probably safer than the body contact sports, although some of the centers which sprung up a few years ago suffered from lack of supervision. There have been sprains, but no serious accidents at LBSC."

Bartletl, Big 10 all-around gymnastics champion in 1953 when he was a University of Minnesota athlete, coaches one of the state's best gymnastic teams. His gymnasts have won three conference titles in the past four years.

LBSC'S STAR trampolinist is Dick Foat, 20. Foat has won three California Collegiate Athletic Assn. trampoline titles, a California state championship and two UCLA Invitational Meet championships. As his college competitive career closes, he has worked out a professional air-borne clown act with which he hopes to continue in the sport.

Foat helps Bartlett supervise the noon "tramp" sessions, where the beginners have more fun than anyone eise.

One beginners have more run than anyone eise.

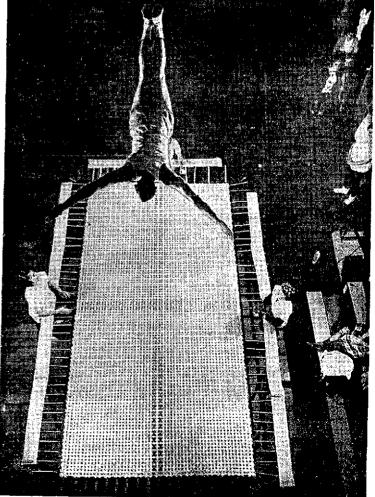

One beginner who made good is Judy Glenn, 20, a 5-foot-3 junior who took her first bounce on a trampoline less than a year ago. Two weeks before this year's Region 11 U. S. Gymnastic Championships, she decided to compete. She placed third in the four-state competition.

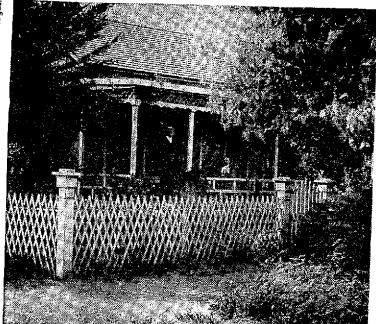

Seemingly in orbit in emulation of an astronaut of the same last name, but without benefit of rocket, Judy Glenn, today's high-flying cover girl, does a somersault.

Standing on his head on nothing is Dick Foat, graduating trampoline star at State College and winner of number of titles in collegiate competition.

Foat goes aloft in a "swan dive." This is a trampolinist's ove-view of world from up there. (No, Esmeralda, the photographer was on a ladder.)

First house to be built in Willmore City was the J. R. Cook family home, above, that was completed in 1882. Mr. and Mrs. Cook are seen on porch.

By Charles W. Crutcher

7OULD YOU have taken Greeley's advice and enjoyed living during early history making years when men were men and their women were glad of it?

Frank E. Cook did. Cook, 92, of 51 Atlantic Ave., is one of the last old, old timers and looks back proudly on pioneering days when his family trekked westward in covered wagon from Ohio to California in late 1860s. Not only was he proud of his family, he likes to recall experiences encountered while building Willmore City before it was rechristened Long Beach

"My father, J. R. Cook, was a man of few words," he says, "and it was my mother, Harriet Ann Cook, who told me in part of their westward trip when I grew old enough to under-stand: 'We'd take over land near creeks,' she said, 'where the soil was fertile, and we'd grow corn and vegetables, and raise a few cattle; we'd build our houses of sod, mixed with roots and tree branches which made the huts sturdy enough to resist the strong winds that blew across the

"My father had two rifles, a Henry and a Sharps, the best, and he knew how to use them; he'd kill rabbits, deer, and buffalo. Some of the buffalo meat they'd eat and some they'd sell to Army camps. The Civil War was on during part of their journey and there was hunger and dissension among the people."

THEY'D REMAIN longer in some places than others, especially when there was a new addition to family. The Cooks started out with Adelbert; Adolphus was born in Indiana; O. B. in Nebraska, and sister Amy and Elmer in Kansas.

In Kansas they were camped on a lonely trail one afternoon when J. R. noticed a twister (cyclone) forming and heading in their direction. Father and mother Cook rounded up the two sons and small daughter, Amy, and took them in direction of a farm house about half a mile away. The people living at the farm house had a storm cellar and invited them in.

After the storm, they returned to camping ground, and found their wagon had disappeared. All that could be found was an axle sticking in the ground a mile away.

They were guided to a settlement and were given clothes and provisions to last them until they could grow His family came west by covered wagon, and another crop. In about two years they had saved enough money from the sale of buffalo meat and hides to buy another wagon

IN NEBRASKA they were raided by Indians. Cook rushed his family to a fort several miles away; he later returned to hide all night in a cornfield he had planted. The Indians stole all the family's stock.

My family was jubilant when they reached the warm climate of California. They settled first in a community called Monterey. I was born there,"

Cook says.

Several months they lived in Monterey, then came southward and setterey, then came southward and set-tled about 30 miles from Santa Ana. Here J. R. purchased land on the Margarita Ranch. About this time, William Willmore's posters advertis-ing the beauty and great townsite known as Willmore City fell into Cook's hands.

THE COOKS, however, were still undecided where to settle and live permanently. They went to Salinas, where J. R. looked around. He liked the country and went into the grocery business.

"I was 3 years old," says Frank, "but I remember the grocery in a small frame building. In back was a large barrel of whisky and, instead of father treating customers by giving their offspring licorice and sticks of mint candy when they made their pur-chases or paid their bills, he turned over the barrel, free of charge, to male customers."

One day the male customers congregated around the barrel and got drunk and noisy. Disgusted, J. R. sold out and the family left Salinas, except Adelbert; he remained and followed the carpenter trade. The Cooks pointed their course toward San Juan Capistrano and lived there several months before pulling stakes, leaving Adol-phus to work in the walnut orchards. They headed for Willmore City and were surprised when they arrived in 1882 and they found it a long way from being built. There was but one tent at First Street and Ocean Boulevard, occupied by Capt. Charles Hea-ley, first Willmore City licensed sur-

"FATHER BOUGHT two lots for $25 each on the west side of Pine Avenue between Third and Fourth Streets. He dug the first surface well on one lot and supplied the little settlement with water."

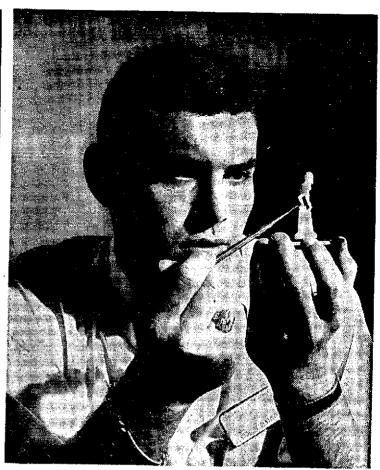

J. R. Cook immediately started hauling lumber for his home and lumber for a house to be built by Hazel-ton, William Seeley, William Briggs, and Stephen Busch at First Street and Pine Avenue, and to be occupied by the three families. J. R. finished his house first and won distinction for completing the first house in Willcompleting the first noise in will-more City. It was occupied by the Cook family until 1902, when J. R. sold the lots for $20,000. The house was moved off to make a business block. (Manning Cafe now occupies the homesite) the homesite.)

Story and Photos

By Jack B. Kemmerer

AVE YOU EVER wondered how dentists with very large hands ever manage to reach that tiny cavity in the back of your mouth?

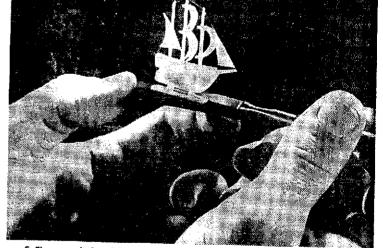

In addition to the awkward position, the dentist also must work on a very miniature scale even if the hole does feel like a cavern to you.

Dentists are made, however, not born, and the dexterity he demonstrates is often merely an extension of what he picked up while a freshman at dental school. This is particularly true if he is a graduate of University of Southern California's School of Dentistry.

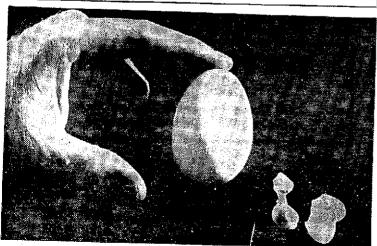

In 1929, Prof. William Harrison of USC's School of Dentistry noticed that most of his students, proficient enough in the basic sciences, somehow lacked the deft and artistic touch just as necessary in dentistry as drill, diplomas, and office manners.

Because hand skill is extremely important to a dentist, Dr. Harrison originated a very unique program to aid him in his teaching. This program consisted of a creative wax carving test to determine and evaluate the manual dexterity of his students. The wax carving test is still in use today and each freshman student must display his artistic talents using only a pocket knife and the standard dental tools to produce a miniature figure in wax. to produce a miniature figure in wax.

Box Seat to Wildlife Show

By E. C. McCrimmon

NOT MANY American women get an opportunity to watch African wild life from a tree house!

Such an opportunity came recently to Marjorie Paul, an Amercan community nurse in Ethiopia, when she went to Tanganyika on a vacation,

"Treetops' is a small hotel built in the tops of trees over a salt lick and watering place where the animals come to drink," she explains.

"As we approached it in the forest we saw ladders nailed to trees for a quick getaway in case the scout, who went ahead, spotted dangerous game."

The treetop hotel, supported by branches and reinforced by tall cedar logs, has three levels, all with porches. The top floor is open to afford a clear view of the night prowlers below. Safety is assured by pulling up the ladder to the first floor.

AS DARKNESS approaches —if it's a moonless night— two 1,000 watt arc lights gradually are turned up to simulate moonlight. The lights also protect the viewers from the viewed.

"As soon as we arrived at our room in the tree house, we saw a family of wart hogs and many baboons," Paul relates.

"Soon we had an extra fine show. Buffalo began coming before dark Nearly 60 elephants, 40 buffalo and a dozen rhino entertained us for hours. Those old rhinos are cantankerous souls!

"WATER BUCK crept into the far side of the watering hole. A bush duck, with bold stripes on the back of his body, remained only a few seconds. Four crowned cranes glided in and settled among the grass and reeds.

Returning to her home base at Gondar, Miss Paul saw some Masai. "They must use mud on their hair, making ringlets. Some of the younger boys even had their bodies smeared with this reddish stuff. Their ears were laden with earrings-the size bracelets."

IN GONDAR, where Miss Paul has charge of a group of native community nurses, she has an apartment in a building put up during the Italian invasion of Ethiopia. It rates a refrigerator, piped water and electric service that fluc-

American women boil all water, scrub vegetables and even sterilize dish towels.

JOMES THAT can match the mellow but modern qualities of the residence of Dr. and Mrs, Leslie Esposito, 2934 E. First St., Long Beach, are not to be found at every turn in spite of the beauties and comforts that are available to householders Rich paneling and fine construction ere marks of the beautiful residence of Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Esposito and family. Above, a view of the living room in which the effect is one of skilled design, comfortable living.

Pool and garden combine to present scene complementing the elegance of the rest of the home, the effect being that of a country estate. Photo at right speaks for itself in expressing natural beauty of the area.

5446 LONG BEACH BLVD:

Sturdy and handsome, the Esposita home expresses air of confidence and comfort. Above, a streetside view.

today. The maturity of 30 years, plus the careful attention of an original builder, inject an air of solidarity, com-fort and "home" into this pleasant dwelling.

The Espositos, with a large family of a moderately wide age spread, have modernized certain rooms (such as the kitchen area) and called in Charlotte Centoz, interior designer, to redecorate other rooms and portions of rooms.

The Espositos believe the room has historical value since the original owner built it with great care. They treasnre the rich paneling, the handsome dining room set, the carpeting which was especially made in Tibet, the carved sideboards — to name only a few items.

ALL CHANGES, both structural and decorative, were made with infinite care so as not to detract from the oldworld charm and beauty of the residence.

ing.
The formal dining room would be at home in a fine European mansion. So large is the room that two glittering chandeliers were chosen for the dining area. In order not to take attention away from the paneling shutters were chosen for the windows rather than drapes. Above the carved buffet is an ornately framed mirror flanked with two scones. The room invites a long lingering dinner by candlelight.

THE ESPOSITOS' living room is probably twice as large as an average one, A grand piano appears to occupy only a fraction of the room's space. Twin avocado chairs flank an occasional table, the unit facing the main conversation grouping in the far corner. Here, two long sofas form an "L" around a huge coffee table, in perfect proportion to the size of the room, In front of a paned window that overlooks the garden is a noteworthy French chair. Parenthetical note: in this lived-in home the chair is often used by some of the younger set for the puror the younger set for the purpose of playing king. The chair is, suitably, the throne. The kitchen and surrounding area provide just about every luxury a large family could desire. Ovens, stove, and outsire refrigerates line. and out-size refrigerator line one wall. More work area and the sink are on the other side facing the dining area of the family room. A sit-down bar also faces the dining area and garden beyond, where at least four persons can be seated comfortably on either side.

IN THE DINING area is a long table where eight can dine, with room for more if necessary. The entire far wall glass from floor to ceiling with a full view of the garden and pool.

Farther down in the area is walk-in bar that faces the garden There is still ample room for the couch and occasional chairs in the far end of the room, Young members of the family can, and do, bring home guests by the dozens. One of Dr. Esposito's favorite corners in the kitchen is an area where a full-sized builtin barbecue stands ready for use

One of the family's favorite rooms is the den, Leopard covering was selected for the sofa. Bookshelves line one wall, inviting one and all to stay and browse.

Upstairs, the bedrooms are large and numerous. There are walk-in dressing rooms, huge closets, and each room is furnished with custom perfection,

Reward from the Sea

Rich experience has come to the author and her husband from acquisition of this apartment property by the sea.

By Julie Hubert

PACH YEAR, as we take up the pleasant task of refurbishing our seashore apartments, I'm overtaken with an expectant joy. I can hardly wait to see the happy faces of our old guests who, like the returning swallows, come to us every summer for a vacation by the sea.

I can see them entering "their" apartment. "My! Look at those pretty drapes! And that oval mirror—brings the ocean right into the house."

We called ourselves refugees from the big city, my husband and I, when we bought this "big house" by the sea. Having grown tired of crowded city life and gasoline-filled air, we switched to the quiet dignity of seashore living. And, being a childless couple (with a dash of the gypsy in our blood) we per-suaded ourselves to enter into a new venture-renting apartments by the sea.

Without much planning, we each fell in with the work we were best suited for: my husband used his many skills to keep the property in tip-top shape, and it became my lot to act as manager of the SUDDENLY, our house was peopled with children. Here was my chance to get a taste of playing "Mother"—a game in which a priceless experience has unfolded.

You don't need an organized game. Just drop what you're doing and dash out into the sand. There are a dozen kids waiting for you to play catch or toss the ball around with them. Pick up the little toddler and kiss his bruised hand. Hug a crying child to your heart. What a magnificent play! You're mother, playmate and guard-

My ability to make children mind is probably rooted in my own childhood. Being one of a large flock of children, I shared in the discip-line of the house. We had "laws," not rules. And pun-ishment was swift if they were not obeyed.

I must confess that this flock of children was not the

What Makes People Laugh?

By Bob Davis

CONTRACTOR OF THE DID the brontosaurus cross the road?" the shaggy young man asked a score of people munching dinosaur steaks and drinking berry juice.
"To get to the other side . . . yuk . . . yuk . . . . yuk," he exclaimed.

Thus, possibly, the laugh merchants received their historical beginning. Who's to say? In any event, people have been laughing for a long, long time. Which raises the dual question:

"Why do you laugh, and what makes you laugh?"

"I've tried to figure it out, but all I get is a headache," said comedian Jaey Bishop. "I don't think anybody really

"You deliver a joke you think is so funny you can hardly keep from breaking up. But most of the audience sits on its hands. Or, the joke is an obvious dog, but the audience laughs uproariously. You stand there trying to figure out what happened. It's baffling.

"OBVIOUSLY, people laugh at different things at different times for different reasons,
"You probably wouldn't laugh if you took a pratfall, but if someone else did you might go into happy convulsions. Is it because of the look on the person's face, his disheveled appearance, or are you glad you aren't the only one to fall on your whatchamacallit?

"Maybe it's watching a small child putting his shoes on the wrong feet. Do you laugh because it's cutely funny, or because the cluid is so serious in his efforts?

"Like I say. It's a lot of different things."

STEVE ALLEN is another laugh merchant whose system for getting laughs is undisputed, yet "Why?" of laughter

Joey Bishop 🔐 : he can't 🥕 figure laughter leither.

"It's undoubdetly one of the real mysteries of life," he says, "While beauty is in the eye of the beholder, humor, apparently, is in the ear and mind of the listener

"A certain gift is required for a person to be able to repeatedly make others laugh. Perhaps only 100 professional comedians in the world today possess this natural ability.

"You can look, dress, think, say and act funny, but I guess what's really funny is when your audience thinks it's funny.

"The unexpected, the twist ending and the trueto-life situation are usually dependable getters.

"The impromptu laugh is perhaps the hardest to explain. It's the one that comes at a serious moment, like sitting in church, or a very dramatic part in the playsomeone laughs. It has happened to me . . . it's embarrassing. Suddenly the laugh is there . . . it's out . . . you don't know what caused it."

COMIC Don Lane often puts embarrassment to work for him.

To accomplish such a situation he takes the purse from an attractive woman in his night club audience. Then he discloses in a humorous fashion what the purse contains, all the time indicating something markable is inside.

The embarrassed gal squirms. Her escort manages a weak smirk. The audience howls.

Laughing at the harmless discomfort of others seems to be a popular pastime for American audiences," Lane said. "Unless the routine touches a personal nerve in the viewer, he will normally laugh at the problems of

made to appear humorous."

For the most part an experienced comedian can keep his audience laughing by the surprise ending, the humorous twist to a common everyday occurrence, or an instant ad lib, the three comedians agreed.

"THE AD LIB, done properly," Allen ex-plained, "is many times the greatest laugh get-

What it probably boils down to is this, said Bernard Teitel, a Long Beach psychiatrist:

"If the joke, regardless of the subject, strikes as tender a spot in the listener as it does to the victim, the listener won't laugh.

"Which probably accounts for the fact that many of today's comics usually portray themselves, a member of their family or a close friend as the victim . . so they won't offend.

"In this manner they create laughter at their own ineptitude, sorrow or embarrassment,

"FREQUENTLY laughter occurs when an individual's hidden, unspoken thoughts are suddenly freed by the actions or words of someone saying or doing what the individual wants to, but can't.

"For example: If you think your neighbor is a big, fat, dumb ox, you aren't going to tell him because he outweighs you by 75 pounds. But if someone confides in you that they think he is a big, fat, dumb ox, you laugh because someone has said what you won't admit out loud."

The Legends Finally Die

By Vera Williams Southland Magazine Rock Editor

"SLEEPER" of the season is likely to be Hal Borland's near-folk story, "WHEN THE LEGENDS DIE" (Lippincott, $4.50) about an Indian lad's growth into manhood and eventual return to the way of his ancestors,

Bear Boy, of the Ute Indian tribe in the hill country of Colorado early in the century, becomes orphaned and is betrayed into a reservation school where he becomes Thomas Black Bull. He is taken away by an alcoholic gambler who uses him in small-time bronc riding contests to win crooked bets. Then he becomes Killer Tom Black, a money-hungry rider on the big-time rodeo circuit.

Finally, he returns to the Colorado hill country and realizes that he cannot forget his Indian heritage or his

Hal Borland writes eloquently, and this probably rates as his best. "When the Legends Die" may be the most popular book of the

"CALIFORNIA: A History" (Crowell, $8.95) by Andrew F. Rolle, chairman of the Department of History at Occidental College where he is a specialist on California, is up-to-date and readable. In 620 pages the author recounts the history of the former Bear Flag republic from its primitive Indian beginnings to its complex present.

Rolle describes in vivid detail Spanish rule and influence, Mexican control, American exploration, devel-opment of the fur trade, the Gold Rush, building of the railroads, California's evolution to statehood.

Nearly one-fourth of "Cali-fornia: A History" is devoted to California in the 20th Century and deals with the presand future. Rolle discusses such pressing current problems as population ex-pansion, traffic congestion, smog control, water conservation and migratory labor.

MORE THAN 300 Viennese, German, French, British and American operatias are de-tailed in "THE COMPLETE BOOK OF LIGHT OPERA" by Mark Lubbock and David Ewen (Appleton - Century -Crofts, $12.95). The 972-page volume contains 20 pages of photographs, synopses, casts of characters, performance information and musical examples from such favorites as "The Chimes of Normandy," "The Gypsy Baron," "The Dollar Princess," "White Horse Ian" and 14 Savoyard classics, as well as "The Quaker Girl," "Florodora," "The Pink Lady" to "Salad Days," "Kiss Me Kate," "The Music Man" and "How to Succeed—"

H. ALLEN SMITH writes about himself and sex, shipboard life and sex, Tahiti and sex, natives and sex and well, sex and sex, all in sprightly fashion in "TWO-THIRDS OF A COCONUT TREE" (Little, Brown, $5). In it, he says he tries to catch the authentic spirit of the South Seas, Tahiti, the Smith headquarters for the trip, he says "has a small-town, villagey character cross-pollinated with an international flavor. There is more to it than coconut bread and unbridled license (the best kind) and frangipani." Native girls he describes as more than willing, beautiful, with velvet-smooth skins but they need to have their teeth fixed. A lot of laughs in the book, The book derives its title from a Tahiti zoning law that restricts the height of all new buildings to "two-thirds of a coconut tree."

Decorative flower cart permits portable flower display.

By Bill Meyerriecks

TERE'S how to make the happiest efforts of your spring and summer planting a joy to behold. Display them with the help of the Garden Flower Cart. It is something that can be one of the most satisfying and decorative adjuncts to your garden. And it allows you to shift the growing flowers from shade to sun in a jiffy.

The cart, standing about 28 inches high and about 32 inches long, is constructed primarily of exterior plywood and pine lumber. You can make it and decorate it in fancy or simple style as you wish. The plans show all full-size cutting patterns for the more elaborate parts and step-by-step instrucpatterns for the more elaborate parts and step-by-step instructions on building the cart. Also included are suggested paint-on designs should you want to decorate it. The flower cart, incidently, makes a handy storage bin for your plants and bulbs during the winter. It also can be put into service during the winter months as a portable bar or server.

It's Barbecue Time Again

SOUTHLAND weather beckons to outdoor fans for al fresco dining once again and the handsome table and bench set pictured below with NBC television actress Eileen O'Neill was designed to last a lifetime. It will withstand outdoor weather and a coat of paint or varnish each spring will keep it looking like new. The table is six feet long and will easily seat eight; however, you may make yours longer or shorter depending upon your needs. It's assembled with bolts and screws, and when you build it yourself, the cost is within everyone's budget.

To build the table you need only trace the full size pattern. dining once again and the handsome table and bench set

To build the table, you need only trace the full size pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and put them together. The table pictured was built of Douglas fir, but pine or redwood may also be used. Required materials are listed on each pattern along with easy-to-understand directions and illustrations.

To order, specify Barbecue Table-Bench Pattern No. 312 and send $1 in currency, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

A NEW surgical glue shows promise of being suitable for many operations on the eye, two research teams report in American Journal of Ophthalmology.

The glue, a plastic, is methyl 2-cyanoacrylate, also known as Eastman 910 monomer.

Researchers at Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia and Mount Sinai Hospital in New York say experiments on rabbit eyes show that the glue has excellent adhesive qualities.

A DRUG called Midrin has been found to be effective in the treatment of vascular-type headaches, according to Dr. Henry D. Ogden of Louisiana State University School of Medicine.

The drug does not contain ergotamine, which can cause adverse side effects, says the report in the official publication of the American Association for the Study of Headache.

DO NOT DISTURB the eggs, not even if more than 90 days go by. Incubation takes 79 days or more. About four days before incubation is complete, the baby tortoises start squirming inside the eggs, and in this way bring the eggs to the surface where they hatch. This takes a while, and when the little heads poke out, then the rest of the tortoises appear, you will have a famished family on your hands. The new babies may also be thirsty. No matter what you have heard, most desert tortoises enjoy drinking water and even sticking their heads into a shallow pan-full, However, if their food is succulent, they can exist without drinking.

Food should consist of shredded lettuce, chopped apple, peeled tomato, cut melons, orange juice given by dropper, other fruits, clover, leaves, and flowers.

Willmore City

(Continued from Page 8) for the water department under Willmore; O. B. worked for surveyors, and I was put in Pickles School at First and Locust Avenue with about 30 pupils, transferred later to Elementary School under Prof. Trowbridge."

WHEN Frank Cook was 13, Willmore City's first hotelthe Bay View—for which his father hauled lumber and helped build, was completed. It was owned by Josiah Smith; it had 10 rooms and kitchen

Frank was a livery boy for a stable owned by Ike Fetterman on First between Pine and Pacific, and a stable on Ocean owned by Greeley (no relation to Horace). He was a blacksmith helper during one school vacation, and he worked for harness makers at the Bixby Los Alamitos Rancho.

He was a printer's devil under a printer by the name of Elwood, on the Long Beach Journal, established in 1888, the first newspaper in Willmore City. Owned by Amos Bixby, a brother of Jonathan, it was a seven-column folio, issued on Fridays. Subscription: $2 a year,

He drove cars for Judge Widney's little railroad, first communication established in Willmore City.

When the Southern Pacific took over, they put in a narrow gauge railroad and used engines they brought from California mines.

COOK WORKED for the Long Beach Hotel, completed in 1884, Willmore's second hotel. It was located across from Lincoln Park and on south side of Ocean. It had 130 rooms, was three stories high, and was added to later.

In the early morning of Nov. 8, 1888, the hotel caught "I was attending a dance in a building at Second and Pine, standing and talking with several boys, who were smoking in back entrance, when one of them happened to look out the door and noticed fire coming from around chimney on second floor.
"I ran as fast as I could," says Frank, "to the Chautaqua-Tabernacle and rang the bell in the belfry for 15 minutes, and then ran to the burning hotel and helped save some of the furniture. The hotel burned to the ground; Willmore City had no fire equipment."

Frank ran for Willmore City's first city clerk and tax collector jobs and was elected. The job paid $50 a month at the time. His father was superintendent of Lincoln Park, making $50 a month. The city ruled that only one person in a family could be on public payroll. J. R. Cook wanted his son to have the job so he retired. He died in

Revard from the Sea favors, party hats and a cake by me "Keep an eye on him," Nickie's mother cautioned me

(Continued from Page 15) happiest one on the block; but the benefits, as in many other things, came later in life, Today, I merely try to make use of a couple of the rules that I obeyed as a child. I call them my "twins"; a serious face, and a tone of voice to back it up. Firmness.

LAST YEAR I gave a birthday party for Nickie. He was four. All the kids in the apartments were invited to a daz-zling table in the patio, with about her little boy's tantrums. "When Nickie wants his way he starts throwing things around."

"Thanks for tipping me off," I said, and quietly, I proceeded to set up an extra little table in one corner of the patio. No decorationsjust a crepe table cloth and a couple of bridge chairs.

Nickie was behaving beautifully—until three-year pld
Tommy made a grab for Nickie's hat. Then things started flying.

I CALLED on both mothers. "Do you want me to handle this, or do you want to do it?"
"It's your party," said spiritedly, refusing even to come near the scene, "Tell the kids we're not home."

Drawing up my face, I

Holding out my hand to ommy I said, "Give me Tommy I said, Nickie's hat."

The child handed over the hat with a big puzzled look in his face. Then I turned to Nickie. "Do you want your hat back?"

He reached out defiantly, "It's mine."

"No, not yet," I stalled.
"First, pick up everything that you threw on the ground."

He didn't budge. But Sue, his older sister, started gathering up the things from the ground. "Get back to your scat," I ordered. "Nickie threw those things down and he will have to pick them up." But Nickie still didn't budge. His eyes filled with tears and his lips shaped the expected cry, "Mommie—"

"YOUR MOTHER isn't home," I said. Then, pointing to the little table in the corner, I added firmly, table there is for bad little boys. You're going to sit there all by yourself if you don't pick up the things you threw on the ground." I placed a little basket in his hand. "Put everything in that basket, Nickie."

Whatever it was-the sinister little table in the corner, or my "twins," slowly, peevishly, Nickie started cleaning up the ground. For added incentive, I helped him pick up a couple of paper cups myself. Then I handed him his hat. "Thank you, Nickie, You're a good boy."

I don't know whether mothers have favorites, but I must confess I do. One of them is little Jeanie.

Jeanie always serenades me when she wants to lure me out to play. As soon as I hear her golden voice I rush to the door, "How's my sweet little girl?"

"Can you play with me?" She will say this in a hushed voice, as though this was something between us only and not for the other kids to

JEANIE is a long-bodied 31/2-year-old, with sparkling blue eyes, a golden face and a disposition that hardly befits a human child. I'm sure she must be an angel.

Summers are short and so are the joys of a vacation. In the long winter months there are memories, and hopes of another year. There are Christmas cards, and occasional notes from the mothers of these kids. They come like rays of silver through the fog and haze that engulf the sea. "Debbie still talks about the wonderful time she had last summer." "Today David included your name in his

Dental Dexterity

The students are allowed complete freedom in selecting their subjects for the test. Once the test is started each student then has eight hours of classroom time to complete his miniature project. Dr. Harrison examines cach individual piece of finished wax and from this determines the amount of extra work each student must do in order to develop his dexterity to the proper level.

After 31 years the tests have proven that dental students who graduate with top honors are the same ones who made the best models four years before. In fact, accurate predictions of who will be outstanding and who will be below average can be made on the basis of these first-year sculpturing aptitude tests.

Today Dr. Harrison's office on the campus resembles an art gallery in miniature with more than 2,000 miniature objects carved from tiny cylindrical pieces of hard dental wax only an inch high and three-quarters of an inch wide. In the Lilliputian museum of students' work are handsomely and delicately carved musical instruments, automobiles, moveable gears, wind mills, sailboats, two-faced busts, movie projector, cigarette lighter, cabinet with moveable drawers, and a reflection of this modern era, a sputnik.

Many of the wax miniattures are exquisitely carved and would win the admiration of any professional sculptor

And, as Dr. Harrison is fond of saying, "If you need a dentist for a particularly artistic piece of work come down to my art gallery. The student who made the most intricate and perfectly carved miniature will be the dentist for the job."

Home Decorating

If you are constantly striving to improve the decor of your home, you'll want a new Sunset Book, "Interior Art and Decoration" (Lane Pub. Co., Menlo Park, Calif., $1.75), which contains hundreds of ideas along this line.

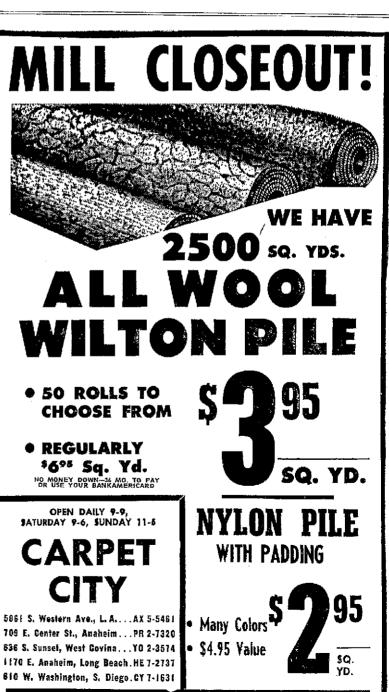

The book is aptly subtitled "Craft Projects and Decorating Ideas to Beautify Your Home," for it includes such devices as lighting, wall panels, shoji screens, plants, bookshelves, mobiles. Photos and drawings help to describe each. In addition, there are chapters on ways to display pictures, books, magazines; lamps you can make; window and entryway treatments; bedroom and bath; and children's room decorations.

Small Boat Atlas

Trailer - boat combinations have sent the zooming ranks of boating enthusiasts far afield in search of all manner of waters for fishing, water skiing, motor and sall boating. With this in mind, Sunset Books offers "Northern California Boating Atlas" (Lane Book Co., $1.95), a small boat atlas filled with charts for all boatable rivers, lakes, reservoirs and ocean harbors from Monterey to Eureka. Included are full navigational details for San Francisco Bay and the Delta area. Boating vacationers heading north next summer will find this valuable.

A Thermos jug is handy.

But if you don't want to carry that, before you leave the U.S., buy a couple of those snap-on-snap-off bottle caps. You're often carrying bottled water and often they don't have a cork.

In the crowded summer, before you leave one hotel, choose the next one. Guide Michelin helps you on this. Have your concierge phone the next hotel stop and get you a firm reservation. If you don't you wind up in some awful places.

MY TENDENCY is to take too many suits. On shipboard, you find you are mostly in shorts, short-sleeved shirts, khakis. You put on the tie and coat only at dinner. Two is plenty. One would do it.

If you are going into the tropics, a short, folding umbrella is handy in those quick bursts of heavy rain. Doubles as a sunshade, too. Raincoats are too hot.

PANORAMA of breathtaking color awaits visitors this month in booming Lompoc Valley, 55 miles northwest of Santa Barbara.

For June marks the peak blooming period of the longfamous commerically - grown flower fields in the area, and the blossoms are expected to be at their best during Lompoc's 11th annual Flower Festival - in celebration of the occasion-June 22-23.

More than 2,400 acres will be a blaze of color during the Festival — the fields which grow more than 50 per cent of the world's supply of flower seeds. In bloom will be at least 500 varieties of sweet peas, marigolds, petunias, stocks, daisies, larkspur, poppies and other prize flowers.

IT IS INTERESTING to note that some of the petunia seeds grown here last year sold for $3,000 an nunce.

Visitors will be privileged to drive or walk the country roads between great blocks of reds, pinks, blues and golds stretching—at times as far as the eye can see.

The best displays, according to latest reports, will be along Hwy. 150, between along Hwy. 150, between Lompoc and Surf (on the coast), and the country high-ways leading north off Hwy. 150 in this area. Flamboyant displays also will be found along Santa Rosa Road, south and east of Lompoc.

As in the past, there will be buses for those lacking transportation.

LOMPOC, naturally, will capitalize on its flower heritage during the colorful Festival. All floats in the parade, starting at 10 a.m. June 22, will be decorated with live flowers. Industrial exhibits and concessions will be situated in Ryon Park, on W. Ocean Ave.

Those who drive to Lompoc for the occasion — and we strongly recommend such a trip—will find the area has made a fantastic growth in the past few years. Population of the Valley is now estimated at 25,000, no doubt stimulated by its proximity to Vanden-berg Air Force Base and Pt. Arguello Navy Missile Facility which covers a 90,000-acre strip of land bordering the Pacific immediately west of the city.

To reach Lompoc, visitors may leave Hwy. 101 at Las Cruces, turning left on Hwy. , or at Buellton, picking up Hwy. 150.

LAS VEGAS has no corner on top entertainment. For instance, the South Shore Room of Harrah's Tahoe has lined up these stars: Robert Goulet (June 3-16), Lawrence Welk (June 3-16), Lawrence Weik (June 17-July 7), Danny Thomas (July 8-14)), Sammy Davis Jr. (July 15-Aug. 4), Dinah Shore (Aug. 5-18), Mitzi Gaynor (Aug. 19-Sept. 8), and Liberace (Sept. 9-22).

Reminiscent of old English drawing rooms is this fine liqueur table, a Long Beach woman's family heirloom.

VISIONS of a stately old English drawing room are inspired by a handsomely appointed mahogany liqueur table owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson of 100 Atlantic Ave. It was handed down in Mrs. Hudson's side of the family, who came from Leeds, England, many years ago. The table is an ingenius example of one style of the various cabinets that were designed for the storage and serving of fine wines and liqueurs long ago.

Although only 12 inches square and 32 inches high, the table is a compact marvel of space-saving efficiency. Four genuine Bristol glass decanters with stoppers are fitted into the center, which are surrounded with 16 liqueur glasses, each one in its own small compartment. The complete unit rests on a sort of tray affair with a handle, which lifts out easily when desired. The trim, box-shaped top is hinged, so that it breaks into two separate sections that fold back when opened. The modest carving at the base and a simple, gold-effect inlaid stripe in a square outline on the cover, enhance the dignity of the old piece.

THE GLASSES and decanters were made in Bristol, England, one of the most famous of glassmaking centers of the 18th century. They are clear glass with a decorative ribbing in delft blue, a color and style particularly characteristic of the Bristol factory.

The entire cabinet is in excellent condition. The varnish, mellow with age, is thought to be the original. There is a Bond Street label, "P. S. Neale," and a catalog number. The acme of material, workmanship and design incorporated into the liqueur table indicate that "the best" was considered none too good for such equipment in days gone by.

Suspended from a plate rail, this plant displays an arti-ficial nasturtium in bloom and trained to grow out and down by use of covered wire.

FTEN blooming lonely on the sand dunes of the Mojave desert and the sandy areas of Indio are the evening primroses. While it is true that their white blossoms, later turning to pink loveli-ness, may be wasted on the desert air, they do leave behind a souvenir of their short life on earth to challenge the ingenuity of man. For strange as it may seem after blooming the stems of the plant have a peculiar way of turning in-ward and upward so that, when dried by the sun, they form a basket or a bird cage,

The roots are near the sur-face and the plants may be gathered easily on a visit to the desert. There are many sizes and shapes of these plants and all will not be perfect because the sphinx moths

New Garden Club

First meeting of the West Garden Grove Branch, California National Fuchsia Society, is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Bryant School Cafetorium, 8371 Orangewood Ave., Garden Grove. Mrs. Conrad Personne of Haw-thorne, an accredited flower show judge, will speak and show colored slides of fuchsia uses in landscaping.

Anyone interested in gardening is invited, said Mrs. Jean Cregar of Garden Grove, club president pro tem. Prizes, a plant table and refreshments are planned and admission is free. The club plans meetings regularly on the first Tuesday of each month. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Cregar, 539-1876, or M William Wigan, 897-9891.

choosing the shape and size, the plants may be used in their natural state or sprayed gold or silver or a pastel color to harmonize with room decor.

In the photograph at left, a dried plant was used as a hanging basket, sprayed white, and an artificial blooming was nasturtium vine twined inside and left to hang down. The vine had a covered wire in it so that it could be twisted or bent as desired. An easy way to hang such a basket from a plate rail or valance box is to use a nylon rishing line cut to length, tying one end of line to the plant and using a fish hook on the other end. Then it may be moved to different places for different effects,

Dried, cage-like plants of the evening primrose add a note of interest to decor. This one contains a blue and a red artificial bird.

How to Have Plowers All Year

By Joe Littlefield

THOSE WHO sing of the flowers that bloom in the spring are those who don't live in Long Beach area, because here the flowers bloom the year around - and just two kinds of shrubs will do the job. They are roses and camellias . . . roses from spring late into fall and camellias overlapping those seasons and filling the gap between.

Camellias may be grouped roughly into three divisions by reason of their blooming seasons; some, such as Dai Kagura, blooming early in the fall, Debutante in midseason and Blood of China late into spring.

You don't have to wait till bare-root season to plant roses. Your local nurseryman and garden center dealer has them in cans, ready to set

The same is true of camellias. They are in cans or pots. Many nurserymen tag plants to show colors and forms,

A clever way to have portable color in your patio or for bare areas of the garden is to grow some camellias in pots or wooden containers. Plant them in a soil mixture composed of three parts of garden soil and two parts of a prepared mulch mixture. They'll grow some during the summer, and supply flowers during fall or winter season. Grow them in the shaded area of the patio.

They're excellent plants in

To Install

partial shade in the ground. Plant camellias in shade in hot, dry areas. Water them

ROYAL Bird of Paradise is another fall through winter season bloomer. It is somewhat tender to frost, standing cold from 30 to 20 degrees above zero, so use judgment when planting them out.

Other long bloomers are Helleborus or "lenten rose" and saxifrage. They flower all winter long and are low growing perennials to around a foot tall. Helleborus won't stand more than an hour or so of early morning sun, or late afternoon sun in milder areas. In hot sections, it and saxifrage should be in shade.

Consult your nurseryman

GARDEN CHATS with GORDON

LAWN DISEASES

"What causes brown spots in my lawn?" is a question often heard at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY.

There are a number of causes, but the most common is lawn fungus. While many types exist, the usual ones in this climate are Dollar Spot, Fairy Ring and Root Rot, Dollar Spot shows in small, brown, round spots, spreading from one to several over the yard within a few days.

Fairy Ring forms rings which spread outward and is sometimes accompanied by toadstools.

Root Rot grows in the shade and appears rather gradually under trees or in the absence of direct sun.

These types and many more are controlled by lawn fungicides. Preventative spraying should be done in May and June as fungus spors are usually present and should be destroyed before their active season in July and August. This will prevent their disfiguring so many lawns each season.

We have the fungicides needed to combat these diseases at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY at 5431 E. Spring St. (at Bell-flower Blvd.), Long Beach—ph. HA 5-1362.

MMACULATE goblets . . . shining silverware . . . snowy tablecloths . . . fine service by carefully selected waiters and waitresses . . elegant atmosphere of a modern English inn.

Those are some of the qualities which make Hoefly's, 4911 E. Second St., one of the most outstanding restaurants in the entire Southern California area. Co-owners Irving and Hal Solomon have turned this Belmont Shore landmark into a showplace restaurant which attracts the continued patronage of councilmen, other top civic leaders, film and TV personalities and sports celebrities.

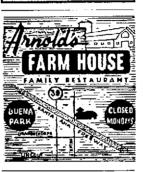

Hoefly's large staff, accented by the work of such specialists as chef Jay Isbell and maitre d' Don Polifka, is perhaps one of the best trained in this area. And it goes without saying that Hoefly's cuisine-famed for over 33 years – is always of superlative character.

Currently drawing raves are several new items added to the Chef's Selections' side of the menu. Four of these specialties are featured daily, changing each day, Today's features, for example, will include boncless breast of capon Cacciatiore with spaghetti; roasted whole chicken with candied yams, dressing and giblet gravy ($6.50 for two persons); roast leg of lamb with savory dressing and mint jelly; and Swiss steak with mushrooms, Priced from $3,25 those delectable entrees are accompanied by a chilled dish of relishes, hearty soup, magnificent tossed salad. sourdough and pumpernickle breads, beverage and dessert.

Also featured are Hoefly's extraordinary prime rib au jus, charcoal-broiled choice steaks and sea foods:

POPE CLINGING TO LIFE, IN COMA, THEN LUCID

VATICAN CITY, Sunday (P)-Pope John XXIII, in the third day of his mortal illness, sent special blessings to the world this Pentecost Sunday. The Vatican called the 81-year-old pontiff's physical resistance "extraordinary" but said again that there

The 81-year-old pontiff had lucid moments in the third night of his mortal struggle, took swallows of water and repeated religious phrases, Vatican radio sald at 6 a.m. (midnight Saturday EST). It said:

vigilance," the broadcast said.

"The dozing which has been going on for 12 hours," said the radio, "was marked by intervals of brief moments of lucidity in the course of which the pontiff took some swallows of water.

The situation remains at the same unchanged level of concern of the past days, added to which is the progressive loss of strength after more than 50 hours of crisis. The doctors who have kept close watch on the state of breathing and the pulse-which is regular-refrain from making any predictions.

The doctors continue the same grave opinion expressed over Friday and Saturday." (They said then there was no hope for survival.)

The Vatican press office had reported at 2:40 a.m.

that the Roman Catholic ruler again was emerging from the coma that has gripped him in most of his hours of crisis.

It said the Pope experienced a few moments of lucidity, his pulse was good and his temperature had dropped to 100.4 degrees after having risen to 103.1 Saturday night.

"His condition remains stationary in its gravity," the announcement added.

A spokesman said there was no sign of immediate danger, indicating that the Vatican felt the Pope had hours-possibly days-to live. Prelates re-

Council Recommendations

IN CITYWIDE VOTING in Tuesday's general municipal election, nine City Councilmen—the entire member-ship—will be chosen from among the nominees picked in district voting at the primary.

Before the primary, we pointed out that there must be reliance upon district voters to select capable candidates for all of us to consider in June. This they did. In the field of 18 candidates there is ample talent from which to choose a Council which will wisely control the operation of the municipality in the next three years.

Because that responsibility will not only be heavy but will be complicated by many serious problems, we feel that the emphasis should be on experience in making Council selections. We therefore strongly endorse seven of the nominated incumbents. In the other two contests, we give our endorsement to men well-grounded in community affairs and by ability and temperament qualified to work with the Council veterans.

DIST. 1—Raymond C. Kealer, has long enjoyed and deserved the confidence of Long Beach voters. With an engineering background and intimate knowledge of the petroleum industry, his service is invaluable in dealing with the state on tidelands and oil questions. No one filed against Mr. Kealer in the primary and his opponent is on the ballot by virtue of a smattering of write-in votes. His reelection is a "must."

DIST. 2—Bert Bond, a sound business man, was elected in 1960 and renominated this year by overwhelming majorities, indicating a show of public confidence which we share. Mr. Bond's approach to issues is Intelligent and analytical. His opponent has offered no reason for replacing this capable incumbent.

DIST. 3—Incumbent Lewis D. Rese has a long record of constructive accomplishment as a civic leader and public official. His advice and his vote have been consistently sound. He led in the development of the city's great Marina program and was a key worker for intellicent handling of the subsidence problem. His opponent, Dana Brown, is a respected citizen making a second try for this Council position. While we have nothing against Mr. Brown, we feel Mr. Reese's record and experience clearly call for his reelection.

DIST. 4—Attorney James Hayes is a young attorney who proved the overwhelming choice of district voters in the primary. He is qualified in every way to make a good Councilman. He is a student of municipal problems and his legal training and knowledge will be a valuable asset. We feel that citravide voting chould be a valuable asset. We feel that city-wide voting should confirm the convincingly demonstrated opinion of district voters that he is an advantageous replacement for Andrew H. Baird. whose Council career has been short on accomplishment and long on calculated flamboyancy.

DIST. 5-Edwin W. Wade is a clear choice for reelection. He has given intelligent service as a Councilman and creditable leadership as Mayor in the last three years. His opponent, Walter E. Vincent, has provided no basis for rejecting Mr. Wade's bid for reelection.

DIST. 6—Emmet M. Sullivan has served well on the Council, giving hardheaded consideration of every issue, As a former harbor commissioner, he is versed in harbor affairs as they relate to Council action. He gave excellent service this year as chairman of a committee named to study county supervisor district revision. He is intimately acquainted with the problems of city-state relationships. His opponent, Huey Shepard, is a respected attorney, but experience and demonstrated ability call for reelection of the incumbent.

DIST. 7—Our endorsement goes to Robert F. Crow, a capable business man with a talent for public service. Mr. Crow has demonstrated courage and ability. He is articulate and personable and another victory over Harold E. Perkins, who opposed him last time, is clearly justified.

DIST. 8—William A. (Bill) Graham has proved to be one of the sound heads on the Council, worthy of the overwhelming district ballot victory he won in May. On the solid theory that one good term deserves another, we endorse his candidacy wholeheartedly, without prejudice toward his opponent, Mercer Martin.

DIST 9-Virgil Spongberg, who served in this position long and well, chose to retire this year and has given his endorsement to R. E. (Pat) Corbett. We share this opinion of Mr. Corbett, who has been active in civic afopinion of Art. Corpett, who has been active in civic ar-fairs, has served as city civil service commissioner and has demonstrated qualifying capabilities for good Council service. The other nominee is Otho R. Cordray, city park commissioner with a commendable desire to broaden his public service. The top district vote went to Mr. Corbett and he has our warm endorsement.

Such is our appraisal of the Council contests. We have sought to be fair but, as the voter must, have faced up to the necessity of making a decision. The men we have endorsed will make a strong Council. Our endorse-ments are offered on the basis of our interest in the welfare of Long Beach. To no individual, business or organization are its prosperity and progress more important. | three eldest sons,

Voters Set to Select 9 Councilmen

By BOB HOUSER

An estimated 50,000 to 58,000 Long Beach voters will elect nine councilmen to three-year terms Tuesday and mark decisions on eight ballot measures.

Political observers, cautious after overestimating the May 14 primary vote which totaled less than 23 percent, lowest primary mark since 1919, made the estimate. It is 35 to 40 percent of the total of registered voters.

CITY CLERK Margaret Heartwell estimates from 33 to 40 percent of the city's 145,105 registered voters will cast ballots. Among the indicators, she said, is a pickup in absentee-ballot activity-239 ballot requests as against 100 in the primary.

Voters will mark an X beside nine names in the councilmanic section of Tuesday's ballot. In the primary they could select only the nomince from their own district, but Tuesday's vote is citywide and every voter has his say in all nine coun-

L.B.'s MAN OF MYSTERY

DID HE OWE $4.5 MILLION?

Until the early morning hour of May 13, there had been but one public image of Abe Tenenbaum. Well known in Long Beach, he was considered a shrewd, successful businessman, a community-minded, philanthropic citizen, a gentle devoted

Then, on May 13, Abe Tenebaum died. The fact and manner of his death were of his own choosing. He swallowed poison.

But with his death, Tenenhaum suddenly became the focal point of the most provocative mystery in the 75-year history of Long Beach. Fact and fiction are so closely interwoven that they may never be completely separated. One faction claims that the public image of Tenenhaum, based on fact, is generally accurate though possibly overgenerous.

Other Tenenbaum acquaintances portray the financier as a desperate man, manipulating a vest financial empire to keep it from crumbling and crushing his friends and relatives.

Still another group point out that there are rumors, unconfirmed, that picture Tenenhaum as a poor businessman, a gambler and an opportunist. Rumors, unconfirmed but in general circulation, portray Tenenbaum as a man who:

1. Had a personal indebtedness of $4.5 million. 2. Had a reckless yen to gamble large sums at

3. Had borrowed huge sums of money and then had to borrow larger sums at outlandish interest rates to pay back earlier creditors.

4. Had been an astute businessman all his life but suddenly and unwisely extended himself far beyond his capacity.

Abe Tenenhaum came to Long Beach from San Diego more than 30 years ago. He developed his American Jewelry and Loan Co. at 35 Pine Ave. into a prosperous headquarters for enterprises which ultimately included another jewelry store, an auclinn house, a share of an immensely successful chain of discount stores, a share of an ambitious

L.a.C. Says: Tuesday Election

During the past week in the daily Independent this column has discussed in detail all of the eight propositions to be found on next Tuesday's Long Beach city election ballot. In the following I will summarize the reasons for the recommendations given below. The election of city councilmen for the nine councilmanic districts will be by citywide vote. My recommendations for the council are:

1st Dist. Kealer 6th Dist. Sullivan 2nd Dist. Bond 7th Dist. Crow 3rd Dist. Reese 8th Dist. Graham 4th Dist. Haves 9th Dist. Corbett 5th Dist. Wade

Prop. A is the most important proposition on the ballot because it would permit the use of tideland oil money to guarantee $60 million of bonds to be issued by the World's Fair Corporation. Since this is use of public money, the city council should provide for adequate representation on the executive committee of this corporation to protect the public interest. It is not a bond issue involving obligations on property owners. It would be tideland oil money expected to come from drilling under the ocean in front of the city. The money could only be used with permission of the State Lands Commission-which would be expected to also provide adequate safeguards. Because these safeguards can be expected-and because the world's fair would be a great asset—we recommend NAACP's Leader a Yes vote on Prop A.

Prop B, if approved, would also permit the use of tideland oil money. This would apply to use of $1,-265,000 to demolish Belmont Pier and replace it with a new facility. This expenditure is also dependent upon approval of the State Lands Commission. These tideland oil funds can only be used on the tidelands for specific purposes. For these reasons a Yes vote is recommended.

Prop. 1 would permit the city council to issue up to $5 million of gas department revenue bonds to be used in an emergency for repairs in event of earthquake or other disaster-or for acquisition of other gas companies serving the city—or for securing of new gas resources. The bonds—if issued—would be repaid from gas department revenues. Because the reserve fund is needed, a Yes vote is recommended.

Prop. 2 would increase the length of time the city council could grant franchises. The present maximum term is 35 years. This would be increased to 60 years under Prop. 2. This would encourage public utility companies to make greater expenditures because of the longer period to liquidate the expenditures. A Yes vote is recommended on Prop. 2.

Prop. 3 would extend the Harbor Department maximum term for leases or permits to 60 yearsfrom the present 40 years. For the same reasons as above we recommend a Yes vote on Prop. 3.

Prop. 4 eliminates the fees now required from applicants for leases or permits in the harbor. It would have little effect on income-but would eliminate confusion and irritations under the present system. A Yes vote is recommended on Prop. 4.

Prop. 5 would change the procedure in the Harbor Department as concerns granting of leases and permits. Short-term leases-less than five years-could be granted by resolution-rather than by ordinances. It would cut down the waiting period and would permit posting of notices of board action rather than publishing same in newspapers. It is estimated the cost of publishing now runs less than $2,000 a year. Publishing gives wider reader opportunity for those interested than does posting. I do not think the difference is of great importance. For this reason and because this involves newspaper advertising, I will make no recommendation on Prop. 5.

Prop. 6 would increase the pay to city councilmen to $400 a month. It has been $200 the past 15 years. If the amount of time given by city councilmen was computed, it would probably show them putting in close to 200 hours a month. They are responsible for service to 350,000 people and a budget of over $30 million a year. It is true we have had councilmen who would be a liability at any price. But the great majority of present and past councilmen have been honorable and able people. Because I believe the job calls for a greater income a Yes vote is

A downtown parade was the chief Saturday afternoon feature of the California Square Dance convention which has brought some 18,000 dance enthusiasts to Long Beach for the weekend,

More than 100 units participated in the event on Ocean Boulevard.

The huge gathering devoted most of its convention to dancing workshops and panels, and to dancing for the fun of it. A banquet Saturday night was followed by a style-show and entertainment.

The convention opened Friday. It closes this afternoon with a round dance windup party.

The South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs Inc., which is made up of 67 clubs, was host to the mammoth convention.

Among the groups participating in the parade were:

From Long Beach—Long Beach Junior Concert Band drill team, majorettes and band; Whirling Tops; Honey Comb Squares; B'N'B; Scaside Squares; Wow Squares; Square and Star: Yvonne's Liberty Belles; Car Caravan; Fairs and Squares; co-chairmen Bill and May Tickell; Long Beach Fire Department.

But private detectives, with few exceptions, have refrained from using dogs.

"I'm cutting a notch in this field," said private eye Bob Byron whose firm (Trojan Investigation Corp.) rents patrolmanaccompanied German shepherds to three apartment projects in New York-mainly for their "psychological value" in discouraging would - be vandals, he said. Byron totes a 38 cal. revolver but believes dogs are more effective. He said the animals have the advantage of sight, hearing and smell over human "Other detectives are interested in what I'm doing." he said. "But they're waiting. As a private agency, we have no police powers. We have to be careful in apprehending a person. We can make a citizen's arrest but if we were to make a mistake then we'd be in trouble."

Byron said his dogshe has 30 - never make mistakes and the likelihood of their biting someone by accident is "as remote as a policeman's gun going off by itself."

MOST OF THE heavily-boned, super-sensitive animals Byron uses are trained for four to six months at the canine college in West Redding, Conn., he said. 'They have to break away the dog's old personality and give him back a new one," he said.

The average cannot tell the difference between a well-trained dog or an untrained one, he said. And the same for criminals.

"They know what a man can do-a professional criminal against a man will take chances but they have no idea of what a dog will do and won't chance it," he said.

Dear Friends:

Long Beach is entering a new period of prosperity and sound development.

I am sure you have noticed, as I have, the growing optimism and enthusiasm for building a better Long Beach that exists throughout the City.

Long Beach's future will stay bright so long as you continue to take an active interest in your City government.

I hope each of you will demonstrate your good citizenship by going to the polls and voting in the City election, Tuesday, June 4. Thank you.

the Pope rested on four white pillows on a cast-iron bed, slipping back and forth between coma and consciousness.

The pontiff's three brothers and sister also watched over him. The sister, 76-year-old Assunta, dabbed his forehead with a dampened handkerchief.

The pontiff's doctors late Saturday night had ordered suspension of all visits, even those by cardinals, but the Vatican press office said Archbishop Angelo dell'Acqua, Vatican substitute secretary of state, entered the papal apartment at 2:15 a.m. and left a few minutes later.

His mission was not disclosed.

Outside in St. Peter's Square, below the papal apartment, thousands prayed for a miracle. His doctors said that was the only thing that could save the tenant farmer's son who became the spiritual ruler of the world's half billion Catholics.

Men of many faiths around the world prayed for his recovery, but the Vatican held out no hope that he could fight back from the onslaught of a stomach tumor, hemorrhages and peritonitis, an inflammation of the abdomen's lining.

His doctors were surprised that the pontiff held on so long since he took a critical turn early Friday, received the last sacraments of the church and quietly asserted his readiness to give up his life for Christian unity and world peace.

"I have been able to follow the course of my death step by step," he told a prelate in a period of lucidity. "Now I am going sweetly toward the end." The pontiff suffered periods of pain and difficulty in breathing, and at times was administered oxygen, but visitors to the room said he maintained a serene look at all times.

"John XXIII has always taught us to live well," one caller to the papal apartment told the Vatican ancient cobblestone in silver newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, "Now he is showing us how one can and must die well." The few visitors permitted into the papal cham-

Even after the golden Roman sunset thousands stayed on in the glow of the piazza lights. To get a better view, ouths climbed up the shafts of the four ornate lampposts grouped around the obelisk in the heart of the square.

THERE was a constant buzz of sound, conversation and orayers, punctuated by the strident noises of traffic surging along the streets leading to and from St. Peter's.

But after midnight, a cool calm fell over the square. The sightscerers were gone and only the devout, a few hundred of them, remained.

The Coast Guard Search and Rescue detachment at Long Beach had picked up the distress signal at 3:10 a.m. and dispatched a cutter and patrol boat but by then, Captain Halvar Moy had seen the flames.

First Mate Henning Knarvik of the Porsanger re-caled Saturday that "at first we thought a big ship had gone down,"

"WE SAW three people in a large dinghy and others floating in life jackets and we moved slowly back and forth looking for wreckage and more survivors," Knarvik said.

Realizing that the six in the water were having a difficult time in the high seas, the Porsanger lowered a motor lifeboat and Knarvik, Engineer Harald Tveat, able seaman Mike Lillehjem; ordinary seamen Terje Blomseth and Magne Saeverud went to the res-

TODAY, Knarvik and Tveat leave Long Beach on a flight back to their native Bergen. Norway "for a three month vacation we had been planning."

And today, the five-yearold Norwegian freighter Porsanger leaves Long Beach Harbor to continue its voyage around South America.

But everyone involved in the near-tragedy of the Lenore has his memories of the incident.

The Barrett party will never forget the Norwegian men of the sea who saved their lives. And in the pilot room of the Porsanger are six life jackets bearing the

U.S. Firm Says Pope Given Experimental Cancer Drug

(UPI)-The president of a Cleveland research firm said Saturday night that Pope John XXIII has been receiving oral dosages of an experimental cancer serum.

Asked earlier today about the reported cancer serum, a Vatican spokesman in Rome said, "no wonder drugs have been received or are being used."

Dr. H. James Rand III, president of Rand Development Co., said at his summer home on Cape Cod that 100 cubic centimeters of he serum. enough fo month's treatments, had been sent to Rome this week.

Earlier, Dr. Sergio de Carvalhò of Cleveland, who headed the research team that developed the scrum for Rand, arrived at Rome's Fiumicino Airport. Dr. Rand said Dr. De Carvalho would remain in Rome until the Pope's death. He also will lecture before cancer institutes at Rome and at Lisbon, Portugal.

RAND said Dr. Carlo Nervi of Rome's Institute for the Study and Cure of Tumors, one of those consulted by the Pope's physicians, had heard of the work being done on the serum and asked the Rand firm to supply some for the ailing pontiff.

"So far," said Rand, "the doctors have been most en-

Walter's Successor Selected

WASHINGTON (4)-Ouiet. hard-working Rep. Edwin E. Willis, 58, a Democrat from the bayou country of Louisiana, becomes chairman of the House Committee on un-American Activities with the death Friday of Rep. Francis E. Walter, D.Pa.

Willis has been acting chairman of the committee since early this year, as a result of Walters' illness and the death of Rep. Clyde Doyle, D-Calif.

A lawyer who prefers to do most of his work and talking in committee, rather than on the House floor, Willis now is serving his 8th term in the

WILLIS has worked closely with Walter in the past on committee matters and says that under his leadership there will be no change in committee policy. The Louisianian has pre sided over more than half of the committee hearings in recent years and has joined in backing the committee's leg-islation aimed at protecting the country from Communists and other groups considered by the committee to be sub versive.

He had a large part in drafting bills requiring Com-munists to register and in setting up the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Willis has been a member of the House Judiciary Committee since he first came to Congress in 1949, With the death of Walter, he advances to the position of fourth Democrat on that group,

ONE OF HIS big interests in Congress has been tidelands legislation. This in volves ownership of the off shore, submerged lands in the Gulf of Mexico, a matter of considerable importance to . Louisiana.

Willis currently is chief Louisiana negotiator in discussions with the Interior and Justice departments as to the determination of the Louisiana coast line. This line is a difficult one to agree upon because of the many indentations, bays, islands and shifting sands in the area.

He also is author of a bill which would give Louisiana ownership of offshore, submerged lands out 101/2 miles from its coastline, once that coastline is settled.

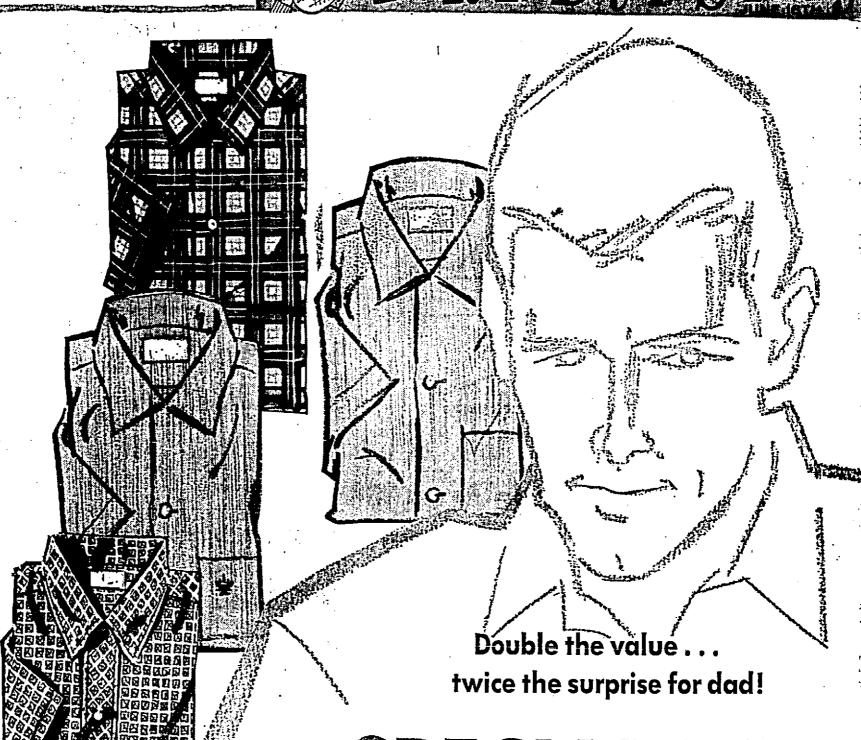

The Supreme Court some 1-years ago decreed that Texas' and Florida's ownership extends 1014 miles but that the state boundaries of Louislana and other Gulf Coast states extend only to the three-mile Gline.

ZONE NUMBER CHANGE

L.B. Is Designated Code Area 908 Liu Chen-sze landed in north ern Taiwan in a MIG15. in New ZIP Postal Code System

The Post Office is playing the "numbers game."

Long Beach Postmaster David Selcer has announced that Long Beach has been designated as code area 908 in the new ZIP (for zone improvement plan) code system to go into effect nationwide soon.

This means that instead of using the old postal zone number after the address. like Long Beach 12, Calif., letter writers soon will be using the new ZIP number -plus the old zone number in a combination.

For example, Long Beach

Supervisor Says "A" Is Sound Act

BURTON W. CHACE

County Supervisor Burton W. Chare, former Mayor of Long Beach and veteran public administrator, approves Proposition "A" for the California World's Fair at Long Beach in 1967-68. He says it should be adopted by the witers at the Jane A election.

adopted by the voters at the June 4 election.

"The California World's Fair will be of great benefit to our area and our State," said Supervisor Chace. "Proposition 'A' is an opportunity to support the establishment of the Fair at Long Reach. It calls for no taxes or city financing, but authorises underwriting of bonds through tideland oil funds for construction of many permanent buildings which will remain for the good of Long Reach and California after the Feir is

An Open Letter to the VOTERS of Long Beach, from the PEOPLE of the 3rd Councilmanic District:

For the past four or five years there has been a growing concern and dissatisfaction with the type of representation which has been provided by the incumbent councilman from this, the Third

In 1960, it was felt imperative to remedy this volunteer campaign was conducted which resulted in the overwhelming rejection of the incumbent in both the primary and citywide elections by his

However, despite this very clear indication of feeling from his constituents, the incumbent was actively supported by the local daily newspaper. This handicap, plus the necessity of carrying our story citywide with an extremely limited budget, was insurmountable. The incumbent, by a small citywide majority, was returned to again repre-

NOW, THREE YEARS LATER, WE ARE AGAIN TRYING TO HANDLE THIS PROB-LEM. DANA E. BROWN was the majority choice in the recent Third District primary voting. Again the incumbent was rejected by the majority of voters of his district. This, despite an unprecedented pre-primary endorsement by the daily newspaper in his favor. On June 4th, because of the peculiar election methods provided under our City Charter, all nine councilmanic districts will he asked to make a wise and considered choice between the two men seeking to represent us for the next three years.

We feel that if it were possible to speak with each of you individually there would be no doubt as to the outcome. We have taken this means to ask your help. Will you do this by choosing the right man to represent not only our district, but each and every one of them?

Our choice is based on the ample opportunity we have had to know the qualifications of each can-didate, and the voting record of the incumbent. Our choice was and is DANA E. BROWN, Will you please make him your choice?

Reds Say China Pilot Defected

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)-Radio Peking said Saturday a Nationalist Chinese pilot de-fected to Communist China in a F86F fighter plane. The Nationalist government confirmed that one of its planes is missing.

It was the first report of a Nationalist Chinese pilot defecting samely to Red China. Two Red Chinese fliers have escaped to Formosa.

The Radio Peking broadcast identified the defector as Capt. Hsu Ting-Tse. It said he was assigned to the "43rd Squadron, 11th Group, 2nd Wing of the Chiang Kal-Shek air force."

THE BROADCAST said Hsu had landed the Americanmade fighter plane at "an airport in East China." The exact location was not dis

An official spokesman for the Nationalist Chinese Air Force said that one of its jet with its home base during a thunderstorm Saturday morn

The spokesman, Col. Char Hsueh-tung, declined to iden-tify the pilot, or disclose when the plane lost contact.

Nationalist Chinese air force sources suggested the thunderstorm might have effected the plane's navigation equip-

RED CHINA, through the medium of Hong Kong newspapers, had offered $175,00 in gold to any Nationalist Chinese pilot who would fly an American F100 jet to the mainland.

There have been two cases in which Communist Chinese military pilots have defected to Formoso, home base of the Nationalist Chinese govern ment which was ousted from power on the mainland in

The latest Communist defection occurred in March of 1962, when a Red Chinese air orce second lieutenant named ern areas." "I think we're on the threshhold of a full-fledged revolt that will bring down the walls of segregation," he said.

Both the President and his brother met with or planned to meet with Southern theater owners and retail merchants to urge them to head off disorders by desegregating their establishments.

Mr. Kennedy also was debating whether to address a plea to the nation for intensified efforts to combat discrimination.

THE SITUATION was admittedly serious and was spreading to Northern and Western states, Some officials foresaw riotous mobs in city streets unless responsible citizens set out to preserve law and order.

Some cities recognized this and began desegregating peacefully. Many formed bi-racial committees to work out agreements. The administration's concern was underscored by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson in a Memorial Day speech at Gettysburgh, Pa., where Abraham Lincoln eloquently pleaded for a new birth of freedom.

Johnson called on North and South, Negro and white to lead the way through this moment of challenge and decision." He added that "until justice is blind to color, until education is unaware of race, until opportunity is unconcerned with the color of men's skins, emancipation will be a proclamation, but not a a fact,"

The President met with nine Democratic governors and asked them to provide Negroes with equal opportunity in employment and other fields. He will meet later with Republican governors. He also was in close touch with his congressional leaders who would have to spearhead passage of racial rights legislation. He was well aware that southern opposition could hamstring such bills as well as his whole new frontier pro-

The President and Brit-Ish Prime Minister Harold Macmillan appealed jointly to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to conclude a nuclear test-ban treaty, well knowing it was probably another exercise in futility. Secretary of State Dean Rusk hinted the Soviets may be readying another series of atmospheric tests.

FRENCH SOURCES said President Charles de Gaulle was planning to visit Kennedy who would be receptive. De Gaulle has been the stumbling block in creation of a NATO nuclear defense force as well as keeping Britain out of the European Common Market.

The administration's $847 million mental health bill passed the Senate with only one dissenting vote. A less enthusiastic reception was expected in the House.

The President signed a bill raising the national debt limit to $307 billion the ninth time in eight years that Congress has had to raise the ceiling to meet government bills.

Kennedy also signed into law a bill to step up federal, state and local expansion of outdoor recreation election ballot is the necessary first step toward a sensible and frugal method of financing the construction on public property of the physical plant for the 1967-68 World's Fair.

Discussive Rundown on the Propositions in Tuesday Voting

Such a guarantee will materially reduce the interest rates on the bonds, saving millions which can be used for expanding the fair facilities for public use long after the exposition closes.

Opposing arguments on Prop. A include the contention that it is unvise to commit tidelands funds for the suggested purpose, raise the question as to what will happen if tidelands funds are not available in view of current controversies, forecast the possibility of tax problems if the proposition passes, and suggest the danger of difficult traffic problems if a fair is held on Pier J.

We feel that these arguments are generally based on misinformation or irrelevancies and should be rejected by voters in giving resounding approval of Prop. A.

Prop. A does not authorize a municipal bond issue, it does not involve tax money in any way, it does not obligate the citizens of Long Beach "to come to the rescue" with tax money if tidelands oil funds are not available or if there is a fair deficit.

It simply authorizes setting aside tidelands funds for guarantee purposes if and when available. Top economic analysts forecast revenue for a successful fair which will more than pay off the revenue bonds issued, so it is un likely even tidelands funds will be actually spent. But if WALTER T. RIDDER they are, such expenditure is fully justified by the general economic benefits of the fair and the permanent improvements to be made for public use and ownership.

A majority vote for this proposition is necessary (1) to meet the city charter requirement for a vote when tidelands funds are authorized for any purpose and (2) to initiate the financing guarantee program. The vote will give the city permission to undertake an agreement with the fair organization and to then take the matter to the State Lands Commission for approval under the tidelands fund procedures set up in state law.

A strong favorable vote will demonstrate the support of the people of this community for a project of immense economic and cultural benefit to Long Beach, Southern California and the entire state. We heartly endorse it.

PROPOSITION B authorizes $1,265,000 in tidelands funds for the construction of a new Belmont Pier.

Supporters note that the normal life of a fishing pier that fact is about 30 years, and Belmont Pier was built more than leaves the 45 years ago. It has holes in its flooring; its handrails are rusting; its pilings are deteriorating. Opponents argue that licans who there are already millions of dollars committed against the tideland oil money.

Our recommendation: "Yes." Piers are a major but inexpensive feature of recreation in this ocean community and should be maintained for the benefit of the scores of fishermen and strollers who use them each day. The project does not involve an outlay of tax money or call for a

PROPOSITION 1 is a charter amendment revising ened and a concerted drive Municipal Gas Department financial procedures. It allows expenditures from the $700,000 Gas Reserve Fund by a two-thirds vote of the Council, allows repayment to be spread over two years and, most important allows the Council by two-thirds vote to issue Gas Revenue Bonds up to $5 million for emergency use for repairs in case of disaster, to secure new gas supplies and to purchase new chased would return enough profit to pay for themselves.

Arguments against the proposition center around the fact that the Gas Department makes a profit and that this profit should be used for such purpose instead of being transferred to the General Fund. Proponents point out that if this were done the property tax rate would have to be increased some 30 cents to make up the difference.

Our recommendation calls for a "yes" vote on the solid ground that this will allow for emergencies and expansion of the gas supply and system without the danger of the general taxpayer having to pick up the bill.

PROPOSITION 2 increases the maximum term of franchises the city may grant to public utilities from 35 to

Proponents argue that the city now has the right to make leases for 60 years and should have the same power with regard to franchises; that long-term franchises encourage investments which keep plants efficient and tend to lower rates to customers.

One known opponent argues that future generations should be allowed to make their own business arrangements with utility companies.

Our recommendation: "Yes." Utilities are regulated by public agencies, and this and future generations are protected. Long-term franchises encourage long-term capital improvements which in turn give the public lower utility rates that otherwise would not be possible.

PROPOSITION 3 extends to the Harbor Board authority to enter into leases for a 60-year term.

Proponents argue that the present limit of 40 years can't be amortized in that period of time."

PROPOSITION 4 is a proposal for changes in Harbor Dept. procedures. It would permit eliminating impositions significant and has nothing to do with this recommendation fees to accompany applications for short term (under tion, In 11 months, our newspaper has received come $1.550 five years) grants and permits in the harbor area. For a while, it seemed as though Goldwater might be beaten by that old slogan which defeated his spiritual predecessor, Sen. Robert A. Taft. "He can't win" ultimately DREW PEARSON licked Taft, and Goldwater's opponents have sought to brand him with the same iron. The changing tides of American political life have brightened Goldwater's prospects.

At all events, whether or not this theory materializes. there's enough political lure to it to give a boost to the candidacy, announced or unannounced, of Goldwater.

There's little question but that the Arizonan will go into the Republican convention with more than a handful of delegates and probably as the sentimental favorite of the assemblage. He is these days "Mr. Republican" and as such will command the devotion if not the votes of most of the delegates. It has been the practice of the Republican party since 1940 to nominate a candidate considerably to the left of the bulk of convention delegates and is reasonable to assume that they wouldn't mind one bit nominating someone about whom they could feel enthusiastic. Causes Produce Inevitable Effects EDITOR:

There is a time to all things, and to all things conditions are the harbingers of the cause. ## JFK's New House Ready for Photos---Outside Only WASHINGTON (4) - The President's new home on Rattlesnake Mountain at Atoka Va., is finally ready for official photographs—but of the outside only — the White House announced.

Soon to be rented for the summer months, the ranch-style home that President and Mrs. Kennedy built some 50 miles from Washington on a high ridge overlooking the Blue Ridge Mountains has been off-limits to newsmen and reporters up to now.

But, Tuesday photographers and reporters have been in-vited for a close-up look at the newly landscaped home and its 39-acre site. The inte-rior of the house will not be on view, however.

A White House spokesman said reporters would not be allowed inside, either to see how Mrs. Kennedy has fur nished the 7-bedroom home.

(Political Advertisement)

VOTE "YES" ON

Proposition "A" is a measure that will permit the City of Long Beach to set aside in a city controlled trust account certain Tideland Oil funds, with the normal approval of the State Lands Commission, to underwrite the construction of many publicly owned buildings-which will remain after the California World's Fair for public benefit and use. This will be done at no cost to the taxpayer as it involves Tideland Oil funds only and not general City funds.

PROPOSITION "A" IS—a sound measure to promote Long Beach and the State of California through the establishment of a world wide attraction — the California World's Fair.

PROPOSITION "A" IS-a permissive measure to allow the City to utilize, in a trust account, Tideland Oil funds to underwrite the construction of many needed publicly owned buildings on our shoreline, PROPOSITION "A" IS—carefully designed to fulfill all the necessary requirements for qualification as a legal expenditure of Tideland Oil funds.

PROPOSITION "A" IS-supported by thousands of leading citizens from every part of the community and by many of the leading civic organizations.

PROPOSITION "A" IS-your opportunity to John with your fellow citizens in supporting the establishment of the California World's Fair for Long Beach.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT - a bond issue.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT -a tax measure and will in NO way increase the taxes of any Long Beach resident.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT - a promotion scheme but is a sound program for progress of our City approved by the City Council and City Altorney.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT-a downtown program but is designed to benefit the entire community North, South, East and West.

PROPOSITION "A" IS NOT -a political measure but is a sound economic proposal that will save millions of dollars in financing costs which the Fair has pledged to invest in much needed public buildings for your use and benefit.

Japan's Protestant Membership Gains

TOKYO (UPI) - Japan's Protestant Christian churches registered a 3 per cent gain in membership during 1962 for a total of 407,232, the Japan National Christian Council reported.

It said the total figure of Protestants may be higher because up-to-date statistics are not available for about half of the 78 denominations here. Of those reporting, the survey showed the largest was the United Church of Christ with a total of 187,813 members

Vacations go smoother in a Chevrolet Corvair

Bring on those mountains! They're not so high and mighty when you've got Corvair's gutty six and rear-engine traction working on them.

You scurry right up the meanest grades. You move with sure-footed agility on wet pavement, muddy lanes, loose gravel and other would-be miseries.

And there's more to feel good about. No problems with your

radiator boiling over or going dry, because there's no radiator. Corvair's engine is air cooled. No concern about brake adjustments, either, because the brakes adjust themselves. Nothing much to think about at all except the good time you're having (and maybe the next mountain you're going to flatten).

Like to do that in a sporty bucket-scated Monza Club Coupe or Convertible? Like to spring into summer with a 4-speed stick shift* and Spyder package* with its 150-hp Turbocharged engine, special instrumentation and insignia? Your dealer's got just the Corvair and the Trade 'N' Travel deal on it to put you in a holiday mood. *Optional at extra cost Hodge, Joe 1400 Seem St.

C. ROY CONN

C. Roy Conn was born in Hermosa Beach, Calif., attended University of Arizona, majoring in business administration. At the completion of college he entered the business world, but Uncle Sam had certain rights and he spent the next four years in the Navy.

After completing his four years in the service he started working for UARCO business firms, then the Gen-entered the Charles E. Wright Agency, worked there until '54, was with Walker and Lee, Inc., until 1959, was general manager for Ellis-Schrader Co. until Mr. Wright decided to retire and he offered him his real estate business. He now has a large sales force and is a very successful realtor doing business at 1818 Palo Verde.

Rod Makes Big League

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Rod Taylor, an Australian who came to Hollywood almost 10 years ago, has slowly worked his way out of television's apprenticeship for actors and into the big league of motion pictures.

Since he made his first American movie in 1955, Taylor has graduated from such films as "Hell on Frisco Bay" to top roles in "The Birds," "A Gathering of Eagles" with Rock Hud-son, and "V.I.P." co-starring Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. He's now co-starring with Jane Fonda in "Sunday in New York."

"Much of what has happened to my career is because of my 'Hong Kong' TV series," Rod said.

"Before that series there was a rumor that this kid knew his acting craft," he explained, "Many 'Hong Kong' fans were in the movie industry. That series went out of produc-

Winonly—a horse labeled strictly a sprinter—thumbed his long snoot at the experts Saturday and sacked the mile and one-sixteenth $122,300 Californian in convincing fashlon before 50,-190 witnesses at Hollywood

The six-year-old "1962 sprint king of Hollypark" was in the race only because his trainer, Cotton Tinsley, had faith in the

Nobody figured Winonly could traverse a distance of more than a mile-except Tinsley, who was so certain his charge had the necessary stamina that he persuaded owner Fred W. Hooper to chunk in a $5,000 supplementary fee only last Tuesday. (Winonly wasn't nominated in the original entry list, thus had to fork over a late charge of $5,000 to enter Saturday's classic.)

For his tardy investment, Mr. Hooper received a check in the amount of $77,300 Saturday . . . and that beats any bank interest yet conceived.

Winonly (the second favorite) returned $10.60. The place horse, Mr. Consistency (8-1), was threefourths of a length behind the winner, while the 12horse field's longest shot, Harpie (43-1), was a distant five lengths in arrears of the No. 2 finisher.

Johnny Longden's favored Four-And-Twenty (7-2) wound up eighth after shooting his bolt on the early pace.

Tinsley confessed not only his personal appreci-ation of Winonly's talents, but also his lack of respect for the other steeds in Saturday's field.

"I took a look at the that the Angels' outfield was into the American League assigned only 115 pounds, batting lead at .349 with two glanced at the other competitors and convinced Mr. It was the Angels' fourth Hooper that we should envictory in five meetings with ter the race," admitted Baltimore and it is significant | Tinsley.

By JERRY WYNN Will history repeat?

A year ago Larry Griggs Jr. followed in the footsteps of his father, Larry Sr., by winning the Long Beach City golf championship.

Today the center of attention is on another lad attempting to emulate the deeds of his daddy.

It is Kemp Richardson, 17-year-old son of 1959 City champion and 1961 State champion John Richardson, who tees off against mighty Dick Clover in the third round of the 1963 City classic at Recreation

While it is tradition that high school stars turn from glittery to jittery under the pressure of championship men's competition, young Richardson apparently has learned his lessons well.

The lanky Millikan High shotmaker qualified among the leaders and breezed to 4 and 3 victories over Keith Kenway and Hank Gowdy In his first two matches Thursday.

Lamented Gowdy, "I ran Championship and McCorinto a buzzsaw."

Like Walter O'Malley in baseball, J. C. Agajanian is a powerful, aggressive and constructive ligure in auto racing ranks. For those reasons, O'Malley and Agajanian constantly find themselves in hot water with their jealous competitors.

If a car owned by Agajanian, who has poured more money into the development of auto racers than any other single man in the sport today, finished dead last at Indianapolis, he'd still probably have a small army of detractors. Apparently he had a large army of detractors after Parnelli Jones whisked Agajanian's sleek "98" into victory lane Thursday at Indianapolis.

To make return plane connections, this writer had to leave Indianapolis within hours after Jones' triumph. A hint of future controversy was brewing before our departure, but nothing concrete had developed at that point.

In succession, the following accusations later were hurled:

Comes Back Punching Comes Back Punching
I. That "Jones' victory was lousy and he didn't deserve it... he should have been given the black flag and ordered from the track before the race was concluded."

2. That "the race was manipulated by stewards so Agajanian's car could win it . . . the starter with his assortment of flags actually won the race for Agajanian."

The first accusation was made by a disgruntled driver whose car had lost a wheel near the race's end, Eddie Sachs, noted in gasoline alley as a loudmouth. Sachs professed to he so upset at Parnelli's "faciles" that he initiated a brief fist fight with Jones the next day in a motel. Jones won that one quicker than Sonny Liston disposed of Floyd Patterson.

Sachs' contention was that about the 185th Iap Jones' car was leaking oil and, therefore, should have been black-flagged off the track.

ACCUSATION NO. 2 was tossed by a San Francisco news department editor (NOT a sports writer or editor), who wailed that Jones really won the race by moving further ahead of his trailing field when the yellow flag was out. (Drivers are supposed to maintain their positions at a slowed-down speed until the yellow "trouble" flag

Now, for the arguments on the other side.

Agajanian's chief mechanic admitted that Jones' car was leaking oil at a time during the twilight part of the race. Agajanian readily agreed.

"There was a crack in the crankcase," explained Aggie, "but only a slight one. We lost very little oil and as soon as the oil level dropped below the crack, we weren't dripping a thing.

"If every car that deposted material on the track was eliminated, the only vehicle left for the 500-mile finish would be the pace car."

Sensing that the stewards or starter might force Jones out of the race at a time when he was leading and headed for victory lane, Agajanian dashed to the officials' stand to halt any premature action on their part.

"We had only 10 laps to go and weren't leaking oil," pointed out J. C. "I wanted the officials to know that we had everything under control and to forget about that

THE ASSERTION from the non-sports editor that the race was manipulated by stewards in his favor really

Our pit stops were made when the yellow flag was up," steamed the San Pedro taxpayer. "That was smart 'As for the remark that Parnelli gained on the field illegally at other times when the yellow flag was exposed, I object. Neither Jones or I would condone that attitude.

Tre got a few other things about that yellow flag business that I'd like to get off my chest, too. Roger McCluskey stole 12 seconds on us during the 47th lap by not slowing down when the yellow flag went up.
"Not only that, but in the last portion of the race we had a 22 second lead over Jim Clark (in the much-discussed Lotus-Ford). During 10 following laps—with the yellow flag up most of the time—we had only a four second lead.

"My car was running good and considering that everything was equal, no other car on the track could make up 18 seconds on us.

"I don't appreciate McCluskey's steal, but I'm not mad about Clark's gain. Roger's been around this track enough to know the rules. Clark is a newcomer and very easily could have become confused.

"But I dislike sour grapes being cast upon our win in any fashion. I think we had the best car and the best driver Thursday and we deserved to win."

In complete agreement with Agajanian was Colin Chapman, designer of Clark's Lotus-Ford. One of the finest gentlemen in sports, Colin congratulated Agajanian after the race and conceded the best team won.

As an afterthought, you might be reminded that tavern-owner Sachs was socked with a $100 fine for showing "bad sportsmanship and violating rules" by not returning to his pit after he was eliminated from the race. Like O'Malley, Agajanian must be wondering today what prompts the little men to make so much noise!

Do you run because you enjoy it or because it presents a challenge?

"Both, I enjoy it, and I feel I can and should develop my ability to the utmost. Above and beyond that, there is the challenge of bringing American distance run-ning up to foreign standards. That has been my main objective."

Europeans and recently Australians have dominated long-distance running. Is that because Americans are too soft?

"You hear this all the time, and I think even Khrushchev once said Americans are short-winded. It has embarrassed me, and I want to prove them wrong. Now most Europeans have a great deal of respect for American distance running. Except for the 10,000 meters, I think we can win all the distance races at the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo,"

What distance will you run at Tokyo? "Probably the 5,000 meters. There is more glamour attached to the mile and it is an easier race. But I would get a great deal of satisfaction to break the world record in the 5,000 and win the gold medal, especially since the record is held by a Russian, Vladimir Kuts."

Poly High shortstop Isaac (ike) McCraw, who has been described as a coaches' dream, today was named Player of the Year on the Poly-dominated All-City baseball team chosen by the Independent, Press-Telegram Board of Athletics.

McCraw was not a unanimous pick, in fact four others were in the running for top honors, but when everything was added up, the lithe junior was a winner for a very good reason—there was nothing he could not

As a batter, he hit .373 in league play; as a fielder, he made only five errors in 25 games and was in on most of Poly's 25 double plays; and as a runner, few could match his speed. He stole 11 bases and scored 20 runs.

PERHAPS HIS MOST amazing feat was hitting safely in 14 consecutive league games, breaking the record of 12. The streak hit 17 before Lynwood's Mike Kekich collared him in a semi-final playoff game.

McCraw basically was a spray-hitter, but, given the right pitch, he could hit with power, which was proved by his five doubles and one triple in 15 league contests.

The 5-10, 160-pounder has been clocked in 3.9 seconds running to first, and the routine grounder he beat out in the Mayfair playoff game was one of the biggest plays in Poly's drive to the title. There were two outs and runners on second and third, with Poly behind 1-0 in the fourth inning, when McCraw outlegged the grounder. Two runs scored and Poly won, McCraw had six teammates on the first club, pitchers Terry Roe and Bob Wiswell, catcher Bob vonEns, infielders Jerry Martin and Richard Dash and outfielder

Oscar Brown, The other pitching spot went to Lakewood's Les Mundel, the other infield berth to Wilson's John McKee and the other outfield posts to Millikan's Jay Bartley and Steve Lewelling, and St. Anthony's Rick Hayes. Barney Scholl, also of Millikan, was the utility man,

As is the custom, the top four infielders and top four outfielders are chosen, even though there might be, for example, two shortstops or two center-fielders.

AS IT TURNED OUT, McKEE and Martin were both first baseman, while Hayes played first and outfield in his three-year career. McKee was a .400 hitter, Martin came on strong to finish at .351 and Hayes was the Saints' leading RBI man and also hit .306. Dash was a .262 hitter for Poly, but had no peer at second base. He also was the holler guy and the lead-er of the Poly team.

team. Bartley led the league Po at .434 and Brown was the season leader at .389. Among other features, Bartley led the league in total bases with 32, and Brown stole 15 bases.

Lewelling was a pleasant surprise for Millikan. Like Brown and Bartley, he is only a junior and a very reliable hitter. He finished with a .353 average and proved his versatility by catching as well as playing outfield, Roe and Wiswell were an unbeatable combination. Janior Wiswell pitched Poly to the league crown, winning eight games, and Roe won the last three playoff games with 1, 2 and 3-hitters.

MUNDEL won five games for Lakewood, including a one-hitter over Millikan, and whiffed 75 batters in 55.1 league innings - the most strikeouts by a city pitcher in league history. VonEps perhaps was the best defensive catcher in Moore League history. He didn't throw out many runners trying to steal because run his shotgun arm. Moreover, he led Poly in RBI with 13.

Scholl, the ERA king last year, suffered from a sore arm, but still had enough to whip Lakewood 1-0, compile a 3.17 league ERA and bat a robust .432 in 20 games as a part-time outfielder-pitcher

Giants, Yanks Head for Series' Repeat

As the major league teams passed Memorial Day, first of three traditional milestones, it appeared that a repeat of the '62 World Series between the Yankees and Giants was in prospect again next October.

Although it is one of the most difficult seasons in years to pinpoint a solid trend in either league, it is apparent that (1) the Dodgers must begin closing in on San Francisco shortly if they expect to beat out the Giants, and (2) the Yankees are going to be nearly impossible to beat.

Although the Yanks were two games out of first place after the Memorial Day games had been posted into the books, they actually are two wins ahead of their 1962 opening pace and appear headed for at least 100 victories . . four more than their winning total last year when they won by five games.

Baltimore and Minnesota figure as the Yanks' chief challengers, but it is questionable at this time

just how much pressure they can bring to bear on New

The Yankees were in a vulnerable position until mid-September last season, but they really broke the backs of the opposition with a 23-8 spurt in July. And although American Leaguers feel that their pitching may falter in the doubleheaders coming up, the Yanks nevertheless seem poised for a surge in the next few weeks that will solidify their pennant position by the All-Star Game break early in July.

BALTIMORE IS RUNNING seven games ahead of its 1962 pace when the club finished seventh, 19 games back. Minnesota is still two behind its pace of last year despite the streak of 10 straight wins through the 30th after Harmon Killebrew returned to the lineup.

The Yanks have a chance to check Baltimore's hopes in five games in June, while they don't get a crack at Minnesota until July.

At best, the Orioles and Twins appear capable of "peaks" of 93 wins . . . which still leaves them some seven games shy of the Yankees-a most discouraging

The White Sox look good for fourth with around 89 victories with Boston, Detroit and the Angels battling for the 5-6-7 spots with win totals ranging from 84 down

MEANWHILE, THE NATIONAL League race may well hinge on a trade that might be made within the next week or 10 days.

Milwaukee manager Bobby Bragan sounded this warning Thursday when he rapped Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi's trade policy. He claims to have offered Bavasi third baseman

Eddie Matthews and pitcher Bob Shaw, who would fill two Dodger needs. But Bobby says Bavasi wouldn't even discuss the trade, so the Braves may offer Shaw to San Francisco, which has been looking for another starter. Bragan believes Shaw "would clinch the pennant for

selves just a half-game ahead of the Dodgers. THIS TIME, THEY got off to a slower start, being three games off their '62 opening pace when they passed Memorial Day. But they enjoyed an even bigger lead . . . 21/2 games. The Dodgers broke from the gate five games slower than a year ago.

In fact, if the Dodgers hadn't swept their first 3-game set with the Giants in mid-May, San Francisco would be out there "hiding" from them by now.

At this point, it appears that it may take as many as 103 victories to win the pennant . . . possibly 104, Last year, the two clubs tied with 101.

Figuring a 6-6 split in their remaining 12 games with each other, the Giants' potential is 106 victories, the Dodgers 102.

of them come this month... the 10th and 11th at Dodger Stadium and 17th, 18th and 19th at Candlestick Park. THE OTHERS FIGURE to finish some 12 to 14 games back, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Pittsburgh most likely will battle it out for the 3-1-5 spots, with Milwaukee shaping up as the sixth-place finisher. Cincinnati, a hig disappointment so far, still appears to be the only rival with the potential to fight its way out of the pack and threaten the top two. But its "extended" slow start has made it tougher for the Reds to rally. However, they came back after a miserable beginning in 1961 to win the pennant, and last year were nine games back going into July and came on to finish only three games out. However, it should be a two-way fight between the tell me. They never have reason." The Angels purchased the Puerto Rico righthander from Tacoma last September. The next day he was pitching in Yankee Stadium and two days later he scored his first major league victory. "I was too tired from trip to be nervous," laughs Navarro. He appeared in nine of the Angels' last 25 games last year and has had little time to be nervous, "I prefer pitching every day. It's casier. When I'm strong my fast ball tails and my control is good. When pitch every day I stay strong. That way they must beat me with my best stuff."

No one has been able to do that yet. Navarro is a dream come true.

Owner of OSCAR GREGORY CHEVROLET

IT'S OUR FIRST ANNIVERSARY!

Yes, we've been in business one year in June — it hardly seems possible that the year could flit by so fast, but it has! This has been a wonderful year—filled with the pleasant memories of acquaintances made and customers served. We look back and are grateful for the loyalty, confidence and patronage of friends like you and we thank you. We've consistently set new standards in customer satisfaction and we pledge that in the year ahead, we will make every effort to continue to merit the pleasure of serving you in the traditional Oscar Gregory manner.

A good business reputation does not spring up overnight — it builds slowly and steadily, based on the solid foundation of customer satisfaction! Tools, equipment and facilities alone, haven't made our business grow --people did—our people, with the proper attitude toward the product, the customer and the dealership.

With the right people, having the right attitudes, Oscar Gregory Chevrolet has set new records.

Lema Hot, Lead to Ex-Coach

INDIANAPOLIS (A)-Husky Claude King, former prep football coach, grabbed the 36-hole lead of the $55, 000 Speedway Festival Open Golf Tournament Saturday with a 6-under-par 65 for a 132 total and a one-stroke edge over Fred Hawkins.

Hawkins, the El Paso, Tex. veteran, who hasn't won since taking the 1956 Oklahoma City Open, blew a 4-foot birdie putt on the last hole and wound up with a 33-36-69 for 133.

King, 30-year-old former coach at Virginia Beach, Va., High, who joined the pro circult 17 months ago and never has been better than 16th in a tourney, fashioned a 32-33] against the Speedway course par of 35-36-71.

Red-hot Tony Lema jumped into contention with a 64 for 134. He shot two cagles.

Marlin Gives Angier a Dunking

If you have ever seen an old Keystone Kops movie, you are in a better position to enjoy the story I'm about to relate. I'm sure that had anybody been able to film the entire sequence of this comedy, it would have gone for $100 a foot on any television show.

It concerns Kenneth (Ken) Sperry, Long Beach attorney, Dr. Thomas Kiddie and the captain and deckhand of a Mexican fishing boat. Sperry and Kiddie were fishing in the recent Southern California Tuna Club tournament at Palmilla.

There were times when the incidents were happening that it was not so funny but, now in retrospect, it's a howling comedy.

Sperry had just hooked a very lively marlin. He was using 20-pound-test monofilament on a regular three-six outfit. The marlin decided to circle the boat and the skipper gave the wheel a hard, fast turn to port.

The rudder stuck in the port position, the skipper finally killed the engine, took of his clothes and dived overboard with a wrench to fix the balky rudder.

Meantime, Sperry, trying to hang on to his fish, climbed out of the cockpit, edged along the narrow walk beside the cabin and reached the bow. His marlin was jumping like crazy, but Ken, so far at least, was in complete control of the situation.

SPERRY MADE HIS WAY back to the stern successfully, the skipper got the rudder working and then climbed aboard and started the engine. But that mariin was so mad that he was still wheeling around the boat in large circles and Ken saw that, once again, he would have to make his way to the bow-that is, unless the skipper managed to turn the boat.

Turn the boat, he did, but once again the rudder stuck. The skipper killed the engine, grabbed his wrench and dived overboard. Ken started his perilous trek around the cabin a second time, trying to regain some precious awkward position—whether to keep on taking movies, help the skipper or help Ken, who was hanging on to his rod and being towed away from the boat.

Ken still had on dark glasses, his hat and was trying to paddle with one hand while holding the rod up with the other. Even in such circumstances, he remembered to keep the rod high. The marlin had taken the line, down to the core.

Kiddie finally managed to lean for out and grab Ken's free hand. He then hauled him back far enough so that he could grab his rod-holder belt and get him back aboard. In all that maneuvering, Ken held the rod; Kiddie did not touch it.  $\star$

THE SKIPPER GOT the rudder working for the second time, climbed aboard, started the engine and turned the stern toward the marlin. The fish was still wild enough to make another turn around the boat and the skipper made another sharp turn on the wheel. The rudder

And overboard went the skipper with his rusty wrench. Sperry, dripping wet, was in another awkward position, but he decided to stay in the stern.

The skipper made a quicker fix, climbed back into the boat, started the engine and the marlin gave up. Ken ordered the fish released after estimating its weight at

At the closing banquet of the SCTC, Kiddle wanted to know how many points he should have for rescuing a lawyer. Somebody shouted out:

"You don't get points for rescuing lawyers; you lose 'ent."

All of the hilarious incidents just about convulsed the crowd. Then Charles Cox presented Kiddie with an elaborate gaff, which was bought especially for the occasion. Cox remarked:

"You may need this again. If you have to rescue Sperry from the deep at any future time, use this gaff, not your hands,"

EARLIER THIS YEAR I did a special story on the sad state of Belmont Pier, the mere mention of which causes a bit of nostalgia among the middle-aged and older segments of our population,

At that time I received numerous telephone calls from persons who wanted to know what they could do to help either preserve or bring about repairs to the pier. City Manager Mansell was extremely cooperative. He asked the city engineering office to come up with a plan.

That plan is Proposition B on next Tuesday's ballot. Briefly, it is a simple resolution asking the State Lands Commission to set aside $1,265,000 for the construction of a new Belmont Pier to replace the one that is practically falling apart. The money would come from the Tideland Oil Fund, which the State Lands Commission controls. No bond issue nor taxes would be involved. Those of you who wanted to do something when my story appeared and all others may now go to bat for the new Belmont Pier. Go to the polls Tuesday and vote YES on Proposition B. Get your neighbors and friends to do

Never mind the hassle in Sacramento in which the state is trying to take all oil money from Long Beach. Let's get ourselves on record as asking for a new pier. I, for one, just can not picture Long Beach without a public fishing pier

"Why Not Invest in Your-self?" will be the question asked by Wendell Noble, Glendale Federal Savings and Loan Association's commuunity relations director, when he appears before the regular meeting of the San Pedro Lions Club at The Hacienda, 301 S. Western Ave., San Pedro, at noon Thursday.

Noble, who has made more than 900 appearances before Southern California service clubs, is also a KABC news commentator with two shows daily. A veteran of 17 years in the radio and television field, he has extensive experience in news coverage in Washington, D. C.

"The real America," he will point out at San Pedro, "isn't in our present wealth, but in the system which produced it. This country has always offered, and still offers, more opportunity to every individual than any other nation, past or present."
"If the average person continued his average self-improvement during his whole life, he'd double his income every 14 years," Noble says.

gold key to the City of Pico Rivera by Mayor John Davis.

Coleman's great year, as he tells it, came, "in 18 and 98" when he purchased a planing mill in Everett, Wash, and became interested in real estate. He worked the milling and real estate business in Washington until 1910, when he came to California.

His first ventures in real estate were in San Fernando and then in Huntington Park, another big step and lo-cated in and helped create what was then known as Orange Wood, the area that now makes up portions of Downey and the City of Pico Rivera.

Coleman had a hand in locating the giant Ford Motor Company plant in this area, and has been building and selling homes here for the past 37 years.

For more than a decade the intersection of Lakewood Boulevard and Tele-

Coleman, who is just two months short of 90 years young, has announced plans to retire "and slow down a bit."

HE WAS BORN on July 18, 1873 in Seeley's Bay, Ontario, Canada. He came to the United States in 1882 and became a naturalized citizen at Elbow Lake, Minn., in 1897.

During Coleman's early years in Minnesota he Coleman was married in "that great year 18 and 98." His wife died in 1932, and he never remarried. Closely associated with Coleman in business throughout the years was his secretary, Sadle Cassis, whom he employed from 1926 until her death in 1961.

Sixty-six years a Mason, Coleman is a member of the Scottish Rite in Los Angeles, a Shriner, and holds a life membership in the Rio Honda Shrine Club.

It's what's inside that counts!

We're all aware of beautiful modern-day structural engineering, but ever stop to think what makes it practical? It's what's inside that makes it practical ... the plumbing, the heating, the cooling, the ventilating and the piping equipment. And who is responsible for furnishing, installing and connecting this with "Inside" portion of a building? The mechanical contractor. The mechanical portions of a building have somewhat the same status as the heart, lungs, brain and digestive systems of a human body. They are the vital organs which enable the framework to function smoothly and efficiently. And just as the physician is essential to the proper functioning of the burnan body ... so is the mechanical contractor essential to the proper functioning of the mechanical portions of a beliding. It is he who is technically skilled and trained to know the wheres, whys and hows of today's highly complex mechanical installations. He must know and understand the principles of bydronics, physics and metallurgy, lie is responsible for the installation and servicing of all that machinery and equipment whose constant use and operation is necessary for the safe and healthful occupancy of the structure by its users. Yes... no one can deny this is a beautiful structure, but as the old saying goes . . . "Beauty is only skin deep ... it's what's inside that counts." And it's the mechanical contractor that makes it count.

Wherever air, oil, gas, water or any liquid under pressure is piped, there you will find the skills of the P.I.P.E. mechanical contractor and his journeymen pipelitters and plumbers.

steps in. Founded 58 years ago, it pro-vides older male companionship and guidance for boys who have lost their fathers through death, divorce or desertion.

According to 15-year-old George

It was Big Brothers who intro-duced him to Herb DeBoer after the death of his father about a year ago.

The two really hit it off.
They both love boats (Herb has one), they like to get a gang together and go water skiing, they enjoy a game of golf, a workout with weights, a fishing trip or just an afternoon of tinkering with an

"HERB'S a great guy. He's teaching me to drive and when it comes to a problem, his advice is worth following," says George, a student at Will Rogers Junior High.

Just as enthusiastic, Herb says "I'd be doing most of these things (boating, golfing, camping) any-way. But, I enjoy them more with George along-he's real sharp, he keeps me on my toes."

HOW DID Herb and George Join the Big Brother program?

"I like teen-agers and as a bache-lor have plenty of time for sports -more than many fathers have." explains Herb of 5201 The Toledo. So, when I heard the organization needed volunteers I went in for an interview."

George, encouraged by his mother, had already signed up. She realized, as well as he, that there is no substitute for man-to-man understanding: that, though no one could replace his father, he could profit by the companionship of an

WHAT ARE the qualifications for a Big Brother?

Any man from 21 on up (single or married, with or without children of his own) can volunteer.

Locally, applicants are interviewed and carefully screened at the Big Brothers of Greater Los Angeles, Inc., office, 301 Harvard

Right now there are 175 boys waiting to be matched with Big Brothers and it is estimated that 10,000 Big Brothers would be just a good beginning for the area.

THE BIG BROTHER does not adopt, or in any way financially support his younger brother. He acts only as a friend: is encouraged not to arrange special activities but rather include the younger brother in his routine activities.

The average contact between brothers is once a week, though some see each other more frequently and others less. The important thing is consistency. The goal is for a genuine, lasting friendship. The duration of the re-lationship has no limits.

AS HERB puts it, "The drive to Los Angeles for that interview was more than worth the time involved. I'm getting as much out of this as

By BETTY WENTWORTH

In ancient civilizations it was quite the thing to wash clothes by treading on them in a water trough or pounding them against stones at a river's bank.

And through the centuries, for reasons of cleanliness, pride and vanity, people have evolved various methods of keeping their wardrobes in shape. Even now, with power laundries and marvelous cleaning agents, it's still a Number One problem for the house-

Which brings us to Betty Blake. Betty knows more about fabrics, from the old standby linens, silks, cottons and rayons to the just-on-the-market synthetics, than most people. She is, in fact, sort of a pioneer. She's the only woman in California, so far, specifically trained as a fabric care counselor-and there are on 1 y 80 others

FOR THE PAST year and a half she's been with Foasberg Laundry and Dry-Cleaners in this capacity. Preparation for her job consisted of special training courses at the American Institute of Laundering in Joliet, Ill., and the National Institute of Dry-Cleaning in Glendale.

"Then I did nothing for months but read about fabrics—how they're made, where originated and how to handle them," states Betty.

Her job is a multi-faceted one. She talks before clubwomen, discussing clothing problems and telling them about new colors and styles. She talks to department store buyers about advance information on new fabrics and styles yet to reach the stores. She sometimes describes the full picture of operations in both

Do's and Don'ts

1. Why do shirts come back with buttons broken? Because they're usually made of plastic instead of pearl and eventually crystallize.

2. Why does home spotting leave a ring? It's almost impossible for the nonprofessional, without proper equipment, to prevent this. Your cleaner begs that you bring in the spot instead of the ring-it's twice as easy to remove then,

3. Why do some fabrics say "Launder-Do Not Dry Clean?" You'll find that the fabric gets stiff if cleaned. DO keep the hang-tags. Read them and follow instruc-

And here are some excellent pointers.

1. Take spotted garment to cleaners as fast as possible. The longer it hangs the more permanent the spot becomes.

2. Identify the cause of spot if possible, otherwise cleaner has a much more difficult job to determine it.

3. Beware of spilling coffee (and the hotter it is, the worse the spot). Coffee dyes a fabric and needs swift attention.

4. There's a new use for stain and water repellent treatment on certain fabrics. You can take in new dress (they'll know if it's feasible for it) and have it treated so if you spill anything cool on it, it tuns right offi Hot things could permeate it, however,

THE NEXT best time this side of wherever in the world people have the BEST time (if you ever find out, let me know) was had, uproariously, by Dames Club members, spouses and guests last Saturday when they had an all-out hard times costume party, a progressive cocktails and dinner affair.

A few of those on hand were Prez Jerry McCutchcon and huz, John, party chairman Doris Sturgeon and ditto, Bob. Marilyn and Leonard Brock left a celebrity gala of some kind in very dressed up finery so Marilyn simply took an old sun hat and crushed it -- down on her fancy, new high hair-do to look the party

Jack Satariano came as the matinee idol of the hobo set with high starched collar on a tee shirt, cutaway (ragaway, really) and brown derby. In the meantime wife, June, was busy being a darling "bum." Evelyn Sullivan (Ted, the coward, didn't come in costume) wore last year's frock-meaning it was about one inch too small. Carol Greer (there with husband, Dick) came high fashion—but circa 1947, And that's the way it went-kooky, mad, merry.

JUNIOR LEAGUE sustaining members had their "Spring Spree" at home of social chairman Virginia (Mrs. Franklin) Waters Tuesday; combined gossip, lunch, more gossip, and initiation of the new "frankly forty's" set—those who have come to the living end of their years as actives, must by league law, based on the code that youth will be served, bow out and into sustainership at 40.

Tina Biby, complete with leg cast, had to sit as on a queen's throne. Understand she heard 64 different versions of how others had broken their legs or experiences they had had in the hospital and, as my informant put it, had precious few breaks (pun intended) in which to relate her own.

THE CHUCKLES were many, the fun continuous and the fishing unbellevably good for Southern Callfornia Tuna Club's just completed annual week's marlin tournament at Palmilla, Mexico. Harrison Moore (with wife, Ruth's assistance) was general chairman of arrangements (you can say "whew" again) and Martha and Art Hall were in charge of that ever popular nightly ritual, the cocktail hour.

Helen Buck caught her first big fish-a dolphin. She was black and blue but dead game and caught the thing after an exciting battle.

Also during the ladies' day (women only fish-one day—men the rest), Billie Litschke got her first marlin. Tom Kiddie was observer aboard and, with crew, laughed so hard at Billie, squealing, wheeling and dealing as she fought, they could hardly help her. Wellington Phillips caught five marlin in the first two dayshis first marlin ever—and had the old timers really worried that the newcomer would beat them all. Wife, Anne, didn't go out, the sissy. However, Charlie Cox finally managed to catch a total of seven to be winner. They tell me Ken Sperry had a mariin hooked when the rudder of the boat he was on jammed and threw him overboard. But Ken was fished out of the drink, still wearing his hat and glasses and still clutching that and the state of the ing that pole. He caught it, too!

In all, 19 men caught 57 marlin and 3 sallfish for a grand total of 60 game fish. Incidentally, all but one fish was released to swim away to be caught again, no doubt, good sports fashion. A few others on the merry jaunt, (they flew down, naturally) were SCTC President Herb Murphy and wife, Myrtle, Helen and Dr. Gus Bock, Les Callahan, Mildred and Dr. Jack Dorsey, Mary Kiddie (there with Tom), Charlie Litschke (there with Billie, the winnah!), Kay Sperry, Letha and George Collinge and Middy and Mel Masterson.

WOW, as in wow! In other words, play this double in baccalaureates. Carol Dixon Drake will graduate from USC as one of 14 seniors elected to Phi Beta Kappa. In the meantime, she has been a full partner to Bill Tobin in his construction company. Her duties on the job include decorating design, some of the actual building supervision and book work.

Also, in her "spare" time, she has seen to the needs of daughter, Dana, a student at Long Beach City College, and of son, Douglas, a grammar schooler. Just as a matter of interest, her grandfather, C. E. Akers was chairman of the board of Security First National Bank here for many years. GUESS you could call Marian McClaughry riotous. With a former roommate from Colorado College, Colorado Springs, she toured eastern college cam puses. The day after they were at Princeton It had its riot; the day after they toured Brown it had its riot. Later they toured Harvard and West Point. Did anyone hear about rumbles on those sacred grounds?

There MUST have been—holty toity campuses notwithstanding.

FOLLOWING their custom of the past four years, the Cecil Willises are departing, at the close of school, for good, old green-filled north country. They will be living the life easy at their Puget Sound home at Hansville for the summer. Donald, just graduating from Poly, will attend Whitman College in Walla Walla next fall. As the family home in Los Cerritos is being sold, upon their return here they'll take a fling at apartment life. Less weeding, y'know, but they're not too sure the Slamese cats will approve.

HOWEVER they say wonderful in Swedish or Finnish or, for that matter, Russian, is the way Lucille and Charles Green will soon be saying it. They left Saturday for New York; will sail aboard the S.S. Argentina for a 35-day cruise of the Scandinavian countries. This will be a welcome break from duties as prexy of Woman's Music Club for Louise, who retired

The Greens will stop in Iceland, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Poland and Holland before sailing for New York and home.

THERE MAY be a few goose bumps amidst the palm fronds but this is the beginning of luau season, regardless of what the sky reads. Witness Las Madrinas colorful one at the home of president Nell and Dave Thomas, 5530 La Pasada, last week. Going native for the night around the pool and patio were such "beach" boys and girls as Donna and Bob Albertson, Betty and Don Watt, "Widdy" (she was assistant) and Eric Peterson, Dorothy and Phil Laughlin, Gen and O. O. Flood, Georgia and Jack Berbower and many another. Cocktails preceded an authentic luau feast.

ALTHOUGH there were more hatless women than hatted (seems to be the trend, anymore) at Sandlark's fun spring brunch Wednesday at League House (witness pix below; more on that in a mo') still, there were quite a number of smart young women sporting Greta Garbo big chapeaux, the queen size floppy brim type. Count among these Cecelia Tollichet, Mattie Henry, Joyce Dixon and Laurel Specht. Very Smart.

The gala day was a salute to sustaining and patroness members of the little but, oh so philanthronically minded group. Co-chairmen were Jimmle Nutter and Betty Mitchell and we dolf our hats, real or imaginary, to them for their endeavor.

By MARIE RIDDER

vlt was a small dinner dance at the White House ... a gathering of the friends of President and Mrs. Kennedy. The summum bonum of all Washington invitations — an unofficial party at the White House.

But even in the midst of this carefree galety one guest was heard to answer his wife when she queried. "Are you having fun?" with "Of course, I'm working."

A rundown of the conversations he had during the evening with members of the Cabinet, the inner White House group, with Chip Galbraith, Ambassador to India, verified that he had, indeed, been "working."

His evening was spent the way most Washington eveinformation that's the warp

Stewart Alsop's only word of advice to his Engish bride when she first arrived in Washington was, "you may refuse cocktails, but never a dinner without asking me." He had good reason; the to exchange ideas in an unpressured atmosphere.

WASHINGTON night life can be broken down into two major categories: official and non-official evenings. The former include the large, black-tie embassy dinners-8 o'clock sharp till 11, equally sharp; state night hanquets, which are a must for members of Congress, and special interest dinners like those given by the Chamber of Commerce, mandatory for many a bureaucrat and Congressman.

In the latter category is the "little dinner," and deslarge do's of Mrs. Mesta and Mrs. Cafritz, it's the dinner for 8 or 10 that's the social life.

Then, of course, the hostess has, just as at a first pite the publicity given the night, the pig-in-a-poke world will lend their glamorous presences when the Children's Benefit League will herald the long-awaited formal opening of the Edgewater Inn Marina Hotel next Saturday night.

Alvino Rey's orchestra will play for dancing in the beautiful Parisian Room while the strains of Frank Martz' orchestra will emanate from the Empire Room; and there are to be floor shows Center, five-time American and international ballroom dancing champions, will give an exhibition.

Among stars who have accepted invitations to join the gaiety are Audie Murphy, Guy Mitchell, Fifi Dorsay, Beatrice Kay and Casey Tibbs, champion rodeo performer.

On the busy committee working on the big affair are Mmes.

W. Clarke and Richard Gripp, chairman and co-chairman; and Mmes. Eugene Blumberg, William Crail, Robert W. Dick, Harold O. Gray and Walter Troxell.

OVER THE PAST years the Children's Benefit League has raised approximately $100,000 and donated it for the benefit of underprivileged and needy children. Last year over 3,000 hours of services were given by members to the Children's Clinic and the Psychiatric Clinic for Children.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the Edgewater Inn, Mrs. William Bessire, 3437 Fidler Ave., or Mrs. Joe Hicks, 3039 Ladoga Ave. They will also be available at the door the evening of the

Oswald Jacoby Easy--With Know-How

Victor Mitchell of New York is one of our most resourceful dummy players which may explain why his partner sitting North took him all the way to six no-trump after Vic responded two no-trump to North's spade opening.

Still the contract is not too bad as there are eleven easy tricks for declarer to gather in and if diamonds break, the twelfth is there

Vic won the first spade with dummy's jack and led a diamond to his king. He returned a diamond and if he had been looking at all the cards he could have made the hand by simply playing low from dummy, but Vic went up with the jack. East won and led back the queen of hearts. Vic won in dummy and ran off the rest of the spade suit. The discards from his hand were a diamond, heart and club while East dropped two hearts and a club.

WEST simply discarded a heart. Vic led a heart to his king and West had to throw a club to hang on to two diamonds. Now Vic played a club back to dummy's ace and cashed the queen of diamonds.

East had to throw another club. Vic let go his last heart and made the last two tricks with the king and

JAMES HERLEY, president of the association for the past two years, will officiate. During this period, the Starlight Serenade Summer Pops Concerts and Saturday Evening Family Concerts were added to the symphony activities.

Other officers include Mmes, Charles Mason, Lloyd Mallin, Earl J. Marks Jr., Dr. John A. Lenick and Messrs. Myron Rickman, Clarence Knox and Theodore Lee.

Newly elected directors include Mmes, Charles Dorrans, Harold Hodges, Ora Knudson and Mary Pearson and Messrs. Leslie Des Noyelles, William E. George, Glenn Gilmore, Dale Hoskins, William Maschal, Mottell Peek Jr. and Robert Westmyer.

Lauris Jones, conductor. and Mrs. John O. McDonald, manager, have been reappointed for the 1963-64 seaworks; students have been permitted or led to find their own individual expressions.

Among the many artists of outstanding achievement are Tenold Peterson, who is represented by paintings, drawings and sculptures; Bob Pryor with an awesome, untitled portrait of a male presence: Angelo Calderone with a welded steel portrait head; and Alex Thompson with an excellent fibreglass "Gymnast." M. Gordin's painting "Box Baby" is unlike anything seen previously, as is the drawing "In Sickness and in Health" by Doug Hall.

SCULPTURE students have investigated "split-pattern bronze casting," a very restrictive technique, yet originality is unlimited. Noteworthy are "Figure" by Ohtani Ritsuko, an attenuated female by Joanne Callis, Robert Jablonski's "Unicycle" and Mildred Kouzel's "Play."

Among ceramics, certainly the most impressive is a 6-fnot by 5-foot screen of high-fired floral forms. Dale Rousey's four sun-faced wall plaques have holes for screws thoughtfully incised. Laird Plumleigh and Michael Arntz have elegant holloware pieces, while Judy Buzzard used "found" tessarae for an intriguing mosiae plaque.

Returns to Find She Wasn't Missed

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

We've been married 14 years and the last couple of them my husband has been seeing another woman. I ignored it for a long time, believing that most men wander a bit, particularly if you try to put too tight a rein on them.

Well, it got to the point where the neighbors were talking and the kids (we have six of them) were picking up stray bits of infor-mation that upset them. I began to have discipline problems with two of them.

I sat down to talk with my husband and got nowhere. He said I was imagining things. Then I went to my minister. That was a big, big mistake.

He is very young and I should have known he was too young to advise me, but I was grasping at straws. He told me to get away for a while and leave my husband to handle the children and to settle the discipline problem brought about by his indiscretions.

Dear Molly Mayfield

Well, to make a long story seldom enters into it. such a thing. But by the time I accepted my mothhad done such a wonderful of the two.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm worried about a very dear friend of mine. She works in a big department and for years has been the quiet girl who got all the work done. She wasn't a personality kid. She was well liked. Everyone enjoyed working with her. She has a wealth of talent.

But none of the executives ever thought of her in terms of passing along anything interesting. She did all the jobs that no one else

Well, at Christmas time she came over to the apartment and we had a long gablest. I discovered how bitterly hurt she was, but I never realized the steps she would take.

She is taking a modeling course, has peeled off some excess weight and is invest-ing in the sexiest wardrobe I've ever seen.

Everyone's noticing her, but they are also bemoaning the loss of a quiet individual that was fun to be with. The new gal is easy to look at, but clever word-manipulators are a dime a dozen and she's not one of the better ones. How can I get across to her that she's making a mistake?

Reducing News As Told By National Figure Authority

Our "Chef" knows his miss Pat Walker Talks about Reducing

I am often asked if I enloy my work as the National Figure authority for the Staufer System Salons. The answer very simple, it is yes.

I like my work because it is so interesting and challenging. It's challenging because every woman has a different figure problem and each woman thinks that her problems are the ones to one can help.

This is because the average woman has tried so many methids of reducing and gone on to many different types of diets only to find she still had her figure problems.

Many women reach the point of thinking that there's nothing else that can be done for her. She thinks this because she has not been exposed to a system such as the Pat Walker Stauffer System.

Can you imagine how gratify ing it is to see that same wom-an in a salon a few short weeks after she starts her treatments and to have her say thank you -thank you for showing me the way to a new figure and in many cases a new way of life.

Over the years we have been responsible for re-making over 5 million women's figures.

Actually there's no guess work to reducing today. Any woman can buy her figure just as she would buy clothes, carpets, furniture or anything else. The We do this by giving wonderful exact cost of her correction. should only difference is that it is a service in pleasant surroundings. From there it is up to her to only difference is that it is a service in pleasant surroundings. From there it is up to her to service and unfortunately it can. The response of the women make her decision of whether shrink from hunger but the has to do is to pick up the though we had a large salon in struggle the lonely and frustening phone and make an appoint. it has been necessary to enlarge even more.

Many people have asked me if the figure problems in South-ern California are different from anywhere else? The answer is no. Women are wom-en, no matter where they are from. But each individual case s different and has to be treated as such but with our program the end product is the ame perfect figure.

So many women think that they have to starve to death or experience painful or strenuous exercise to regain a good figure. Imagine how happy they are when they find that this is not true because relaxation is a part of our program. We have wom-en of all ages who are reducing with us. Also, children. It's a smart mother who recognizes figure problems with her child at an early age and who comes o us to take care of it.

For the convenience of women who work or have baby sit-ting problems, we remain open in the evenings until 10 o'clock. I want to thank all of the women who write to me letters of gratitude for what we are doing for them, and also, to all of the women who write asking what can be done for their particular problems—Pat Walker

Model Plan Easy Entry to Television

By BERT RESNIK TV and Radio Editor

Getting a job as a television actress is easy if you follow a model plan.

Take it from Margie McNally, NBC-TVs' gorgeous receptionist on "The 11th Hour.

Margie practices what she models.

For it was as a model that the winsome redhead got her start in the TV world.

"It's certainly not unusual," she said. "Almost every girl who models gets a chance to act.

"What's more unusual is that about 70 per cent of them say 'no' to acting."

WHAT ALMOST 100 per cent of them say 'yes' to is the opportunity to do TV commercials. Main 'yes' reason: commercials generally pay more than straight acting roles.

Margie, a former Powers model who started her career when she was 13 years old, is one of those who said 'yes' to TV commercials.

With the money she earned from the commercials, she took dramatic lessons.

The $50,000 prize she won for being selected as a "Miss Rheingold" didn't burt any, either.

"But the dramatic lessons and acting talent initially are not the main factors in becoming a television actress," she made it clear.

"Exposure—as a model, including TV commercials—does it."

THE MODEL PLAN doesn't work for everyone.

In fact, if you're a girl with a great acting talent and you stick to little theater appearances, you may eventually be spotted by a major drama scout.
It's just that being a model is so much the easier way to be discovered.

Easier, that is, providing you have a few basic qualifications.

You don't have to be a raving beauty, although, in Margie's case, it hasn't hurt

The first thing you should do is go to a registered professional model agency.

They'll tell you "yes" or "no" or 'possibly, with some corrections."

IF YOU'RE ONE of about 30 who qualify, Margie's advice is contrary to that of Horace Greeley, "Go East, young lady, go East," advises Margie. It is New York where there is 85 per cent of the modeling work that exists throughout the nation.

The same percentage used to hold true for TV commercial work, too, but the ratio is now about 50 per cent New

She didn't on her initial attempt at a video comeback, but she is trying again in a new series titled "Grindl."

Ten years ago Imogene, teamed with Sid Caesar, was one of the great co-axial stars of "Show of Shows," produced by impressario Max Liebman. It was a terrific combination of talents.

Since "Show of Shows" collapsed none of the trip has fared so well, Caesar has returned to television but has not set the world afire. Liebman produces occasional specials. Imogene returned with her own show a couple of years ago and bombed out.

* * * * * first time was just a lucky accident," she said during a break of her new movie, "Under the Yum Yum Tree," at Columbia Pictures.

"Max had worked with both of us individually when Sid and I were just getting started. He put us on the air together and we clicked."

"It was the kind of relationship you can't put into a script or a contract. There's no way to guarantee such a chemistry.

Hoping to hit the mother lode again next fall, Imogene will play a wacky Jill-of-ali-trades who accepts odd jobs. And when Imo-gene says odd, that's exactly what she means.

"In one story I play a housemaid. In another I'm a cleaning woman in a hospital who winds up as a nurse in the operating room," she said shyly. Imogene says almost every-thing shyly, undoubtedly because she is as shy as a wood nymph.

ALL THIS notwithstanding, Imogene is a bit wacky in person. Just listen:

"I'm having an awful time at home. I can't understand whether my Burmese cat, Timpy,' is in love with my duck, 'Grover,' or if he just wants to eat him up.

"I'm not taking any chances. I keep Grover locked up in Timpy's cage and Timpy keeps trying to get in."

Imogene sees nothing strange about keeping a duck and a cat in her house. She also has a pet dog, Poodles Hanneford II.

There was a Poodles Hanneford I," she added, "but he passed on. Come to think of it. this is Grover II, too. The first Grover now lives with friends on Long Island.

"I bought him out here and took him back to my New York apartment. I kept him on the terrace with a little wading pond. But I was afraid his quacking would get the neighbors angry and have them call the Board of Health or something."

It was suggested that Grindl might take a

The comedienne was pensive for a moment. Then she answered: "Oh, no. My life is very normal compared to Grindl's."

"Oscar" derived his name from Mrs. Margaret Herrick, currently executive director of the Motion Picture Academy. When she first saw the statuette, she commented:

"Why, he looks just like my Uncle Oscar.'

The exclamation was publicized by a newspaperman present and the name has stuck since 1931.

WALTER MATTHAU . . . Emmy-Nominated Performance

Repeat Poker Play Tonight

"Big Deal in Laredo," an hour-long drama that won three Emmy nominations, will be repeated at 10 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 4 in COLOR.

The "Show of the Week" production gained nominations—although it didn't collect any Emmys—for Walter Matthau as leading actor, for Fielder Cook as the best drama director and for being the best drama.

It's about a reformed gambler who decided to play in one final poker game.

ON JUNE 12, CBS-TV (channel 2) will repeat the dual-Emmy-winning. "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall" performance. The show was selected as the best music program and figured in the Emmy award to Carol Burnett as the outstanding variety-show performer.

On July 24, Eleanor Parker will appear in the NBC-TV (channel 4) "11th Hour" episode which brought her an Emmy nomination.

"THE MADMAN," a twopart drama on CBS-TV's "The Defenders," won Emmys for writing, direction, film editing and figured in the program's overall selection as the outstanding dramatic series. It will be repeated on Aug.

10 and 17.

Actress Kim Stanley and

Actress Kim Stanley and Glenda Farrell, who won Emmys for their performances in a two-part "Ben Casey" production, will be seen in their winning roles when the drama is repeated by ABC-TV (channel 7) on Aug. 26 and Sept. 2.

Margie's Model TV Plan

York, 50 per cent Hollywood.

There are three major model categories, junior-fashion, high-fashion, "in-betweenish."

Margie describes herself as 'perpetual junior-fashion."

Which means that she's not over 5-feet, 7½-inches tall (5-feet, 5½-inches, to be exact), has a fresh, outdoors look, doesn't have a hungry face, isn't very, very thin, but definitely is not Anita Ekbergish where Anita is.

THE HIGH-FASHION model is over 5-feet, 7-inches tall, very thin and doesn't even recognize the existence of Anita Ekberg.

The "in-betweenish" is either too short, too tall or too heavy to qualify for the other categories, but makes a perfect housewife-type for video commercials. If the "in-betweenish" model recognizes.

the existence of Anita Ekberg, she, nevertheless, won't be caught talking about her. TV acting opportunities are

TV acting opportunities are ample for models in all of the three categories, according to Margie.

"Take, for example, Tippie Hedren," said Margie. "Alfred Hitchcock saw her doing a TV commercial. Commercials were the extent of her acting experience.

experience.
"Hitchcock brought her to Hollywood and featured her in 'The Birds'."

Other TV commercial graduates include Millie Perkins, Sandra Dee, Pamela Tiffin and Suzy Parker.

"And, of course," added Margie, "there's me."

Next season 'The 11th Hour' plans to let viewers see more of their model actress.

THE KREMLIN—A special 2-weeks-later repeat of NBC's news color special which won high critic acclaim is at 7:30 p.m., ch. 4, at an earlier hour for school-age viewers to enjoy. Hour re-creates events that took place in the walled fortress during five centuries, from early Moscow princes to from early Moscow princes to Peter the Great and on to the Soviet era. Frank Bourgholt-zer and George Vicas narrate, Ignoring Soviet requests for minor changes to correct what Soviets term "historical in-accuracies."

CLOSE-UP!-The story of Mrs. Tomi Keitlen of Spring-field, Mass., a blind woman who refuses to be blind, is told at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7. She runs an office, keeps house, writes her own checks and supports her 18-year-old daughter. She also works with other blinded persons to teach them to remove what she calls "blindisms," to she calls "blindisms," to "look" at those who talk to them, to eat normally, to ski and to look at sightlessness as an inconvenience rather than a handicap. ### Richard Boone Stars in Series He Calls 'Revolutionary'

REPERTORY THEATER ON WAY TO TV

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) -- It's been a long time coming, but repertory theater is on its way to television.

Repertory, like vaudeville. chautauqua and tabloid shows, belonged to the last generation. Today's young folks might like to know that a repertory company is a more or less permanent acting organization which presents a varied selection of plays.

The man responsible for bringing the old stock company to video is actor Richard Boone who will play host and co-star next season in a series of shows, one hour cach week.

A television veteran of two series, "Medic" and "Have Gun, Will Travel," Boone has joined forces with author Clifford Odets for what he considers a revolutionary series.

"WE'LL HAVE an even dozen performers in the com-pany," he said, "and each one of them will rotate from starring roles to bit parts, de-pending on the individual script.

"I will be the only exception. Because my name will be part of the title people might think they are misled if I do not have a good role in each show. Therefore half of my parts will be major ones.

"We already have 40 story capsules in the works and hope to have 60 from which we'll pick our first 13 shows. I will play everything from a villain to hero to waiter.

"And all our stories will be contemporary. At no time

RICHARD BOONE . . . In New Series will I be seen tramping around in boots and spurs.

SINCE announcing the show will make its debut on NBC next September, Boone has been deluged with requests from actors to join the repertory theater.

"Now I have a list of 208 actors that I'd like to narrow down to that dozen," he said. "But I've heard from 14,000 performers,

That means when the final casting is announced I'll have 13,988 enemies, I'm a coward at heart and probably will find someone to start my car in the mornings until it all blows over."

Boone's enthusiasm for the show takes into account a rather poor track record of previous anthology shows in the ratings.

"THE MAJOR problem with repertory, like anthology, is that there are no continuing characters as they are found in westerns and situation comedies," he said.

"But we will have continuing actors, which should make a big difference in audience loyalty and in the rat-ings. By the end of the first year viewers should have 10 year viewers should have it actors they recognize and look forward to seeing on our show every week."

Curiously, Boone owns no part of "The Dick Boone Show."

"it's owned by Goodson-

Todman, NBC and Odets," the actor grinned. "I don't even own a percentage of the profits. But on the 10th of every month they'll back a Brink's truck up to the bank

"There are no limits to what we can do with a reper-tory theater on television, If we fail, it will be our own faults."

If Boone and Odets are successful, you can bet the 1964 season will find repertory theaters on the other two networks, and maybe even back in theaters.

A STREET STREET STREET 'Operation Alphabet' for Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) —Florida officials have announced plans for "Operation Alphabet" — a project aimed at teaching a quarter of a million adults in Florida who own television sets how to read and write.

School superintendent Thomas D. Bailey said the 1960 census revealed that 261,433 Floridians over the age of 25 couldn't read or write.

"Operation Alphabet" will present 100 half-hour television programs teaching the basic skills and will be aired on the state's educational television stations and three commercial channels,

Fall Series Brings Social Workers, College Profs

By RICK DU BROW

MOLLYWOOD (UPI) - The dogooder rides high on television next season.

Keeping up with the times, the networks will flood the airwaves with entertainment series about people who do good things rather than attempting great ones. In a sense, it is an easy, popular and back-door way of presenting some form of the contemporary cultural mainstreams with which television has virtually no con-

On CBS-TV: George C. Scott plays a social worker in "East Side, West Side," and we know he'll do good if The state of the s for no other reason than that David Susskind is the producer. The "Route 66" boys will also be back, helping people and doing good every time they stop their sports car for gas. And, of course, nobody does more good than "The Defenders." I don't know how much good "The Nurses" do, but they'll also be back, adding their two cents to the time of the

ON NBC-TV: Robert Taylor will be a worker in the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, so we know he'll be doing some good. The "Eleventh Hour" psychiatrists will be straightening out people's mental problems, while "Dr. Kildare" will take care of their physical ones. "Mr. Novak," as a high school teacher, is sure to be up to some good-doing. And even "The Lieutenant," about a young Marine officer, will not be about combat but—according to NBC —"his growth in personality." And that means more of you-know-what.

ON ABC-TV: "The Breaking Point" and "Ben Casey" are this network's answers to psychiatric and sawbones cases who would rather be treated by ABC than NBC. "Channing," about a college, will, you can be sure, do a lot more good than the movies" silly college musicals of the 1930s; and,

un. And "Arrest and Trial" switched Chuck Connors from a prosecutor to a defense attorney, which means it's bewing to the line too.

Doing had is not chic for next season. Detectives are in the minority. And the cowboys are going thataway. And the cowonys are going mataway.
Only five westerns return—"Gunsmoke," "The Virginlan," "Bonanza," "Rawhide" and "Wagon Train"—and in most of these the heroes spend almost all their time doing good too. "Gnusmoke" is the only one of these with a single stand-up hero. The others are group efforts, keeping pace with the hardy individualism and free enterprise of the times.

OZZIE & HARRIETformat twist, the Nelsons' television set, which Oz and television set, which Oz and Harriet are watching, becomes the viewer's own set for a "June Music Festival" of singing by Rick and his guests, at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7. While Rick sings, and handles on-stage details, brother Dave does backstage interviews with guest performers The Brothers Four, Bud and Travis and Jennie Smith. The Homer and Jennie Smith. The Homer Garrett square dancers are featured, and Rick is backed by his own ruck 'n' roll combo of James Burton, Ritchie Frost and Joe Osborn. After tonight's show, the Nelsons revert to repeats until their return in the fall for their 12th TV year, in a new Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., slot.

Mainkyou, Mr. President

WASHINGTON

April 23, 1963

Dear Mr. Gorkin:

It is heartening to me that the Soviet Government has agreed in principle to the United States suggestion for a "hot line" between our two countries.

I remember when you first brought this new and imaginative idea to my attention back in 1960. I well recall that at the time I told you this proposal merits the most serious and thorough consideration.

Your advocacy of faster communications between the United States and the Soviet Union was sharply underlined during the Cuban crisis. I believe your efforts in this field have been an excellent example of the most constructive aspects of our free press.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jess Gorkin Editor

POWER-KNIT

Only Jockey T-shirts are Power-Knit...keep their fit

The Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is man-tailored, from its exclusive, nylon-reinforced Seamfree® collar that smoothly hugs the neck to its extra-long tail that stays tucked in. It's built to take the roughest, toughest wear. It won't bag or sag. Weekly bouts with the laundry won't faze it.

Why? Because this new Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is made with extra yarn for more strength (more absorbency, more comfort, too). And its special Pak-nit® combed-cotton fabric helps prevent length shrinkage. Only the Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is made like this to keep its fit. The extra-value is knit right in.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by FRANK FONTAINE

EDITOR'S NOTE: Frank Fontaine of Winchester, Mass., mighty father of 11 children, 9 boys and 2 girls, is currently best known for his Crazy Guggenham character on the Jackie Gleason TV show. Although Fontaine has been a comedy star of screen, radio and night club shows for years, the Gleason program marks his first appearance as a regular performer on a TV series. Fontaine was born in Cambridge, Mass., the son of show business parents who were known in raudeville as Ray Fontaine & Co. His grandparents were circus people with Barnum & Bailey. Young Frank toured the vandeville circuit with his parents, then left at 17 to marry an acrobatic dancer, Alma Wakham of Medford, Mass. For years he struggled to make a living around Boston and barely succeeded through small night club bookings. After three years of military service (1942-45) he toured with Vaughn Monroe's orchestra as a featured comedian, eventually branching out into motion pictures. This season Fontaine has hurgeoned into prominence as both a singer and comedian on the Jackie Gleason Show. He and his family live in Winchester, to which city! Frank rushes back as soon as he finishes each engagement. "I love to spend time with my family," he says. "There's always a new addition." Herewith some of Frank's favorite jokes:

Last week my friend Joey took his little boy to the fortuneteller, and the guy looked into his crystal ball and said: "Ah, good news. I see where your little boy will be very wealthy. At the age of 21 he will have two million dollars."

Joey grabbed his boy and hugged him, and he's laughing and jumping around, and all of a sudden the fortuneteller says: "Wait—sad news. The crystal ball tells me that when your little boy reaches the age of 22, he will be flat broke."

Well, this is too much for Joey. He grabs the kid, belts him a shot in the head and yells: "You dopey kid! What did you do with all that money?" That Fatso Fogorty is getting nuttier than ever! I ran into him this morning and he said to me: "Everybody is ribbing me because I put on a little extra weight, so I'm going on that new three-day diet. It's a great diet where you don't eat anything for three days—you just drink carrot juice."

So I said to him: "Fatso, you've been on a hundred diets and you've cheated on every one of them."

"That's true," answered Fatso, "but this time I'm going up to my room on the fourth floor, lock myself in and throw the key out the window."

"Lock yourself in for three days!" I cried. "Suppose there's a fire?"

"Well," replied Fatso thoughtfully, "I just won't go."

"Sorry," said the manager, as they approached the lobby, "but no bables allowed."

So Murphy pleaded with the man and told him that the baby never, ever cried. And the manager finally said, "Okay... but one peep out of that kid, and I'll have to refund your money and throw you out."

Well, this was the worst western you ever saw. Even the horses couldn't act. And when it was only half over, Murphy said to his wife: "This picture is terrible."

"Yes," she answered, "isn't it awful?"
"Well," asked Murphy. "What are you waiting for? Pinch the baby!"

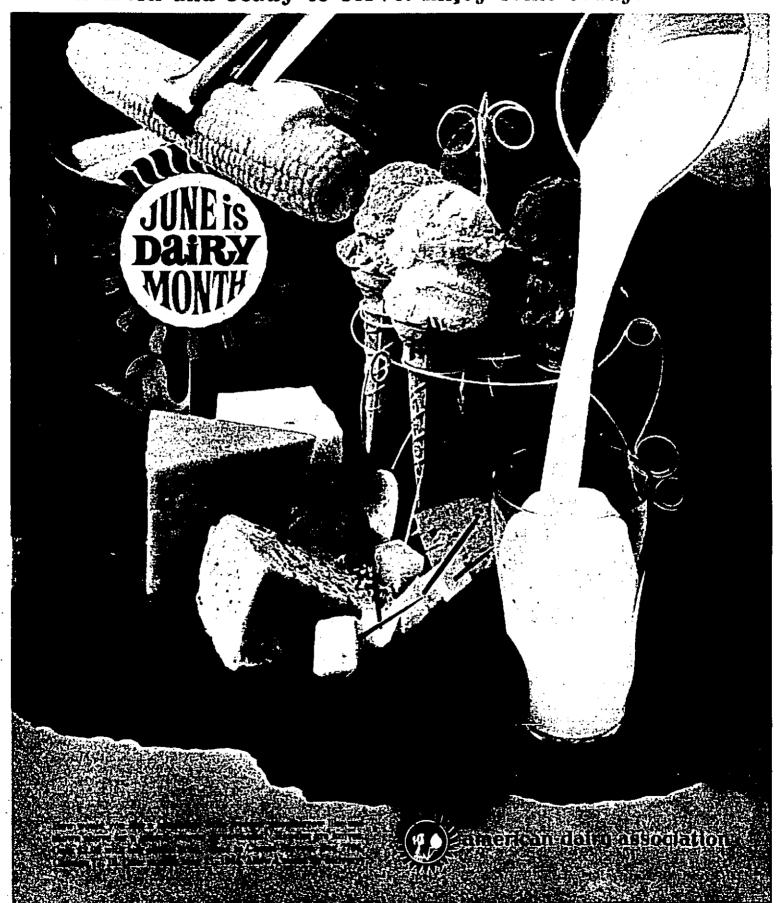

One day my uncle Dippy took his wife to a nice restaurant. After dinner he found out he didn't have his wallet with him, so he said to the manager: "I live just two blocks from here. I'll be right back with the money."

The manager said, "Oh, that's okay," and under a hook on the wall he wrote, "Dippy Guggenham owes me four and a half dol-

"Wait a minute," said my uncle. "This is very embarrassing. Everybody will see my name on your wall."

"No they won't," replied the manager.
"Your hat and coat will cover it."

It's June again and the serving is easy with dairy foods. All fresh and ready to serve. Enjoy some today.

LET'S STOP PICKING ON THE ASTRONAUTS

by LEO DEORSEY

Attorney for the seven original astronauts

WASHINGTON, D.C. sound off about peeves that they would prefer to keep quiet.

I can speak out against those who would unjustly diminish and disparage seven of the bravest Americans of all time, against the fast-buck merchants who want to cash in on their achievements, against the unthinking and uncouth few who try to intrude upon their privacy.

Although the astronauts may be spacemen, they are not creatures from space. They are human beings, too, who want to live like the family next door. Privacy, I would remind you, is a precious human right.

I have been around Washington long enough to become aware of the wiles of the politicians and angle-shooters. But I hardly expected some of the antics the astronauts have had to endure. I can only marcel at the good grace of these fine young men. My own temper has often reached the explosion point.

Look, folks, an astronaut!

All of them have had to light off pressure to appear with politicians who, for their own political profit, want to snare a live astronaut and show him off to the home folks. Glenn has been invited to run for Congress; they have also considered proposing him for vice-president.

An insurance company wrote to me saying that it had been "chosen" to write insurance on the astronauts, the premiums to be paid by patriotic Americans. Chosen by whom? The advertising department?

Snide suggestions that the astronauts are merchandizing their popularity make me sizzle. A Florida newspaper, for instance, reported that five of the astronauts would display Florida tags on their cars and that for these cars they had made only token payments. Scurrilous nonsense! They were offered free Corvettes or Thunderbirds, but chose to buy their own cars.

Less than four hours after Glenn's dramatic return from orbit, a corporation executive was on the phone offering me several thousand dollars for the astronauts. The well-meant gesture was rejected. Another time, I sat down with Glenn and a corporation head who offered to pay him $1,000,000 over 20 years. I am proud to say that Glenn felt that he could better serve his country at his base pay of $13,000 a year.

You may also recall that Glenn appeared on TV with Societ cosmonant Titov and some Russian scientists. The Russians refused to appear unless they were paid in advance. The network offered Glenn the same fee, but it was refused. He appeared without fee.

$2,500 and up

There have been offers for speaking engagements (even for sitting silently at a banquet) running from $2,500 up. One endorsement would have netted the astronauts a minimum of $250,000. Yet these have been turned down.

Al Shepard wouldn't even take the $2,500 which the National Geographic, as a gesture, offered for publishing excerpts from his official flight report. The magazine explained that all contributors were paid. But Shepard rightly refused payment, holding: "I do not feel that it is appropriate for me to accept this check for a basic reason. The material presented in Washington, from which you have chosen excerpts for your magazine, is clearly in the public domain."

Perhaps I should explain how I came to be attorney for the astronauts—I prefer to call them "my boys"—whom I am proud to serve without fee or expense. Until April 1959, when an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration telephoned me, I hadn't even heard of Project Mercury. He told me that on the following day NASA would announce the names of seven men who had been chosen to fly into space. The agency was already flooded with offers for their personal stories, and once their names became known, they would be approached directly. The young men would need an adviser, a father confessor, who could guide them to do not only what was good for themselves, but also for their country.

I was invited to meet the astronauts at a Pentagon dinner on the day they were introduced to the nation. Who could have failed to be inspired by such bright and shining courage? I liked "my boys" on sight; more important, they seemed to like me.

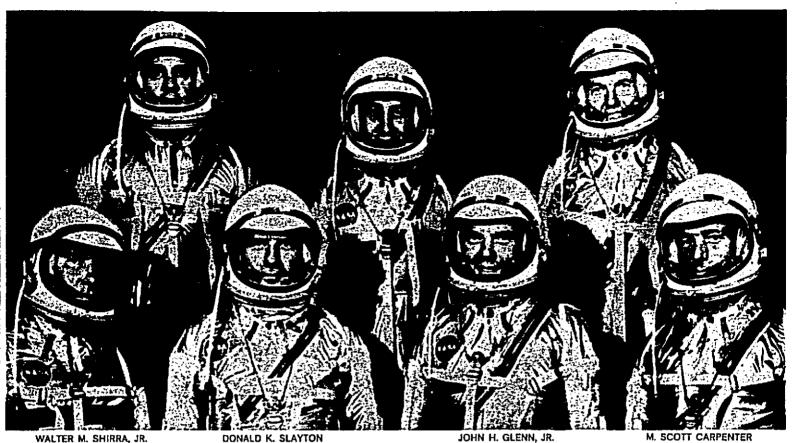

Over the months, we have become fast friends. I have had four heart attacks, the last in July 1962. My boys made daily phone calls to my home in Pine. Orchard, Conn. When I was allowed company, six of them flew in from Houston. (Scott Carpenter was at the bedside of his sick mother in Boulder, Colo.)

Shepard gave me the clock from his first space ship, Carpenter the button that pushed him off, Clenn a pin which he carried in his pants leg on his historic flight. Recently, the boys sent Mrs. DeOrsey and me a clock as an anniversary present. It was inscribed: "May the coming years he as kind to you as you have been to us."

Unlisted phone

For a few weeks before each flight, an unlisted phone is placed in the home of the designated astronaut, so I can be in immediate contact with his family. There is also an unlisted phone in Hanger "S" at Cape Canaveral. Before the flight, I visit the boys at the Cape and call them. I have phoned from Tokyo, Anchorage, Seattle. But I am always on U.S. soil for the countdown. I was at the Cape when Shepard went up, but the emotional strain was too great. The boys are heeding the advice of my doctors, and won't permit me around at "lift off" any more.

At our first meeting, it was agreed that all seven would share equally from their personal stories. If anyone withdrew from the project voluntarily, he would forfeit his interest. But if he were grounded involuntarily, as Deke Slayton was later to be, he would continue to share. Aside from personal stories, there would be no commercialism of any kind. The temptations were great, but they were resisted.

It was on this basis that I negotiated the muchcriticized $500,000 contract with Time, Inc., an agreement I will defend on both legal and moral grounds. The astronauts have as much right as anyone to sell their personal stories. Their official actions are public property—paid for by their service salaries —and this has never been questioned. But they do have personal lives, personal experiences, personal feelings. They did not sign these away when they entered the service of their country. Nor did their families sign up for a tour of duty, though they have never shirked their duty.

My worst headache was the affair of the Houston houses. As early as Al Shepard's first suborbital flight, we were deluged with offers, many of them for free houses. One morning, I received a phone call from the White House, explaining that the President had received a telegram from an Alabama congressman offering to provide Shepard with a free house, fully furnished, complete with a swimming pool. I politely but firmly turned the offer down without even bothering Shepard about it. His plans were unsettled, and I was sure be would not want to accept a house in which he might never live.

Later, NASA decided to base the astronauts at the new Houston Space Center. Someone suggested they should be provided with homes. A Texas congressman set the ball rolling, and 100 members of the Houston Home Builders agreed to participate. It was a generous gesture, one I thought we could consider. It was practical, no commercialism was involved and all shared alike. I took the matter up with NASA's legal department, which saw nothing illegal or unethical about the proposal. I indicated that we would accept. Then all hell broke loose.

Shady shenanigans were suggested. Even the staid New York Times reported that the White House was "investigating" the Houston house deal. I understand the Times reporter telephoned Pierre Salinger and asked about the offer. Salinger said he would rlook into it"—an answer you or I might have given. There never was any "investigation," and no one from the White House even contacted me.

The whole affair became so distorted and distasteful that it was better to let the matter drop. Today the astronauts are all living in Houston. Six have bought homes with their own money and mortgages, and one is leasing an apartment.

I am always being asked such questions as: How much money do the astronauts have? What taxes do they pay? What are their investments? But the prize for sheer effrontery must go to the reporter who asked: "How profitable is it to be an astronaut?"

Profit! What profit can repay a man for the almost total loss of his private life or the heart-searing anxiety of his family as he soars into the unknown?

No tax privileges

Profit! Why not ask how profitable it is to be President of the United States or Prime Minister of Britain? Eisenhower, Truman and Churchill all sold their memoirs for large sums. The astronauts have never sought, nor do they get, any tax privileges.

Of all the pressures and problems, not the least have been the efforts of some bureaucrats to manage the private lives of the astronauts and their families. I want to make clear that we have never had the slightest interference or criticism from the White House. But many pressures can be applied without white House knowledge, and it would be easy to bow before them. We have not done so.

At the time of the Glenn flight, I suggested that newsmen be barred from inside the Glenn home. This precipitated top-level meetings, and government legal cagles asked me what legal grounds I had for harring teporters and cameramen. I replied: "None! All I know is that Anne Glenn, whose hushand is risking his life today, did not enlist in the Marines." I felt she had a right to be alone in her own home with her children and those of her own choosing on such an awesome occasion.

Hounded by the public

Not only the press but the whole hero-hungry public seeks to invade the lives of public figures. The astronauts can't go for a quiet drive or picnic in the country, take their families to the theater or to dine in a new restaurant without being followed, stared at, even clawed. They have been forced to put up fences where no fences should be needed, keep curtains drawn, have unlisted phones to get away from the drunk calling at 3 A.A. from Las Vegas.

I can say that much of the extra money my boys have earned has gone to buy privacy. The fighter pilot in South Vietnam also lives in danger and has to sacrifice family life. But he doesn't live in the fish bowl of publicity. On leave he can get away and forget his perils. Not so the astronauts.

In any case, I have no need to apologize for my boys' war records. The seven took part in some 500 combat missions. Take Glenn, for example: his plane was shot up 12 times—5 times in World War II, 7 times in Korea. He holds 5 Distinguished Flying Crosses, 19 Air Medals.

Although I have expressed my impatience with the unfair and unjust treatment in some respects, on the other hand, the overwhelming approval of the American public has been both inspiring and heartwarming to the astronauts.

Peaked cotton sun hat is authentic copy of head covering used by banana boat stevedores in Ecuador.

Anyone who has ever said there's nothing new under the sun just hasn't looked at the new crop of beach hats. They're wild, witty and colorful.

This summer, beaches will be dotted and polka-dotted with hats which also double as conversation pieces. Anybody who thinks a girl wears a hat on the beach just for protection against the sun just doesn't understand women, according to John Frederics, hatter for all seasons.

"Girls want to be noticed," says Mr. Frederics. "One bathing suit looks like any other bathing suit, but an interesting hat—well that's a different story."

The "different story" this summer will be organdy on the beach. The garden party hat has been adapted for the seashore. Organdy snoods, cotton piqué hoods—inspired by the fellows who load banana boats along the west coast of South America—cotton print hats with big brims and soft centers and gingham bonnets like haby sister wears, will be seen and admired.

Silky chiffon scarfs are also making their debut on the sand bar. You know that plain little cotton sailor hat you wear for sailing? It's leen glamorized by yards of chiffon scarf wound loosely around the face and neck. Untrimmed straw hats, so popular this spring, have also established a beachhead wherever the resort flag flies.

While the soft, wispy, feminine look will hold sway from St. Tropez to Waikiki beach, the straws—just off the boat from Italy or purchased at your corner drugstore—will be as popular as ever this summer.

In the offshore breezes plastic bananas and other tropical fruits will flop from wide and narrow brims. Other straws in the wind will be decorated with starched cotton daisies and harmless wooden mice.

At Cypress Gardens, Fla. (see cover), hats are important props. Dick Pope, who tuns the well-known tourist attraction, keeps on hand a wardrobe of over 2,000 hats, most of them straw.

No matter what the current fashion, Pope feels that straw hats denote sunshine. Some Cypress Gardens straws are as much as five feet in diameter, in accordance with Pope's view that "the larger the hat, the more the sun shines."

Off-screen laver, Roderick Mann, is British newspaper reporter. He has proposed marriage to Kim.

KIM NOVAK

'Sure I'm in love, but why marry?'

by LLOYD SHEARER

BRAY, IRELAND

LISTEN, Kim Novak said. "He's your best friend. Tell me the truth. Is he stringing me along?"

"No," I said, "He's willing to marry you."
"What do you mean," she asked, "willing to marry me?"

"Okay," I said, "anxious to marry you."
We were sitting in Kim's hotel room a few miles outside of Dublin, where they are filming, because of tax advantages to actor Laurence Harrey, a third screen version of Somerset Maugham's Of Human Bondage. Harvey must make his films outside of England or else pay a whopping income tax.

It was a bright, shining Irish day, and Kim confessed, "I've fallen madly, deliriously, tempestuously in love with Roddy Mann." She wanted to make certain he felt equally enthusiastic about her.

Roderick Mann, 40, is the leading show business writer in Great Britain. Handsome, worldly, sophisticated in a gentle, humorous, Scottish way, he writes for the London Sunday Express and is a close colleague of many years standing.

"All I can tell you," I said, "is that Roddy is an emotionally mature man. He's dated practically every actress in this business, and it's a tribute to your charms or looks or whatever you have that he should woni to marry you. Apparently, he's sure. That's what he tells me. The question is, are you? After all, you've had so much trouble on this picture. You've needed someone to confide in. Maybe you're just using him as a crying towel."

Of Human Bondage has been a sad experience for Kim Novak. Cast in the role of Mildred, the cockney waitress—a role once memorably played to the hilt by Bette Davis—Kim disagreed with director Henry Hathaway, who insisted that her cockney accent was too broad. "The sound man on the film came to me," he explained, "and said he couldn't understand Kim. The cutter who was editing the rushes told me the same thing. I asked Kim to go easy on the accent, but she wouldn't. That was our area of disagreement. She wouldn't budge. Neither would I, so I just left the film."

Kim also had trouble with her leading man, Laurence Harvey. "For some reason," she says, "known only to him, he refused to talk to me except in the line of duty."

Taylor Too Costly

Ray Stark of Seven Arts, producers of the film, flew to London and asked Elizabeth Taylor to replace Kim. Elizabeth agreed for $1,500,000. MGM, the distributors of the production, refused to pay that price for Taylor, so Seven Arts decided to ride out the storm with Kim. A new director was hired to replace Henry Hathaway.

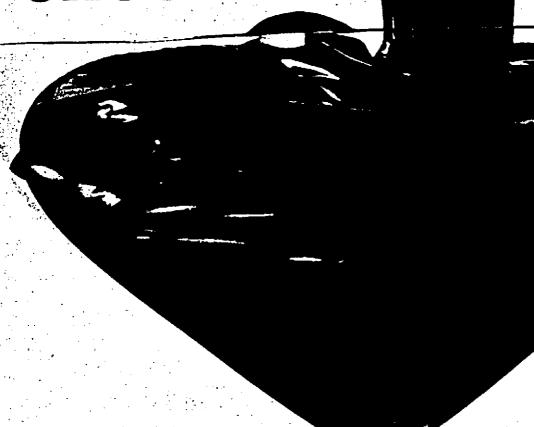

Midst this widening fracas, Roderick Mann flew to Dublin to Interview Kim for the Express. Kim unburdened all her fears and anxieties on Mann, an old friend of hers whom she had dated many times previously—generally chaperoned by Cary Grant. A sympathetic and understanding reporter, he listened, calmed her, amused her. Their companionship presently ripened into love. Som Kim was flying from Dublin to London to spend her weekends with Mann. A few weeks ago he proposed marriage.

Apparently the proposal disturbed her. "Why can't people stay in love," she asked thetorically, "without getting married?"

"The usual reason," I pointed out, "is to legitimatize offspring. Marriage essentially is legal protection for women not men."

"I don't know why it is," Kim continued, "but marriage frightens me. It seems to destroy love, not to enhance it. Marriage seems to turn men into heels. I can't tell you how hadly they behave, especially in Hollywood. They're always making passes. I don't understand it. I'm sure they were madly in love with their wives when they first were married. What happens along the way-especially to actresses?

"Why can't actresses stay married? If I marry Roddy, will be become Mr. Kim Nocak? Will it be fair to him? Where will we lice-in California or London? How about the difference in our earning power? Why can't time stand still?

Reluctant Movie Star

Kim bit her lip thoughtfully. "I'm ready to give it up in a minute," she announced. "I never wanted to become a movie star. It was an accident. You know why I came to Hollywood in the first place? Some fellow in Chicago was bugging me to marry him, so I ran away. I was afraid of marriage even then. although my parents have had the happiest of marriages. I can't understand myself. Every girl supposedly wants to get married. I've had chances and chances, but I keep saying no. What should I say this time?

Kim Novak is 30, an unheard-of age for a screen sex goddess to have reached without ever having been married.

In the past eight years she has been coupled romantically with at least two dozen men, from the late Aly Khan to director Richard Quine.

Most of these men have found Kim attractive and gracious, but few have proposed marriage, Last year a French designer, Louis Fervand, 42, who was squiring her around Paris, asked for her hand. She turned him down-"because I wasn't sure."

The truth about Kim Novak is that she is in love with love but afraid that marriage will alter a status quo she finds immensely pleasurable. She is wise enough to realize that a screen career and marriage won't mix. But why give up $300,000 a year, a mansion in Bel Air, a retreat in Carmel, for a marriage which may prove transient? Kim knows she's a mocie star hut no great shakes as an actress. She doesn't particularly care about acting. She prefers painting and writing poetry.

Advantages of Stardom

"But let's face it." she says honestly. "Look at the opportunities and advantages Hollywood has afforded me. A few years ago I took my parents to Czechoslovakia so they could see old relatives. I've made my sister Arlene director of all my fan clubs. Barbara Mellon, who went to school with me in Chicago, is now my secretary. Another old friend, Norma Kasell, is my business manager. I've been able to do things for people, to share my prosperity. I've been able to travel and meet fascinating personalities. How much of that do I give up if I say good-bye to my career and become Mrs. Roderick Mann?

"There's never been a divorce in our family, and I don't take marriage lightly. If I get married I want it to last, and I will do anything to make it last. Is there a man, any man, who will love me for myself, who will love me as Marilyn Novak, or have I now reached the point where to all men I'm Kim Norak, movie star, and that's the image they think they're marrying?

"You know me, and you know that I'm not at all like the girl up there on the screen. I don't care about clothes or money or fancy trappings. All I care about is being sure, being sure about love. Right now I'm sure I'm in love with Roddy. But a little voice deep down inside of me keeps saying, 'Why marry?'

I shook my head a little sadly. Darling, I sald, "you're not sure at all."

AMERICA'S BEST RESTAURANTS

These 53 are tops for food and tops for value-according to a famous guidebook

Perino's, 4101 Wilshire Blvd., Los An-WHERE IN THE WORLD can a traveler eat

best? This is a question that has divided

The editors of the Mobil Travel Guides. which aspires to be America's answer to the world-famous travelers' handbook, Guide Michelin, think they have the answer, however, in 53 eating places around the U.S. According to the 1963 editions of the 6-volume regional guide (Guides for the Southeast, Alaska and Hawaii are being completed), there are 8 best restaurants in the U.S. and 45 other specially good values.

The eight tops, the Guides declare, are the ultimate in everything. They dispense the best quality food, the finest preparation, the most matchless service, the most elegant decor. The Guides rate 12,000 eating places on a scale of one to five stars; these elegant and expensive eight are the only ones to get a five-star rating.

Forty-five more, however, get a different "best" rating. They're cited for "exceptionally good value" for the money. According to the editors, they offer good, wholesome food at budget prices...

But what do you think? Do you have a favorite eating place you consider topsor a value that others should know about? If so, PARADE would like to hear about it. Look down the lists below, and if your favorite isn't included, write to Favorite Restaurant, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y.

SARAKA SOLVES THE PROBLEM OF "AFTER 45" IRREGULARITY

Doctor-approved bulk stimulant helps keep you comfortably on schedule as no ordinary laxative can!

As we grow older, our systems may often need outside aid to help maintain a normal regularity pattern. Continued use of strong drug laxatives can be irritating, even dangerous. That's why many doctors recommend SARAKA, the pure, all-vegetable bulk stimulant laxative for middle age and over. SARAKA supplies the moist, bland bulk that is so essential to healthy bowel function. And only SARAKA has a gentle stimulant action to help case this bulk through your system plus Vitamin B<sub>1</sub>.

Special note to weight watchers: Lack of sufficient bulk in 900 calorie liquids can lead to constipation. If this occurs, supplement your daily diet with all-vegetable SARAKA.

Q. Why is practically nothing ever said in any history of World War II about the destruction of Dresden? Didn't Churchill goof on that one?-L. H., Dencer, Colo.

A. In February 1945, British and American bombers flew over Dresden, 70 miles behind the Eastern front in Germany. The city was undefended. In addition to its own population of 630,000, Dresden then contained 500,000 refugees fleeling from the advancing Russian armies. The Allied bombing, largely British, burned out the city, killed 135,000 people. This is more than the number of Japanese destroyed by the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima. Says Churchill: "The destruction of Dresden remains a serious query against the conduct of Allied bombing."

O. Why was Curt Jurgens ever so quietly removed the other day from the film, The Cardinal?-Knox Carleton, Providence, R. I.

A. Scheduled to play the role of Cardinal Innitzer, the Austrian churchman who thought he could do business with Hitler, Jurgens was reportedly replaced because of publicity in Vienna on his private life, which to date has involved several beautiful women. He was replaced by Josef Meinrad, a distinguished Viennese actor.

O. Who said: "Thinking is like locing and dying. Each of us must do it for himself"?--Marie Hollingsworth, San Francisco, Calif.

A. Josiah Royce, American philosopher and educator (1855-1916).

O. Darryl Zanuck, president of 20th Century-Fox, is insured by his company for $1,000,000. What is the annual premium on that policy?-James Van Hucht, Albany, N.Y. A. $26,880.

neapolis, Minn.

A. As host of the two TV programs, Today and Concentration, Downs receives approximately $400,000 annually from NBC, earns further money via the endorsement routine.

Q. How much does Hugh Downs earn per year?-James Christiansen, Min-

Q. Why do so many U.S. corporations hire ex-generals?-H.Van, Miami, Fla. A. For prestige, to preside over routine board of directors' meetings, to employ their friendship, influence and knowledge in securing government contracts.

Q. Lena Horne has been married to Lennie Hayton for 15 years. Do they have any children from their marriage? - Amos Johnson, Brooklyn, N.Y. A. No, but Miss Horne has a son and daughter from a previous marriage.

Q. What's happened to William S. Ginn, one-time vice-president of General Electric who served time in the price-fixing case? - H. T., Ardmore, Pa.

A. He is now president of the Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corporation of Philadelphia, recently charged by the Department of Justice with fixing prices on steel wheels. Mr. Ginn was not president of B-L-H at the time of its alleged price-fix-

Q. I wonder if you can tell me if Elizabeth Taylor has a mink-lined raincoat, or is that just publicity?-Ellen Gershenson, Dallas, Texas. .

A. It's true.

Q. What relation is Senator Russell Long to the late Huey Long?-B. P., Washington, D. C.

A. His son.

O. How many Mormons are there in the world?-Louis Ecans, Salt Lake City, Utah.

A. Approximately 2,000,000.

O. Does the President of the U.S. smoke cigars?-Al Spacht, Rochester, N.Y. A. Yes.

O. Did Robert McNamara, the Defense Secretary, ever work for General Dynamics? Wasn't he once offered the presidency of that corporation? -Glenn T. Gordon, Scattle, Wash.

A. No, he never worked for General Dynamics. His name was once suggested to Col. Henry Crown, largest individual General Dynamics stockholder, as a presidential possibility. The suggestion came from John McCone, now chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, but it was made without McNamara's knowledge and no action was ever taken on it.

Q. What is the relationship between a woman named Nina Steers and Jacqueline Kennedy?-D. J., Richmond, Va.

A. She is Jackie Kennedy's half-sister.

Q. Was it really Mrs. Mary Rockefeller who wanted the divorce she eventually secured in Reno from Governor Nelson Rockefeller? - Rosemary Moore, Terre Haute, Ind.

A. No. Mrs. Rockefeller was willing to swallow her pride for the sake of her family and the governor's political career. She was aware of Governor Rockefeller's infatuation for Mrs. "Happy" Murphy. But each time she discussed it with him the governor insisted that he wanted a divorce because only a divorce would solve the problem of his heart.

HOW TO BE SURE

your youngsters take the laxative they need

Give them Mint-Flavored Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. They'll like the taste. And it's the kind of laxative doctors recommend.

Mint-Flavored Phillips' tastes so good, children and grownups take it happily. And when the makers of Phillips' asked thousands of doctors, "Do you ever recommend milk of magnesia?" the overwhelming majority said, "Yes."

You see, Phillips' Milk of Magnesia brings really complete relief because it is a laxativeantacid that relieves both constipation and acid indigestion, Get Mint-Flavored Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

NEXT WEEK

Nobody seems to recall exactly just when orchestra vocalizing started, but one thing's for sure: It has been around for some time. Ted Kree kicks the question around next week in a story called "The Days of DIF and Ni'LL," and in the doing brings back some nostalgic moments for all of us who can remember back to the time when radio was coming into its finest hour.

EAR MISS RULE: Could you explain the origin of BICKFORD. — C. C., Long Beach; E. F., Redondo Beach. C. C., E. F.: BICKFORD is an early English surname formed from "Bican-forde," which eulogized "River-crossing of the hewer or mattock wielder." Forefathers include Alexander de Bikeford of Staffordshire in 1273. The Bickford shield from Devonshire is silver, decorated with a black, scalloped-edge chev-ron placed between three black, heraldic birds,

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain ALVIS-E. A., Bell-

flower, H. A., Long Beach, E. A., H. A.: ALVIS, traced to its ancient English source, is found to have several meanings. The phrase "Alh-wis." "divinely wise." Alvis also evolved from "Adal-wis" for "nobel and wise." The Alvis or Alves shield is silver, emblazoned with three green clover leaves and three silver spur-rowels on a blue chev-ron; the shield has a black border. The Alves motto "Deo Favente" means "God favor-ing me."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like history on AMBRIDGE-

R. A., Long Beach.
R. A.: AMBRIDGE is a name shortened from the town called Hambridge, located in Somerset, England. This place-name began as "Heam-brycg," meaning "high or chief bridge." The Ambridge ancestor lived by this famous river-crossing. The Ambridge shield is red, decorated with two silver rampant lions placed one above the other in the center.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on CARNEY— H. E., Long Beach, IL E.: CARNEYS descended from Cearnac, an Irish chieftain whose name meant "vic-torious one." His sons formed the clan O'Cearnaigh, whose early home was in County Mayo, Erin. Late medleval alteration resulted in the Gaelic clan becoming O'Carney, Carney, and Kearny. The family shield is silver, emblazoned with a chevron between three bugles.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on ATTAWAY and ADDAWAY — M. D., Long Beach; D. G., Garden Grove, M. D., D. G.: ATTAWAY and the spelling variation are from the old English phrase "Atte-weg," meaning "Dwellers in a home on a roadway." This name distinguished the ancestor's home from those of his neighbors which were on side paths and byways. No other data is available on these families.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you information on VIGNA-ROLI?—S. V., Compton S. V.: VIGNAROLI is Italian, taken from Vignaro, applied to an agriculturist, meaning "vineyard owner."

To Vignaro was added the nickname ending "--oli" for "little." No coat-of-arms is recorded for Vignaroli.

THE "IN" WAY to spend the lunch hour at Long Beach State College these days is bouncing off the gymnastic version of a launching pad—the trampoline.

Noontime sessions are attracting flocks of students anxious to try their wings.

It looks difficult to the spectator, but it isn't.

AND IT LOOKS dangerous. But, Bartlett says, "There isn't too much hazard if you have proper supervision, instruction and spotting. (Spotters around the rim stand ready to push a stray bouncer back onto the bed, or occasionally to break a fall) "the probable area than the bady contact and the order. fall.) "It's probably safer than the body contact sports, although some of the centers which sprung up a few years ago suffered from lack of supervision. There have been sprains, but no serious accidents at LBSC."

Bartlett, Big 10 all-around gymnastics champion in 1953 when he was a University of Minnesota athlete, coaches one of the state's best gymnastic teams. His gymnasts have won three conference titles in the past four years.

LBSC'S STAR trampolinist is Dick Foat, 20. Foat has won LESC'S STAR trampounts: is Dick roat, 20, roat has won three California Collegiate Athletic Assn. trampoline titles, a California state championship and two UCLA invitational Meet championships. As his college competitive career closes, he has worked out a professional air-borne clown act with which he hopes to continue in the sport.

One beginner who made good is Judy Glenn, 20, a 5-foot-3 junior who took her first bounce on a trampoline less than a year ago. Two weeks before this year's Region 11 U. S. First house to be built in Willmore City was the J. R. Cook family home, above, that was completed in 1882. Mr. and Mrs. Cook are seen on porch.

By Charles W. Crutcher

WOULD YOU have taken Greeley's advice and enjoyed living during early history-making years when men were men and their women were glad of it?

Frank E. Cook did. Cook, 92, of 51 Atlantic Ave., is one of the last old, old timers and looks back proudly on pioneering days when his family trekked westward in covered wagon from Ohio to California in late 1860s. Not only was he proud of his family, he likes to recall experiences encountered while building Willmore City before it was rechristened Long Beach in 1897.

"My father, J. R. Cook, was a man of few words," he says, "and it was my mother, Harriet Ann Cook, who told me in part of their westward trip when I grew old enough to understand: 'We'd take over land near creeks,' she said, 'where the soil was fertile, and we'd grow com and vegetables, and raise a few cattle; we'd build our houses of sod, mixed with roots and tree branches which made the huts sturdy enough to resist the strong winds that blew across the plains.'

"My father had two rifles, a Henry and a Sharps, the best, and he knew how to use them; he'd kill rabbits, deer, and buffalo. Some of the buffalo meat they'd eat and some they'd sell to Army camps. The Civil War was on during part of their journey and there was hunger and dissension among the people."

THEY'D REMAIN longer in some places than others, especially when there was a new addition to family. The Cooks started out with Adelbert; Adolphus was born in Indiana; O. B. in Nebraska, and sister Amy and Elmer in Kansas.

In Kansas they were camped on a lonely trail one afternoon when J. R. noticed a twister (cyclone) forming and heading in their direction. Father and mother Cook rounded up the two sons and small daughter, Amy, and took them in direction of a farm house about half a mile away. The people living at the farm house had a storm cellar and invited them in.

They were guided to a settlement and were given clothes and provisions to last them until they could grow

another crop. In about two years they had saved enough money from the sale of buffalo meat and hides to buy another wagon,

IN NEBRASKA they were raided by Indians. Cook rushed his family to a fort several miles away; he later returned to hide all night, in a comfield he had planted. The Indians stole all the family's stock.

all the family's stock.
"My family was jubilant when they reached the warm climate of California. They settled first in a community called Monterey. I was born there," Cook says.

Several months they lived in Monterey, then came southward and settled about 30 miles from Santa Ana. Here J. R. purchased land on the Margarita Ranch. About this time, William Willmore's posters advertising the beauty and great townsite known as Willmore City fell into Cook's hands,

THE COOKS, however, were still undecided where to settle and live permanently. They went to Salinas, where J. R. looked around. He liked the country and went into the grocery business.

"I was 3 years old," says Frank,
"but I remember the grocery in a small frame building. In back was a large barrel of whisky and, instead of father treating customers by giving their offspring licorice and sticks of mint candy when they made their purchases or paid their bills, he turned over the barrel, free of charge, to male customers."

One day the male customers congregated around the barrel and got drunk and noisy. Disgusted, J. R. sold out and the family left Salinas, except Adelbert; he remained and followed the carpenter trade. The Cooks pointed their course toward San Juan Capistrano and lived there several months before pulling stakes, leaving Adolphus to work in the walnut orchards.

They headed for Willmore City and were surprised when they arrived in 1882 and they found it a long way from being built. There was but one tent at First Street and Ocean Boulevard, occupied by Capt. Charles Healey, first Willmore City licensed surveyor.

"FATHER BOUGHT two lots for $25 each on the west side of Pine Avenue between Third and Fourth Streets. He dug the first surface well on one lot and supplied the little settlement with water."

J. R. Cook immediately started hauling lumber for house to be built by Hazelton, William Seeley, William Briggs, and Stephen Busch at First Street and Pine Avenue, and to be occupied by the three families. J. R. finished his house first and won distinction for completing the first house in Willmore City. It was occupied by the Cook family until 1902, when J. R. sold the lots for $20,000. The house was moved off to make a business block, (Manning Cafe now occupies the homesite.)

"My sister Amy went to Los Angeles and learned to be an osteopath and returned to Willmore City, opened up first osteopath office in the Walter Horne Bldg, at First and Long Beach Boulevard; Elmer went to work

Tabernacle and bell tower, two early-day Long Beach landmarks, are shown above. When the Long Beach Hotel burned Beach Boulevard; Elmer went to work in 1888, Frank Cook sounded the alarm on the bell in the tower. The city's progress long ago removed these structures.

Dr. William Harrison of USC's School of Dentistry looks over tiny carving of a space vehicle, made by a freshman student as test of future skill.

This freshman dental student is apparently proud of being a USC Trojan as he recreates the school's statue in dental wax, using dentist's tools.

AVE YOU EVER wondered how dentists with very large hands

AVE YOU EVER wondered how dentists with very large hands ever manage to reach that tiny cavity in the back of your mouth? In addition to the awkward position, the dentist also must work on a very miniature scale even if the hole does feel like a cavern to you. Dentists are made, however, not born, and the dexterity he demonstrates is often merely an extension of what he picked up while a freshman at dental school. This is particularly true if he is a graduate of University of Southern California's School of Dentistry.

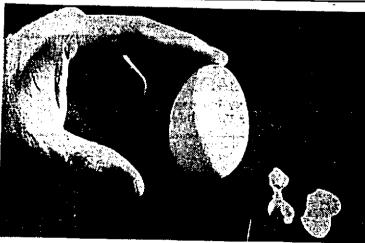

In 1929, Prof. William Harrison of USC's School of Dentistry noticed that most of his students, proficient enough in the basic sciences, somehow lacked the deft and artistic touch just as necessary in dentistry as drill, diplomas, and office manners.

Because hand skill is extremely important to a dentist, Dr. Harrison originated a very unique program to aid him in his teaching. This program consisted of a creative wax carving test to determine and evaluate the manual dexterity of his students. The wax carving test is still in use today and each freshman student must display his artistic talents using only a pocket knife and the standard dental tools to produce a miniature figure in wax. to produce a miniature figure in wax.

Box Seat to Wildlife Show

By E. C. McCrimmon

NOT MANY American women get an opportunity to watch African wild life from a tree house!

Such an opportunity came recently to Marjorie Paul, an Amercan community nurse in Ethiopia, when she went to Tanganyika on a vacation.

"Treetops' is a small hotel built in the tops of trees over a salt lick and watering place where the animals come to drink," she explains.

"As we approached it in the forest we saw ladders nailed to trees for a quick getaway in case the scout, who went ahead, spotted dangerous game."

The treetop hotel, supported by branches and reinforced by tall cedar logs, has three levels, all with porches, The top floor is open to afford a clear view of the night prowlers below. Safety is assured by pulling up the ladder to the first floor.

AS DARKNESS approaches —if it's a moonless night—two 1,000 watt are lights gradually are turned up to simulate moonlight. The lights also protect the viewers from the viewed.

"As soon as we arrived at our room in the tree house, we saw a family of wart hogs and many baboons," Miss Paul relates . "Soon we had an extra fine show. Buffalo began coming before dark, Nearly 60 elephants, 40 buffalo and a dozen rhino entertained us for hours. Those old rhinos are cantankerous souls!

"WATER BUCK crept into the far side of the watering hole. A bush duck, with bold stripes on the back of his body, remained only a few seconds, Four crowned cranes glided in and settled among the grass and reeds.

Returning to her home base at Gondar, Miss Paul saw some Masal. 'They must use mud on their hair, making ringlets. Some of the younger boys even had their bodies smeared with this reddish stuff. Their ears were laden with earrings-the size of bracelets."

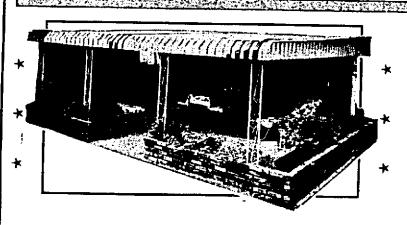

IN GONDAR, where Miss Paul has charge of a group of native community nurses, she has an apartment in a building put up during the Italian invasion of Ethlopia, It rates a refrigerator, piped water and electric service that fluctuates.

American women boil all water, scrub vegetables and even sterilize dish towels.

TOMES THAT can match the mellow but modern qualities of the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Esposito, 2934 E. First St., Long Beach, are not to be found at every turn in spite of the beauties and comforts that are available to householders Rich paneling and fine construction are marks of the beautiful residence of Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Esposito and family. Above, a view of the living room in which the effect is one of skilled design, comfortable living.

-Freits er Chuck Sundquist

Pool and garden combine to present a scene complementing the elegance of the rest of the home, the effect being that of a country estate. Photo at right speaks for itself in expressing natural beauty of the area.

Sturdy and handsome, the Esposito home expresses air of confidence and comfort. Above, a streetside view.

today. The maturity of 30 years, plus the careful atten-tion of an original builder, inject an air of solidarity, com-fort and "home" into this pleasant dwelling rooms and portions of rooms. The Espositos believe the room has historical value since the original owner built it with great care. They treasure the rich paneling, the handsome dining room set, the carpeting which was espe-cially made in Tibet, the carved sideboards—to name only a few items.

ALL CHANGES, both structural and decorative, were made with infinite care so as not to detract from the oldworld charm and beauty of the residence.

ing.
The formal dining room would be at home in a fine European mansion, So large is the room that two glittering chandeliers were chosen for the dining area. In order not to take attention away from the paneling, shutters were chosen for the windows rather than drapes. Above the carved buffet is an ornately framed mirror flanked with two scones. The room invites a long, lingering dinner by candlelight.

THE ESPOSITOS living room is probably twice as large as an average one, A grand piano appears to oc-cupy only a fraction of the Parenthetical note: in this lived-in home the chair is often used by some of the younger set for the purpose of playing king. The chair is, sultably, the throne.

The kitchen and surrounding area provide just about every luxury a large family could desire. Ovens, stove, and out-size refrigerator line one wall, More work area and the sink are on the other side facing the dining area of the family room. A sit-down bar also faces the dining area and garden beyond, where at least four persons can be seated comfortably on either side.

IN THE DINING area is a long table where eight can dine, with room for more if necessary. The entire far wall is glass from floor to ceiling with a full view of the garden and pool.

Farther down in the area is a walk-in bar that faces the garden. There is still ample room for the couch and occasional chairs in the far end of the room. Young members of the family can, and do, bring home guests by the dozens. One of Dr. Esposito's favorite corners in the kitchen is an area where a full-sized built-in barbecue stands ready for

One of the family's favorite rooms is the den, Leopard covering was selected for the sofa. Bookshelves line one wall, inviting one and all to stay and browse.

Upstairs, the bedrooms are large and numerous. There are walk-in dressing rooms, huge closets, and each room is furnished with custom per-

Miss Paul, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Allen II. Corkwright, 4332 Maury Ave., Long Beach, and a cousin of Mrs. G. A. McCrimmon, 124 Third St., Seal Beach, frequently has visited in Long Beach.

Reward from the Sea | Alltomation pools offi

Rich experience has come to the author and her husband from acquisition of this apartment property by the sea.

By Julie Hubert

EACH YEAR, as we take up the pleasant task of refurbishing our seashore apartments, I'm overtaken with an expectant joy, I can hardly wait to see the happy faces of our old guests who, like the returning swallows, come to us every summer for a vacation by the sea.

I can see them entering "their" apartment, "Myl Look at those pretty drapes! And that oval mirror—brings the ocean right into the house."

We called ourselves refugees from the big city, my husband and I, when we bought this "big house" by the sea. Having grown tired of crowded city life and gasoline-filled air, we switched to the quiet dignity of seashore living. And, being a childless couple (with a dash of the gypsy in our blood) we persuaded ourselves to enter into a new venture-renting apartments by the sea.

Without much planning, we each fell in with the work we were best suited for, my husband used his many skills to shape, and it became my lot to act as manager of the place.

SUDDENLY, our house was peopled with children. was my chance to get a taste of playing "Mother"—a game in which a priceless experience has unfolded.

You don't need an organized game. Just drop what you're doing and dash out into the sand. There are a dozen kids waiting for you to play catch or toss the ball around with them. Pick up the little toddler and kiss his bruised hand. Hug a crying child to your heart. What a magnificent play! You're mother, playmate and guard-

My ability to make children mind is probably rooted in my own childhood, Being one of a large flock of chil-dren, I shared in the discipline of the house. We had "laws," not rules. And punishment was swift if they were not obeyed.

I must confess that this flock of children was not the

By Bob Davis

CONTAIN DID the brontosaurus cross the road?" the shaggy young man asked a score of people munching dinosaur steaks and drinking berry juice.

'To get to the other side...yuk...yuk... yuk," he exclaimed. Thus, possibly, the laugh merchants received their historical beginning. Who's to say? In any event, people have been laughing for a long, long time. Which raises the dual question:

"Why do you laugh, and what makes you laugh?"

"I've tried to figure it out, but all I get is a headache," said comedian Joey Bishop. "I don't think anybody really knows.
"You deliver a joke you think is so funny you can hardly keep from breaking up. But most of the audience sits on Its hands. Or, the joke is an obvious dog, but the audience laughs uproarlously. You stand there trying to figure out what happened. It's baffling,

"OBVIOUSLY, people laugh at different things at different times for different reasons.

"You probably wouldn't laugh if you took a prat-fall, but if someone else did you might go into happy convulsions. Is it because of the look on the person's face, his disheveled appearance. or are you glad you aren't the only one to fall on your whatchamacallit?

"Maybe it's watching a small child putting his shoes on the wrong feet. Do you laugh because it's cutely funny, or because the child is so serious in his efforts?

"Like I say, It's a lot of different things."

STEVE ALLEN is another laugh merchant whose system for getting laughs is undisputed, yet the "Why?" of laughter

is still puzzling to him.
"It's undoubdetly one of the real mysteries of life," he says, "While beauty is in the eye of the beholder, humor, apparently, is in the ear and mind of the listener.

"A certain gift is required for a person to be able to repeatedly make others laugh. Perhaps only 100 professional comedians in the world today possess this natural ability.

"You can look, dress, think, say and act funny. but I guess what's really funny is when your audience thinks it's funny. 'The unexpected, the twist ending and the trueto-life situation are usually dependable laugh

"The impromptu laugh is perhaps the hardest to explain. It's the one that comes at a serious moment, like sitting in church, or a very dramatic part in the playsomeone laughs. It has happened to me . . . it's embarrassing. Suddenly the laugh is there . . . it's out . . . you don't know what caused it."

COMIC Don Lane often puts embarrassment to work for him.

To accomplish such a situation he takes the purse from an attractive woman in his night club audience. Then he discloses in a humorous fashion what the purse contains, all the time indicating something re-markable is inside,

The embarrassed gal squirms. Her escort manages a weak smirk. The audience howls.

"Laughing at the harmless discomfort of others seems to be a popular pastime for American au-diences," Lane said, "Unless the routine touches a personal nerve in the Joey Bishop ... he con the laught at the pronounce figure laughter either. Jothers, provided they are, made to appear humorous.'

For the most part an experienced comedian can keep his audience laughing by the surprise ending, the humorous twist to a common everyday occurrence, or an instant ad lib, the three comedians agreed.

"THE AD LIB, done properly," Allen ex-plained, "is many times the greatest laugh get-

What it probably boils down to is this, said Ber-nard Teitel, a Long Beach psychiatrist:

"If the joke, regardless of the subject, strikes as tender a spot in the listener as it does to the victim, the listener won't laugh.

"Which probably accounts for the fact that many of today's comics usually portray themselves, a member of their family or a close friend as the victim . . . so they won't offend.

"In this manner they create laughter at their own ineptitude, sorrow or embarrassment.

"FREQUENTLY laughter occurs when an individual's hidden, unspoken thoughts are suddenly freed by the actions or words of someone say-ing or doing what the individual wants to, but can t.

"For example: If you think your neighbor is a big, fat, dumb ox, you aren't going to tell him because he outweighs you by 75 pounds. But if someone confides in you that they think he is a big, fat, dumb ox, you laugh because someone has said what you won't admit out loud."

The Legends Finally Die

Bv Vera Williams al Manazine Rock Editel

"SLEEPER" of the scason is likely to be Hal Borland's near-folk story, "WHEN THE LEGENDS DIE" (Lippincott, $4.50) about an Indian lad's growth into manhood and eventual return to the way of his ancestors.

Bear Boy, of the Ute Indian tribe in the hill country of Colorado early in the century, becomes orphaned and is betrayed into a reservation school where he becomes Thomas Black Bull. He is taken away by an alcoholic gambler who uses him in small-time brone riding contests to win crooked bets. Then he becomes Killer Tom Black, a money-hungry rider on the big-time rodeo circuit.

Finally, he returns to the Colorado hill country and realizes that he cannot forget his Indian heritage or his identity.

Hal Borland writes eloquently, and this probably rates as his best, "When the Legends Die" may be the most popular book of the summer.

"CALIFORNIA: A History" (Crowell, $8.95) by Andrew F. Rolle, chairman of the Department of History at Occidental College where he is a specialist on California, is up-to-date and readable. In 620 pages the author recounts the history of the former Bear Flag republic from its primitive Indian beginnings to its complex present.

Rolle describes in vivid detail Spanish rule and influence, Mexican control, American exploration, development of the fur trade, the

Nearly one-fourth of "Cali-fornia: A History" is devoted to California in the 20th Century and deals with the present and future. Rolle dis-cusses such pressing current problems as population ex-pansion, traffic congestion, smog control, water conservation and migratory labor.

MORE THAN 300 Viennese, German, French, British and American operettas are de-tailed in "THE COMPLETE BOOK OF LIGHT OPERA" by Mark Lubbock and David Ewen (Appleton - Century -Crofts, $12.95). The 972-page volume contains 20 pages of photographs, synopses, casts of characters, performance information and musical examples from such favorites as amples from such favorites as "The Chimes of Normandy," "The Gypsy Baron," "The Bypsy Baron," "White Horse Im" and 14 Savoyard classics, as well as "The Quaker Girl," "Florodora," "The Pink Lady" to "Salad Days," "Kiss Me Kate," "The Music Man" and "How to Succeed—"

H. ALLEN SMITH writes about himself and sex, shipboard life and sex. Tahiti and sex, natives and sex and well, sex and sex, all in sprightly fashion in "TWO-THIRDS OF A COCONUT TREE" (Little, Brown, $5). In it, he says he tries to catch the authentic spirit of the South Seas. Tahiti, the Smith headquarters for the trip, he says 'has a small-town, villagey character cross-pollinated with an inter-national flavor. There is more to it than coconut bread and unbridled license (the best kind) and frangipani." Native girls he describes as more than willing, beautiful, with velvet-smooth skins with velvet-smooth skins but they need to have their teeth fixed. A lot of laughs in the book. The book derives its title from a Tahiti zoning law that restricts the height of all new buildings to "two-thirds of a coconut

Decorative flower cart permits portable flower display.

By Bill Meyerriecks

TERE'S how to make the happiest efforts of your spring and summer planting a joy to behold. Display them with the help of the Garden Flower Cart. It is something that can be one of the most satisfying and decorative adjuncts to your garden. And it allows you to shift the growing flowers from shade to sun in a jiffy.

The cart, standing about 28 inches high and about 32 inches long, is constructed primarily of exterior plywood and pine lumber. You can make it and decorate it in fancy or simple style as you wish. The plans show all full-size cutting patterns for the more elaborate parts and step by step instructions on building the cart. Also included are suggested paint-on designs should you want to decorate it. The flower cart, incidently, makes a handy storage bin for your plants and bulbs during the winter. It also can be put into service during the winter months as a portable bar or server.

TO OBTAIN Sketchbook Flower Cart Plan S-110, send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

It's Barbecue Time Again

SOUTHLAND weather beckons to outdoor lans for al fresco dining once again and the handsome table and bench set pictured below with NBC television actress Eileen O'Neill was designed to last a lifetime. It will withstand outdoor weather and a coat of paint or varnish each spring will keep it looking like new. The table is six feet long and will easily seat eight; however, you may make yours longer or shorter depending upon your needs. It's assembled with bolts and screws, and when you build it yourself, the cost is within everyone's budget.

To build the table, you need only trace the full size pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and put them together. The table pictured was built of Douglas fir, but plne or redwood may also be used. Required materials are listed on each pattern along with easy-to-understand directions and illustrations.

To order, specify Barbecue Table Bench Pattern No. 312 and send $1 in currency, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

WHEN Frank Cook was 13, Willmore City's first hotel the Bay View-for which his hauled lumber and helped build, was completed. It was owned by Josiah Smith; it had 10 rooms and kitchen.

Frank was a livery boy for a stable owned by lke Fetterman on First between Pine and Pacific, and a stable on Ocean owned by Greeley (no relation to Horace). He was a blacksmith helper during one school vacation, and he worked for harness makers at the Bixby Los Alamitos Rancho.

Willmore City.
When the Southern Pacific took over, they put in a nar-row gauge railroad and used engines they brought from California mines.

COOK WORKED for the Long Beach Hotel, completed in 1884, Willmore's second hotel. It was located across from Lincoln Park and on south side of Ocean. It had 130 rooms, was three stories high, and was added to later.

In the early morning of Nov. 8, 1888, the hotel caught fire. "I was attending a dance in a building at Second and Pine, standing and talking with several boys, who were smoking in back entrance, when one of them happened to look out the door and noticed fire coming from around chimney on second floor.

"I ran as fast as I could," says Frank, "to the Chautaqua-Tabernacle and rang the bell in the belfry for 15 minutes, and then ran to the burning hotel and helped save some of the furniture. The hotel burned to the ground; Willmore City had no fire equipment."

Frank ran for Willmore City's first city clerk and tax collector jobs and was elected. The job paid $50 a month at the time. His father was superintendent of Lincoln Park, making $50 a month. The city ruled that only one person in a family could be on public payroll. J. R. Cook wanted his son to have the job so he retired. He died in favors, party hats and a cake baked by me. 1524 1777 "Keep an cyclon him," Nickie's mother cautioned me about her little boy's tan-trums. "When Nickle wants his way he starts throwing things around."

'Thanks for tipping me off," I said, and quietly, I proceeded to set up an extra little table in one corner of the patio. No decorationsjust a crepe table cloth and a couple of bridge chairs.

Nickie was behaving beautifully until three year old a Tommy made a grab for Nickie's hat. Then things started flying.

I CALLED on both mothers, "Do you want mento handle this, or do you want to do it?"

"It's your party," they said spiritedly, refusing even to come near the scene. "Tell the kids we're not home."

Drawing up my face, I rushed back to the patia. "Quiet!" Instantly, there was quiet.

Holding out my hand to Tommy I said, "Give me Nickie's hat." The child handed over the hat with a big puzzled look in his face. Then I turned to Nickie, "Do you want your hat back?"

He reached out defiantly, "It's mine."

"No, not yet," I stalled. "First, pick up everything that you threw on the ground."

He didn't budge. But Sue, his older sister, started gathering up the things from the ground. "Get back to your seat," I ordered. "Nickie threw those things down and he will have to pick them up." But Nickle still didn't budge. His eyes filled with tears and his lips shaped the expected cry, "Mommie-"

"YOUR MOTHER isn't home," I said. Then, pointing to the little table in the cor-ner, I added firmly, 'That table there is for bad little boys. You're going to sit there all by yourself if you don't pick up the things you threw on the ground." I placed a little basket in his hand. "Put everything in that basket, Nickle."

Whatever it was-the sinister little table in the corner, or my "twins," slowly, peevishly, Nickie started cleaning up the ground. For added incentive, I helped him pick up a couple of paper cups myself. Then I handed him his hat. "Thank you, Nickie. You're a good boy."

I don't know whether mothers have favorites, but I must confess I do. One of them is little Jeanie.

Jeanie always serenades me when she wants to lure me out to play. As soon as I hear her golden voice I rush to the door, "How's my sweet little girl?"

"Can you play with me?" She will say this in a hushed voice, as though this was something between us only and not for the other kids to hear.

JEANIE is a long-bodied 31/2-year-old, with sparkling blue eyes, a golden face and a disposition that hardly befits a human child. I'm sure she must be an angel.

Summers are short and so are the Joys of a vacation. In the long winter months there are memories, and hopes of another year. There are Christmas cards, and occasional notes from the mothers of these kids. They come like rays of silver through the fog and haze that engulf the sea. "Debbie still talks about the wonderful time she had last summer." 'Today David included your name in his grace."

"Oh yes, In a minute, Just .wait\tilliI change my shoes."

Dental Dexterity

(Continued From Page 9) The students are allowed complete freedom in selecting their subjects for the test. Once the test is started each student then has eight hours of classroom time to complete his miniature project. Dr. Harrison examines each indi-vidual piece of finished wax and from this determines the amount of extra work each student must do in order to develop his dexterity to the proper level.

After 31 years the tests have proven that dental students who graduate with top honors are the same ones who made the best models four years before. In fact, accurate predictions of who will be outstanding and who will be below average can be made on the basis of these first-year sculpturing a p t i t u d e tests.

Today Dr. Harrison's office on the campus resembles an art gallery in miniature with more than 2,000 miniature objects carved from tiny cylindrical pieces of hard dental wax only an inch high and wax only an inch high and three-quarters of an inch wide. In the Lilliputian museum of students' work are handsomely and delicately carved musical instruments, automobiles, moveable gears, wind mills, sailboats, two-faced busts, movia projector. faced busts, movie projector. cigarette lighter, cabinet with moveable drawers, and a re-flection of this modern era,

Many of the wax miniattures are exquisitely carved and would win the admiration of any professional sculptor. And, as Dr. Harrison is fond of saying, "If you need a dentist for a particularly artistic piece of work come down to my art gallery. The intricate and perfectly carved miniature will be the dentist for the job."

Home Decorating

If you are constantly striving to improve the decor of your home, you'll want a new Sunset Book, "Interior Art and Decoration" (Lane Pub. Co., Menlo Park, Calif., $1.75), which contains hundreds of ideas along this line.

The book is aptly subtitled "Craft Projects and Decorating Ideas to Beautify Your Home," for it includes such devices as lighting, wall panels, shoji screens, plants, bookshelves, mobiles, Photos and drawings help to describe each. In addition, there are chapters on ways to display pictures, books, magazines; lamps you can make; window and entryway treatments; bedroom and bath; and children's room decorations.

Small Boat Atlas

Trailer - boat combinations have sent the zooming ranks boating enthusiasts far afield in search of all manner of waters for fishing, water skiing, motor and sail boat-ing. With this in mind, Sun-set Books offers "Northern California Boating Atlas" (Lane Book Co., $1.95), a small boat atlas filled with charts for all boatable rivers, lakes, reservoirs and ocean harbors from Monterey to Eureka, Included are full navigational details for San Francisco Bay and the Delta area. Boating vacationers heading north next summer will find this valuable.

T. A. I. (Transports Aeriens Intercontinentaux), the only airline that flies jets non-stop from the United States to Tahiti, announces three new tours to French Polynesia and Hawaii.

The 14-day "Playtime In Polynesia" tour has summer-time departures from Los Angeles on June 8 and 22, July 20, Aug. 3, 17, and 31. The program will continue in program effect until March, 1964, with departures approximately twice a month, Round trip air fare, hotel accommodations and most meals are included in the cost of $786, A plus factor for the budget-minded is that gratuities and "service" charges are unknown in the Polynesian Islands.

Lompoc Valley Bursts Into Brilliant Bloom.

The flower fields in Lompoc Valley will be at their prettiest during Lompoc Flower Festival, June 22-23.

By Fred Taylor Kraft

A PANORAMA of breathtaking color awaits visitors this month in booming Lompoc Valley, 55 miles northwest of Santa Barbara.

For June marks the peak blooming period of the longfamous commerically grown flower fields in the area, and the blossoms are expected to be at their best Juring Lom-poc's 11th annual Flower Festival—in celebration of the occasion-June 22-23.

More than 2,400 acres will be a blaze of color during the Festival - the fields which grow more than 50 per cent of the world's supply of flower seeds. In bloom will be at least 500 varieties of sweet peas, marigolds, petunias, stocks, daisies, larkspur, poppies and other prize

IT IS INTERESTING to note that some of the petunia seeds grown here last year sold for $3,000 an nunce

Visitors will be privileged to drive or walk the country

roads between great blocks of reds, pinks, blues and golds stretching-at timesas far as the eye can see.

The best displays, according to latest reports, will be along Hwy. 150, between Lompoc and Surf (on the coast), and the country highways leading north off Hwy. 150 in this area. Flamboyant displays also will be found along Santa Rosa Road, south and east of Lompoc.

As in the past, there will be buses for those lacking transportation.

LOMPOC, naturally, will capitalize on its flower heritage during the colorful Festival. All floats in the parade, starting at 10 a.m. June 22, will be decorated with live flowers. Industrial exhibits and concessions will be situated in Ryon Park, on W. Ocean Ave.

Those who drive to Lompoc for the occasion - and we strongly recommend such a trip-will find the area has made a fantastic growth in the past few years. Population of the Valley is now estimated at 25,000, no doubt stimulated by its proximity to Vanden-berg Air Force Base and Pt. Arguello Navy Missile Facility which covers a 90,000-acre strip of land bordering the Pacific immediately west of the city,

To reach Lompoc, visitors may leave Hwy. 101 at Las Cruces, turning left on Hwy. or at Buellton, picking up Hwy. 150.

LAS VEGAS has no corner on top entertainment. For instance, the South Shore Room of Harrah's Tahoe has lined up these stars: Robert Goulet (June 3-16), Lawrence Welk (June 17-July 7), Danny Thomas (July 8-14)), Sammy Davis Jr. (July 15-Aug 4), Dinah Shore (Aug. 5-18), Mitzi Gaynor (Aug. 19-Sept. 8), and Liberace (Sept. 9-22).

WEEKEND GADABOUTS:

Cowboy Marines stationed at Camp Pendelton, near Oceanside, stage their Leath-erneck Rodeo next Saturday and Sunday. It rates as the world's largest free-admission event of its kind,

From bathing beauties entered by 10 Southland coun-ties, Miss Southern California will be chosen in a setting of beautiful flowers at Oceanside on June 16.

BEAUMONT'S cherry harvest started this week with the picking of Black Tartarians. Other varieties will be available throughout June, including Royal Anns, Bings, Windsors, Vans and Lamberts. As usual, you can pick your own.

TIOGA ROAD, across the crest of the Sierra Nevada in Yosemite National Park to Lee Vining on U. S. Hwy. 395, was opened Memorial Day, Huge drifts of snow had to be cleared. Motorists using Tioga Road are urged to exercise extreme caution in areas where cuts were made through the drifts.

VISIONS of a stately old English drawing room are inspired by a handsomely appointed mahogany llqueur table owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson of 100 Atlantic Ave. It was handed down in Mrs. Hudson's side of the family, who came from Leeds, England, many years ago. The table is an ingenius example of one style of the various cabinets that were designed for the storage and serving of fine wines and liqueurs long ago.

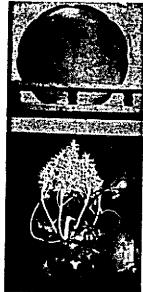

Although only 12 inches square and 32 inches high, the table is a compact marvel of space-saving efficiency. Four genulne Bristol glass decanters with stoppers are fitted into the center, which are surrounded with 16 liqueur glasses, each one in its own small compartment. The complete unit rests on a sort of tray affair with a handle, which lifts out easily when desired. The trim, box-shaped top is hinged, so that it breaks into two separate sections that fold back when opened, The modest carving at the base and a simple, gold-effect inlaid stripe in a square outline on the cover, enhance the dignity of the old piece.

THE GLASSES and decanters were made in Bristol, England, one of the most famous of glassmaking centers of the 18th century. They are clear glass with a decorative ribbing in delft blue, a color and style particularly characteristic of the Bristol factory.

The entire cabinet is in excellent condition. The varnish, mellow with age, is thought to be the original. There is a Bond Street label, "P. S. Neale," and a catalog number. The acme of material, workmanship and design incorporated into the liqueur table indicate that "the best" was considered none too good for such equipment in days gone by.

FTEN blooming lonely on the sand dunes of the Mojave desert and the sandy areas of Indio are the evening primroses. While it is true that their white blossoms, later turning to pink loveliness, may be wasted on the desert air, they do leave behind a souvenir of their short life on earth to challenge the ingenuity of man. For strange as it may seem after blooming the stems of the plant have a peculiar way of turning inward and upward so that, when dried by the sun, they form a basket or a bird cage.

The roots are near the surface and the plants may be gathered easily on a visit to the desert. There are many sizes and shapes of these plants and all will not be perfect because the sphinx moths

New Garden Club

First meeting of the West Garden Grove Branch, Callifornia National Fuchsia Society, is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Bryant School Cafetorium, 8371 Orangewood Ave., Garden Grove. Mrs. Conrad Personne of Hawthome, an accredited flower show judge, will speak and show colored slides of fuchsia uses in landscaping.

Anyone interested in gardening is invited, said Mrs. Jean Cregar of Garden Grove, club president pro tem. Prizes, a plant table and refreshments are planned and admission is free. The club plans meetings regularly on the first Tuesday of each month. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Cregar, 539-1876, or Mrs. William Wigan, 897-9891.

By choosing the desired shape and size, the plants may be used in their natural state or sprayed gold or silver or a pastel color to harmonize with room decor.

In the photograph at left, a dried plant was used as a hanging basket, sprayed white, and an artificial blooming nasturtium vine was entwined inside and left to hang down. The vine had a covered wire in it so that it could be twisted or bent as desired. An easy way to hang such a basket from a plate rail or valance box is to use a nylon rishing line cut to length, tying one end of line to the plant and using a fish hook on the other end. Then it may be moved to different places for different effects.

How to Have Flowers All Year

By Joe Littlefield

THOSE WHO sing of the flowers that bloom in the spring are those who don't live in Long Beach area, because here the flowers bloom the year around — and just two kinds of shrubs will do the Job. They are roses and camellias . . . roses from spring late into fall and camellias overlapping those seasons and filling the gap between.

Camellias may be grouped roughly into three divisions by reason of their blooming seasons; some, such as Dal Kagura, blooming early in the fall, Debutante in midseason and Blood of China late Into spring.

You don't have to wait till bare-root season to plant roses. Your local nurseryman and garden center dealer has them in cans, ready to set

The same is true of camellias. They are in cans or pots. Many nurserymen tag plants to show colors and forms.

A clever way to have portable color in your patio or for bare areas of the garden is to grow some camellias in pots or wooden containers. Plant them in a soil mixture composed of three parts of garden soil and two parts of a prepared mulch mixture. They'll grow some during the summer, and supply flowers during fall or winter season. Grow them in the shadedarea of the patio.

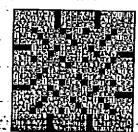

They're excellent plants in

To Install

Belmont Heights Garden Club will install a new slate of officers, with Mrs. Josephine Woods as president, at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Wesley Hall, Third Street and Ter-mino Avenue, Others to be installed include Mrs. Marian Liken, vice president; Mrs. Katherine Grasher, second vice president; Mrs. Agnes Hemphill, secretary, and Mrs. Izora Neff, treasurer.

Mrs. Jane Zelsdorf will be installing officer and Mrs. Colla Lewis will be chairman Colla Lewis will be chairman of tea hostesses, assisted by Minnie Powell, Cora Cook, Elsa DuLuart, Victoria Zam-brano, Julia Morris and Miss Mildred Morris.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE (See Page 34.)

Pink Perfection, Purity and Blood of China (I-r above) will span the October-into-early-May season with bloom.

ROYAL Bird of Paradise is another fall through winter season bloomer. It is somewhat tender to frost, standing cold from 30 to 20 degrees above zero, so use judgment when planting them out. Other long bloomers are Helleborus or "lenten rose" and saxifrage. They flower all winter long and are low growing perennials to around a foot tall. Helleborus won't stand more than an hour or so of early morning sun, or late afternoon sun in milder areas. In hot sections, it and saxifrage should be in shade.

Consult your nurseryman

LAWN DISEASES

"What causes brown spots in my lawn?" is a question often heard at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY.

There are a number of causes, but the most common is lawn fungus. While many types exist, the usual ones in this climate are Dollar Spot, Fairy Ring and Root Rot.

Dollar Spot shows in small, brown, round spots, spreading from one to ser-eral over the yard within a icw days.

Fairy Ring forms rings which spread outward and is sometimes accompanied by toadstools.

Root Rot grows in the shade and appears rather gradually under trees or in the absence of direct sun.

These types and many more are controlled by lawn fungicides. Preventative spraying should be done in May and June as fungus spors are usually present and spors are usually present and should be destroyed before their active season in July and August. This will pre-vent their disfiguring so many lawns each season.

We have the fungicides needed to combut these discuss at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY at 5431 E. Spring St. (at Bell-flower Blvd.), Long Beach—ph. HA 5-1362.

Caricature by Bob April DON POLIFKA

A Specialist

MMACULATE goblets . . . shining silverware . . . snowy tablecloths . . . fine service by carefully selected waiters and waitresses . . . elegant atmosphere of a modern English inn.

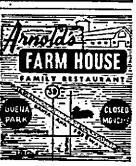

Those are some of the qual-Ities which make Hoefly's, 4911 E. Second St., one of the most outstanding restaurants in the entire Southern California area, Co-owners Irving and Hal Solomon have turned this Belmont Shore landmark into a showplace restaurant which attracts the continued patronage of councilmen, other top civic lead-ers, film and TV personalities and sports celebrities.

Hoefly's large staff, accent-ed by the work of such specialists as chef Jay Isbell and maitre d' Don Polifka, is perhaps one of the best trained in this area. And it goes with-out saying that Hoefly's cuiine—famed for over 33 years is always of superlative character.

Currently drawing raves are several new items added to the Chef's Selections' side of the menu. Four of these specialties are featured daily, changing each day. Today's features, for example, will include boneless breast of capon Cacciatiore with spaghetti; roasted whole chicken with candied yams, dressing and giblet gravy ($6.50 for two persons); roast leg of lamb with savory dressing and mint jelly; and Swiss steak with mushrooms. Priced from $3.25 those delectable entrees are accompanied by a chilled dish of relishes, hearty soup, magnificent tossed salad, sourdough and pumpernickle breads, beverage and dessert.

Also featured are Hoefly's extraordinary prime rib au jus, charcoal-broiled choice steaks and sea foods, TEDD THOMEY
